Board Looking For Children Needing Special Services

The Garrett County Board of Education recently began a county-wide effort to locate and identify those handicapped children from birth to 20 years of age who have not been in school. Garrett County is among the 23 educational units in Maryland who undertake this annual Child Find.

"Child Find" is designed to search out young people between the ages of birth and 20 years of age who are blind, deaf, physically handicapped, emotionally disturbed, mentally retarded or with learning disabilities.

Albert A. Coviello, director of pupil services, has indicated that Child Find is a comprehensive statewide campaign to locate handicapped children who are not in school, to counsel and advise their families and to provide special education services to the child.

Persons who have a handicapped child or know of one that is not receiving an educational program are asked to call the Garrett County Board of Education at (301) 334-8121 and ask for Albert A. Coviello, Sarah G. Wilson, or William T. Carlson.

Indian Trails Map Available

A map of Indian trails in Garrett County is now available to the public. It is a reproduction of the map created two years ago by Kenneth Ridder for the Garrett County Historial Society.

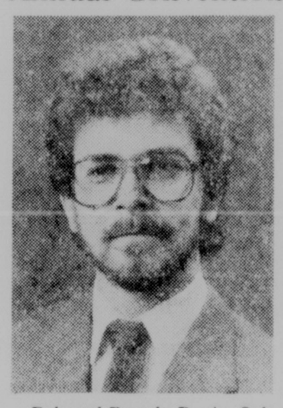
The original map was the result of data compiled by Mrs. Mary Jones from various historical sources. These included "Indian Trails" by Capt. Charles Hoye, and "Tableland Trails," by Felix Robinson. Additional material was also taken from the society's publication, The Glades Star.

Approximately 24 inches square, the map shows the nine major Indian trails of Garrett County. It also shows the approximate location of 15 known Indian campsites. The whole map is constructed on a State Highway Administration base map for quick reference to existing roads, streams and towns.

Offered for sale at $4.00 per copy, the maps are available at the Garrett County Historical museum, located on Center Street in Oakland, the Ruth Enlow Library and the Oakland Stationery Store.

Yoder School Students Study Photography

Students in grades seven and eight at Yoder School recently participated in a two-day workshop at the school on black and white photography. Steve Wilson, president of the school's PTA, conducted the sessions.



Each student learned the basic functions on a 35mm camera, including lighting and shutter speed, film types and speeds, picture composition and distance. Classroom instruction was followed by hands-on experiences.

The first picture taken by each student was directly supervised by Wilson. Then the students were on their own to decide about camera adjustments and photo composition.

The second day of the workshop consisted of test printing and cropping pictures. Each student printed his or her own pictures.

A special 8x10 photograph of the school was presented to the school, to be framed and hung.

Helicopters To Be Utilized To Check PE Lines

Potomac Edison Company linemen are scheduling helicopter flights over the utility's lines and equipment in Garrett County, beginning July 2, according to G.L. Kremer, PE's line superintendent in Oakland. He said they will check for broken insulators, damage to poles from woodpeckers and insects and numerous other things that could affect electric service. They will also be looking at PE rights-of-way to see if brush needs clearing or trees need trimming.

Kremer said the patrols should take several days. He said any damaged equipment will be reported and crews will be dispatched to make necessary repairs.

"We use the helicopter to spot potential problem areas before they cause us trouble," he said. "The aerial patrols are a major factor in helping us maintain reliable service to our customers."

There could be a slight change in the flying schedule due to unforeseen weather conditions.

Goldstein To Be Speaker For Tolerance Sunday

Louis L. Goldstein, Comptroller of the Treasury for the State of Maryland, will be the feature speaker for "Maryland's Tolerance Sunday," which will be held Sunday, July 29, at 7 p.m. at the Garrett Community College gymnasium in McHenry. This event is part of the "Garrett Week" activities which have been planned by Garrett County's Heritage Committee to celebrate Maryland's 350th birthday.

"Maryland's Tolerance Sunday" will consist of several patriotic selections by the Northern and Southern High School Bands, plus remarks by Master of Ceremonies, Rev. Martin Feild, from St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. Goldstein will speak on the subject of religious tolerance, both in its 17th Century context at Maryland's founding and as a principle with strong contemporary relevance.

Following Goldstein's speech will be a flag ceremony presented by the Mt. Top Ministerial Association. This will be a processional entrance and non-sectarian blessing of the U.S., Maryland, County and religious flags. The recessional, "Amazing Grace" will then be presented by the Highland Bagpipers.

Born in Calvert County, Goldstein serves as Maryland's chief fiscal officer, collecting the bulk of the state's revenues. He also serves on the Board of Public Works, as a member of the Governor's cabinet and as chairman of several other commissions and boards.

Goldstein's political career began in 1938 as a member of the Maryland House of Delegates and continued with service as Maryland State Senator from 1946-1959. He was elected comptroller in 1958, and was re-elected in 1962, 1966, 1970, 1974, 1978 and 1982. He has received numerous awards which include the Marylander of the year Award by the Maryland Colonial Society in 1983 and the Maryland State Chamber of Commerce Public Service Award in 1982.

Other activities planned during Garrett Week include a "Deer Park Hotel Slide Presentation" on Monday, July 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the Ruth Enlow Library; the symposuim titled "John Garrett and His Railroad to the West" on Tuesday, July 31, at 7:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College by Dr. John F. Stover; a slide presentation on Braddock's Trail by Robert Ruckert on Thursday, August 2, at Garrett Community College; and a drama written by Frances Acton titled "Saturday's Child" to be presented Friday, August 3, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, August 5, at 3 p.m. at the Rut at the Village Inn. This drama is the story of Garrett County and its coming of age in the 19th century.

Also on Saturday, August 4, will be the "Heritage Birthday Extravaganza" in Friendsville as part of the annual Friendsville Summerfest.

Former County Resident, Head Of FBI Academy, Featured In "People"

A former Garrett Countian, James McKenzie, was featured in the "Teacher" department of the June 18 issue of "People" magazine, focusing on his role as head of the FBI Academy, Quantico, Va.

McKenzie, the son of Jonas McKenzie, Alpine Lake, and Mrs. Pearl Davis, Grantsville, was selected as head of the academy in 1980, after 18 years as an FBI special agent.

The academy, which trains over 600 agents a year, chosen from thousands of applicants, includes courses in psychology, white collar crime, computer crime, criminal investigation techniques, and forensic science, and emphasizes holistic physical health, according to the "People" article.

"We spend a lot of time telling them what they can't do. We try to rattle them and show them their limits," McKenzie said. "I have fired three people who demonstrated independence to a fault. Being an FBI agent is a 24-hour job. We take notes on any kind of abnormal behavior because it reflects on their judgment. Those who march to a different drummer won't make it."

According to the article, the academy places a strong emphasis on the study of human behavior, teaching agents to deal with all kinds of ethnic groups, to prevent problems that could arise from violating their cultural mores.

McKenzie pointed to the leadership of FBI Director William Webster as a major element in changes the FBI has experienced since the days of J. Edgar Hoover that have resulted in a better relationship with local police departments and the public. "When Bill Webster took over in 1978, he said, "I'm through with thinking about the past. I want us to look to the future," McKenzie commented to "People".

The success of McKenzie's training programs was illustrated with an anecdote about a window washer who was in and out of his office a number of times without arousing his suspicion. He later found out that she was an agent-in-training, with him as her unsuspecting target for a surveillance assignment.

PRESIDENT RONALD REAGAN congratulated James McKenzie, director of the FBI Academy on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the FBI last year. McKenzie, a former resident and graduate of Northern High School, was featured in the June 18 issue of "People" magazine, which focused on McKenzie's work training FBI agents.

Woodland Acres Improved By Forestry Program

Olin S. Daivs, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said 2,091 acres of Maryland woodlands have been reforested or improved during 1983 under the Forestry Incentives Program. From these acres the state ultimately will derive 262,000 cubic feet of timber and timber products.

"Tree planting and tree stand improvement are two of the major practices offered under the program," said Davis. Tree planting is intended to increase the production of timber and improve the environment. Tree stand improvement is aimed at increasing tree growth and quality on sites suitable for production of sawtimber and veneer logs.

The 10 year-old program encourages private non-industrial landowners to raise marketable timber on their land and shares the cost of forestry practices with them.

Because the Forestry Incentives Program emphasizes cost-effective timber production, participation is limited to land capable of producing more than 50 cubic feet of commercial timber per acre annually. The program offers agreements in designated counties where landowners can plan tree planting and timber stand improvement measures for up to 10 years. To be eligible, farmers must own at least 10 but not not more than 1,000 acres of forest land.

About 74,200 U. S. landowners have signed agreements to increase timber production on 2,383,100 acres of forest land since the program began. Cost sharing payments at the end of September last year amounted to $101,915,600.

Swanton Man Is Found Guilty In Allegany County

A Swanton was found guilty of battery during Circuit Court proceedings held Monday in Allegany County.

Steven J. McGreevy, 29, had been found guilty earlier in a November 14, 1983, District Court hearing, but had appealed Judge Paul Stakem's decision.

Circuit Court Judge Gary G. Leasure fined McGreevy $250, plus court costs, and gave him a 30-day suspended jail sentence. McGreevy must also observe 24 months of unsupervised probation conditions and must make $211 on restitution.

The charge stemmed from a September 17, 1983, incident at the Cumberland Fairgrounds when McGreevy struck Herbert J. Kraft, Jr., Carlisle, Pa., three times and threw a beer at him.

PLAY CLAY FOR RAINY DAYS

Keeping children busy on rainy days when they would much rather be outside playing can sometimes be frustrating for both parents and baby-sitters. Try making Play Clay - it's an inexpensive craft that can satisfy any age and it's easier to make than cookies. Here's the basic recipe:

PLAY CLAY

2 cups Baking Soda
1 cup cornstarch
1¼ cups cold water

Stir together baking soda and cornstarch in saucepan. Add water and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly. When mixture is the consistency of moist mashed potatoes, turn out on a plate and cover with a damp cloth. When it is cool enough to handle, gently pat until smooth.

Roll out the Play Clay between two sheets of waxed paper to a ¼ inch-thickness. Then, use cookie cutters or a table knife to cut different shapes. Remove the Play Clay sculptures to a plate or other flat surface to dry. To shorten the drying time, heat shapes in a preheated oven at 350°F. for approximately 15 minutes. If they are not hard enough, continue to heat in five-minute increments.

After drying, smooth the edges with an emery board. Then paint with water colors, poster paints or a felt-tip pen. Protect finished work with varnish, shellac or coats of clear nail polish. Objects will have a shiny glaze and last for years.

You can put holes in the tops of the shapes for hanging. Or, put a magnet on the back and use as a refrigerator note holder. Play clay can be molded into vases, pencil holders, paper weights, etc.—an endless number of possibilities. Play Clay is a fun, inexpensive way to have fun.

FOOD NOTES

Chicken is an economical meat source and it's quite nutritious. Barbecued chicken is a real favorite in the summer. Here's a recipe I think you'll enjoy trying.

2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup orange juice
½ cup catsup
¼ cup honey
¼ cup corn oil
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/8 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

Mix together in a 1-quart saucepan, pineapple juice, catsup, honey, corn oil, salt, prepared mustard and pepper sauce. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer about 30 minutes until slightly thickened. Cool. Place chicken in deep mixing bowl, pour sauce over chicken to coat evenly. Cover bowl and set aside about 30 minutes or longer. Broil about 6 inches from source of heat about 1 hour or until done, turning occasionally and basting with marinade. Simmer any leftover sauce until reduced to half the amount to make a sweet-sour sauce or dip to serve with chicken. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

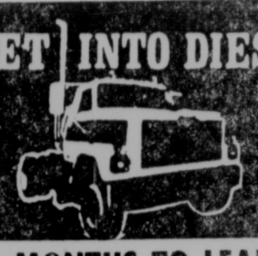
"An ordinary tree on a hot summer day transpires seven tons of water, the evaporation of producing the same cooling effect as ten room air conditioners running twenty hours," stated Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz, as he commented on how important trees are to our well being.

Trees and forests are too often taken for granted as things of beauty, homes for wildlife, or a place to enjoy the out of doors. It's true that forests and trees provide pleasant settings for parks and open space areas for camping, hiking, riding, hunting and other recreational pursuits, but they also provide environmental benefits that should be appreciated.

The cooling effect of trees is evident after walking through a shaded city park and then out on the surrounding streets. Noise can be reduced by as much as 50% when belts of trees and shrubs create a barrier to freeways in residential areas.

Trees can act as a canopy to cushion the impact of falling rain on a forest floor thus helping to regulate water flow. Trees are an important part of the hydrologic cycle that keeps the earth's water system in balance, rain falling, collecting in water basins or trees, evaporating back into the atmosphere and falling again in a form of precipitation. Forests and their floors of absorbent litter and humus provide an exceptionally efficient filtering system, thus water that reaches groundwater aquifers or appears in the streams and rivers of the state is of high quality. Surface runoff transporting a variety of pollutants may carry them directly into open waters of the state, but where enough forest buffer adjacent to streams is available, much, if not all, pollutants can run through this natural filter system and be removed.

Forests and trees furnish food, water and cover for wildlife providing a habitat for the reproduction of the species.



People and animals benefit from the forests and trees in rural and city settings. Good care and management of the forest resource will insure trees for wood products and other intangible benefits that we have grown to take for granted.

For other information about forest management and its benefits in Garrett County, contact Project Forester Ernie Metz at (301) 334-3296.

Campfire Programs, July 4 "Fun Day" Set At State Park

Three campfire programs and July 4 "Fun Day" have been scheduled by officials of Deep Creek Lake State Park.

The campfire program for this evening, which gets underway at 8:30, will include the showing of two films, "Break on Through" and "Lost in the Woods."

Saturday evening's program, also set to get underway at 8:30, will be a presentation entitled "Black Bear of Maryland" and conducted by Al Bourgeois, District Wildlife Manager for the Maryland Wildlife Service.

A film entitled "Journey Into Summer" will be shown at Tuesday's campfire program, also beginning at 8:30.

Campfire programs are also slated for Thursday, July 5, and Saturday, July 7, the details of which will be announced in next week's edition of The Republican.

July 4 has been declared "Fun Day" by park officials and will include a full day of activities, beginning at 9 a.m. Sack races, three legged races, Ping-Pong spoon races, crab races, a watermelon seed spitting contest and a greased watermelon battle are among the events.

Research Facility In Honor Of Lions, Lionesses

With the support of the Lions and Lionesses, international service organizations, the Johns Hopkins Wilmer Eye Institute is undertaking a major expansion of its diabetic eye research programs and clinical facilities.

The project has been initiated with the help of District 22 W (Western Maryland) of the Lions and Lionesses, which have made a long-term financial commitment to diabetic eye research at Wilmer as part of the Lions' Diabetic Awareness Program. As a result, a clinical research facility has been established in recognition of Lions and Lionesses of District 22 W.

"The impact of the Lions' support, financially and otherwise, is tremendous," says Arnall Patz, M.D., professor and chairman of opthalmology and director of Wilmer. "We are pleased to be associated with an organization that has made superb efforts in blindness prevention programs."

The two groups are a long-time major supporter of the Maryland Eye bank, the world's leading eye bank, the education and training in new procedures. The Maryland bank is the major source of corneas used for transplants at Wilmer.

"The Lions and Lionesses consider their support for diabetic eye programs at Wilmer a permanent program in the foreseeable future," says Richard A. Killmeier, chairman of District 22 W's Diabetic Awareness Program. Mr. Killmeier, George J. Barthel, district governor of 22 W, and Louis J. Bandell, executive director of the Maryland Affiliate of the American Diabetes Association, attended the dedication at Wilmer of a bronze plaque honoring the 67 Lions and Lionesses Clubs in District 22 W, including the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park, Deep Creek Lake, Grantsville and Kitzmiller Lions Clubs and the Deep Creek Lake Lioness Club.

Diabetic retinopathy, a disorder marked by blood vessel changes in the retina, is the leading cause of blindness in people under 60 in the United States. Laser treatment, which has proven beneficial in many patients, was pioneered at Wilmer by Dr. Patz and his colleagues. Currently, a number of diabetic eye research programs are underway, headed by Robert Murphy, associate professor of ophthalmology. Wilmer is the largest center for patient care and research of diabetic retinopathy in the country.

PICKING A FUTURE WINNER

It is a well known axiom that location is one of the most important elements in property value. Let's take that one step further. An even better buy, would be an investment of a sound property in a so-so area that will INCREASE in value in the future. Buying into an area that is strongly on the comeback trail is one way to do this and shorten the success odds.

In an area of this kind, trend is everything. The trick is not to get in so early that you are one of the earliest pioneers but early enough that there is still plenty of appreciation left. Being an early pioneer is fine if you are a gambler possessed with lots of patience. It's safer, though, to buy into such an area AFTER the restoration trend is unmistakenly established.

A neighborhood that's a good candidate for restoration must have an intrinsic location advantage: say, next to a prestigious area or in a good walk-to-work location. It must also have good basic houses. Perhaps we can help you find just such a location for your future winner.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Nine Northern High FFA Members Earn Maryland State Farmer Degree

An unprecedented nine Northern Garrett Future Farmers were awarded the Maryland State Farmer Degree on June 20 during the Maryland FFA Convention at the University of Maryland. Although Maryland had a quota of 84 this year, the nine Northern members were among only 73 qualified and accepted.

A minimum of $500 in savings or investment in the students project program, leadership qualities in the FFA Club and general knowledge of the constitution are the basic requirements of the State Farmer Degree. The certificates may be awarded in either production agriculture or agribusiness with three percent of the state membership being eligible in any year.

Dove Wassell and Joe Friend (see separate stories) were among the nine. In addition to the State Farmer Degree, they each won additional state and national honors.

Mark Harman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Harman, was rated as Region I Star Farmer and received special recognition and a check during the awards. Harman is active in the Polled Hereford Association and has raised Herefords as his vo-ag project. He has served as vice president of the North Garrett Chapter and has been active in committee work and projects undertaken by the chapter. Mark plans to attend college this fall in pursuit of a degree in general agriculture. He participated in the Farm Management Contest during the convention, winning second place in the state and will represent Maryland in the Eastern States Exposition in September.

Richard Bender is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bender, Accident. His project is Holstein cattle, with his cow rated as the highest producer in the county one year. He has served as president of the Junior and North Garrett Chapter. He was in the Farm Management Contest during the Convention and will be a member of the team to represent Maryland in Springfield this fall. The farm management course on vo-ag was completed a year ago, making the rotention of knowledge "outstanding" by Richard and his teammates in completing the nine-page exam prepared by Production Credit, according to Harold Loughrie, FFA advisor at Northern. Richard plans to continue working on the home farm and grow into the dairy production business.

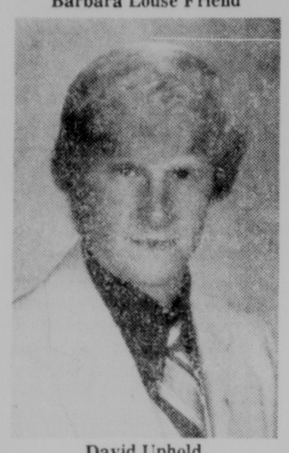
Roy Miller



Roy Miller lives with Mr. and Mrs. James Margroff in the Cove. The 1984 Northern graduate amassed his net worth in the production of market hogs and market lambs and the sale of sweet corn in the summer months. As a side line, Roy worked as a ('worm picker'), selling bait to lake fishermen. He was picked as the 1984 Most Improved student in agriculture and awarded a certificate at the end of the school year by the Vocational Advisory Council.

Barbara Louise Friend is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Friend of Bear Creek. Her project has been horses, with a major interest in horse judging. She also made the North Garrett Dairy Judging team two years and was the top judge of the team. She has been active in planning the annual banquet and fruit sale and served in varied committees and the soil judging team during her four years in the FFA.

David Uphold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Uphold of White Rock, was awarded a certificate in Agribusiness for his earnings and savings in working for Slagel's Windy Acres Limousin Farm. He produced potatoes and cabbage as a sideline on small acreage at home earning his two vegetable production awards in 1983 and 1984 at the chapter level. David is presently in Memorial Hospital due to injuries he received in an automobile accident. His State Farmer Pin and Certificate was accepted by John Miller at the convention and will be delivered to Uphold at the hospital.

Roger Wilhelm, son of Mrs. Alice Wilhelm, Avilton, was awarded the Agribusiness Certificate and Pin for his employment at the Grantsville Stockyard under the management of Ward Thomas and Sons. In addition to working at the yard, Roger has produced market lambs as a project and served as reporter and Junior Advisor in the North Garrett Chapter. He was high salesperson two years in the chapter fruit sale. His mother was awarded an honorary chapter membership, plus a parent of the year award for their efforts in chapter fund raising.

Kenneth Weimer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Weimer, of Grantsville. His certificate in Agribusiness was earned by self-employment with the family garden tractor. Kenneth plows and harrows gardens in the spring, mows lawns in the summer and blows snow in the winter for Grantsville customers.

In addition to the nine State Farmers, Kelli Grove, Marla Brenneman and John Miller attended the convention as official delegates representing the two FFA Chapters at Northern.

The State Farmers were honored at a banquet given in their honor on Wednesday evening. The 1983 Maryland Star Farmer and his mother, Yvonne, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Friend and Miss Cristy Fratz, Mrs. Alice Wilhelm, Cathy and James Margroff, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Harman, Rex Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stemple traveled to the University for this function and the State Farmer Awards Ceremony.

Local FFA Member Named Winner Of Maryland Agribusiness Award

Joe Friend, of the North Garrett FFA Chapter, took top state honors at the Maryland FFA Convention by being named Maryland FFA Star Agribusiness winner. The son of Joe and Frances Friend of Accident, Friend will represent Maryland at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., this fall.

The 1984 graduate of Northern High School was picked to represent the 3,000 FFA members from Maryland from his work in the family stockyard business at Accident and Waynesburg, Pa., and his record of participation in Future Farmers Club activities. Over the years Friend has amassed many times the minimum $500 net worth required for the State Farmer Degree. He has worked as common laborer, clerk, truck driver and drover in both the Maryland and Pennsylvania yards.

In the FFA Club, Friend has served two terms as treasurer with "outstanding performance" according to Harold Loughrie, FFA advisor. He was instrumental in the BOAC Community Project of raising one percent of the fair ground purchase. In addition to motivating other chapter members, he sponsored a rummage sale at the stockyard that netted nearly $500 towards the purchase of fair stock. He was awarded the second place state certificate for his volunteer efforts on behalf of the FFA. He was also the regional winner of the tractor operation contest and represented Western Maryland in the state contest during the convention.

Friend plans to attend Garrett Community College, and major in business management this fall while continuing part-time work in the family business.

Farm Real Estate Values Higher

The value of Maryland farmland and buildings averaged $2,239 an acre on April 11, up $65 from 1983, but down $177 from 1982. Last year's three percent increase in farmland values, coupled with a 4.8 percent increase rise in the Consumer Price Index, implies a 1.8 percent drop in the real value of Maryland farmland.

Farmland values declined in real terms each year since 1981. Cash rents for whole farm on April 1, 1984, decreased seven percent from last year.

FIRST PLACE WINNER — Sherri Wilt, a member of the Red House 4-H Club, leads her 1,000-pound plus Hereford steer from the show ring after placing first in the intermediate division of a Fitting and Showmanship contest. The event was held during steer camp at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Sherri's project steer will be a participant in the annual 4-H and FFA Livestock Sale on Saturday, August 18, 7:30 p.m., during the Garrett County Fair.

Sweet Potato Production Down

Sweet potato production in Maryland during 1983 totaled 182,000 hundredweight, down 28 percent from the 1982 production. Harvested acres and yields both dropped 15 percent from 1982.

Wheat Production Statistics Noted

Maryland's winter wheat crop is forecast at 5,332,000 bushels, three percent above 1983's 5,166,000 bushel production. The production increase will be the result of a 1,000-acre increase in harvested acres from 1983 as well as a bushel per acre increase in yield.

United State's winter wheat production, as of June 1, is forecast at 1.97 billion bushels, one percent less than 1983's production of 1.99 billion bushels. The U.S. wheat crop is expected to yield 38.2 bushels per acre, down 3.6 bushels from the record 41.8 bushels yield of 1983. Growers expect to harvest 51.6 million acres of winter wheat for grain, up 8 percent from 1983's 47.7 million acres.

Steer Camp Held At Fairgrounds

A 4-H and FFA Steer Camp was held recently at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry, to help members learn how to properly groom and show their animals for the 1984 Garrett County Fair, August, 13-18.

John Wildesen, Uniontown, (Md.) a native of Garrett County, assisted the youth in working with their animals. Washing, trimming and brushing of the animal's hair and clipping the hoofs were all part of a busy Friday evening and Saturday activities.

The camp concluded with a Fitting and Showmanship contest for the 22 members and their steers. Other beef project members attended to observe. John Friend, Accident, placed first in the Junior Contest; Sherri Wilt, Oakland, first in the Intermediate Contest; and Chuck Fitzwater, Deer Park, first in the Senior Contest.

Steers, lambs and hogs will be sold at the 4-H and FFA Livestock Sale held at the Garrett County Fair on August 18 at 7:30 p.m. Steer carcasses can be divided into halves to accommodate those who wish to share an animal.

Local FFA Group Attends Annual State Convention

The Oakland FFA chapter recently attended the 56th Annual State FFA Convention held at the University of Maryland on the Baltimore Campus.

Four of the chapter members received their State Agricultrualist Degrees, the highest award a member can earn in the state association. Karen Hamilton, Troy Liller, Ted Evans, and John Weeks received their degrees at the Wednesday evening session. They were also honored, along with past state officers, at a banquet sponsored by the State FFA Alumni earlier in the evening. Don Wilt and Wayne B. Hamilton represented the Oakland chapter as past state officers of the Maryland FFA Association.

Criss Kepple, Chuck Fitzwater, Ted Evans, and Patricia Hamilton participated in the Ag. Production Bowl contest held Wednesday morning. The team placed fourth in the state.

Karen Hamilton, daughter of Brooks Hamilton, Red House, was elected as State FFA Secretary for the 1984-85 state officer team. Karen's duties will include representing Maryland as a voting delegate to the National FFA Convention in November.

Criss Kepple and Chuck Fitzwater served as official voting delegates for the Oakland FFA chapter during the business sessions. Other chapter members attending the convention included: Marsha Custer, Loren Bowser, Ted Evans, Leonard Custer and advisor Janet L. Boggess.

COMPENSATION FILING LATE

Many employees who have been hurt at work think their employer has filed their Workmen's Compensation Claim. After the two-year limitation period has passed, the employee finds out the employer only filled out the accident and sickness forms. This could mean you will not be eligible for compensation benefits such as vocational rehabilitation, permanent disability awards and the lifetime medical coverage not provided through accident and sickness coverage.

KITZMILLER'S ONLY CRAFT SHOP, Crafts n' Things, opened its doors recently on W. Center Street, offering not only finished work on consignment from area craftspeople, but also all types of supplies and instruction manuals. Since owner Barbara McKenney, shown above, maintains a full-time job with Burnett, Eiswert, Crawford and Janes, she is assisted in the shop by her mother, Eva Myers, and her husband, Ron, and son, Brian. Shop hours are noon to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9 to 5 on Saturday. Opening the crafts shop is the culmination of a life-long dream of McKenney, who is a graduate of Southern High School and a resident of Kitzmiller. Classes in various crafts will be offered this fall.

Return From High Adventure Trip

Traci Martin, daughter of Harry and Lois Martin, Oakland, Kim Grimm, daughter of Francis and Rita Grimm, Mt. Lake Park, returned Saturday from a two-week High Adventure trip.

They visited Gatlinsburg, Tenn., the World's Fair in New Orleans, the French Quarter, Bourbon Street and took a cruise by paddlewheel on the Mississippi River. They also parasailed, visited Disney World, Epcot Center, Daytona Beach, Myrtle Beach, Virginia Beach and Busch Gardens.

The girls plan to travel west next summer, when the High Adventure Program will take them climbing and rapelling in Colorado.

Hunter Safety Course Offered

Hunter Safety will be the program for the Garrett County Jr. Rifle Club on July 2, 9 and 11 from 6-9 p.m. at the Extension Office in Oakland.

The club is open to all youth 8-19 years of age.

Kim Trickett, Oakland, is the leader of the club. She will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swiger of the Gortner area.

William Ferry, Shallmar, will be the instructor for the Hunter Safety Program. Any youth interested in joining the club for safety training and marksmanship in rifles, should call the Extension Office at 334-2145, according to Ted Sprangel, Extension Agent, and make a reservation for the course.

Tourism Increase Looks Promising

Based on the increased number of requests for tourist information received by the Maryland Office of Tourist Development during the first five months of this year, 1984 will be a banner year for tourism in the State, the Office reported this week.

In excess of 125,000 requests were received during the months of January through May compared to 83,000 during the same period last year, showing a 50.4 percent increase, State Tourism Director Kurt Alverson said.

"Although it is a little early to make a prediction of the impact tourism will have on our State economy, I feel it will be a substantial increase," Alverson added.

Alverson attributed the increase in the number of requests to several factors. He said, "In advance and during our spring advertising campaign for 1984, we held a number of media receptions in major cities where the State identity was low. These receptions gave us opportunities to talk face-to-face with editors and travel writers and invite them to come here and learn more about the State.

"These encounters," Alverson continued, "attracted a surprising number of writers for the first time. The familiarization tours we conducted for them resulted in many excellent travel features in major newspapers. These tours, working in conjunction with our solid and appealing advertising campaign attracted a greater number of potential visitors to mail in the coupons on our ads or to send in the reader service cards.

"Additionally, we started to mail out on a monthly basis in-house produced features about events, attractions and things to do in Maryland. These are being mailed to approximately 80 metropolitan newspapers."

Also showing a sizeable increase was the number of pieces of travel information mailed during the months of January through May 1984. This amounted to 474,677 compared to 320,596 in 1983.

"Another area we are pleased with is the large increase in the number of pieces of tourist information mailed in bulk quantities," Alverson added. "This increase was 140,889 thus far in 1984, compared to 62,749 mailed during the same period in 1982. It means we are reaching a greater number of agencies, such as AAA travel offices, tour and bus groups, which have indicated their interest in coming to the State."

Gorman Area House Destroyed By Fire Sunday

A two-story house located along White Church Road near Gorman was totally destroyed by fire early Sunday morning as firefighters had a problem with water supply, according to Earl Wilt, chief of the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department.

Gorman and Bayard VFDs were called to the residence of Mrs. Thelma Cerne and her daughter, Nancy Cerne, at 4:48 a.m. and discovered flames had involved a room on the first floor. Firemen were able to nearly contain the blaze, however when the water supply had been depleted, the fire gained momentum and the remainder of the house and its contents were destroyed.

Miss Cerne reported that she and her mother recently returned from a two-week vacation and then had been staying with her grandmother in Elkins, W. Va. They were not home at the time of the fire, according to Robert Shimer, chief investigator for the Fire Marshal's Office in western Maryland.

Shimer estimated the loss to be at least $30,000. He said the property was insured.

The cause of the blaze is still under investigation.

Also responding to the scene were Oakland VFD's tanker, the county air cascade unit and the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad equipment truck. There were no injuries

FANCY FIREWORKS and family outings combined for a Fourth to remember for many area families, who took advantage of the holiday to flock to Broadford Park and other areas to relax, meet friends, eat good food, and watch booming bursts of color against night skies. Above is a scene from Broadford. Several other communities also offered fireworks to make youngsters of all ages ooh and aah with pleasure. Terra Alta's annual celebration will continue through the weekend with a carnival, free concerts tonight and Saturday night; a four-wheel drive and van show Saturday, and demolition derby Friday evening. For many, the true meaning of the flag-waving Fourth is remembered as the birthday of the nation, and yesterday 1,400 pledged allegiance as new citizens in Detroit and Newark. The Beach Boys headlined a concert for 530,000 in Washington, D.C., one year after former Secretary of the Interior James Watt banned the group because they "attract undesirable elements."

Thayer Sets Bail At $50,000; New Trial Awaited

Judge Frederick A. Thayer has set bail at $50,000 for a Mt. Lake Park man who sought for his release from jail while he awaits a new trial on a rape and two sex offense charges.

John M. Miller, 46, and his attorney Robert Watson, appeared before Judge Thayer during June 28 Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings petitioning for his release. The petition asked that in order to have a proper chance to confer with his attorney, Miller should he transferred to the Garrett County Jail, should it be impossible for him to secure bond. Miller has served four years out of a 21-year sentence in the Maryland Correctional Center in Hagerstown.

Miller was convicted by a jury on January 11, 1980, for raping a 16-year old girl. However, after a hearing in April of this year, Circuit Court Judge Frederick Sharer found that there had been incompetency of counsel and under the Maryland Post Conviction Procedure Act, ordered that Miller be given a new trial in Garrett County.

He is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail. No date has been set for his new trial.

DNR Extends Dock Moratorium

The Department of Natural Resources, at the request of the Deep Creek Lake Advisory and Review Committee, has agreed to extend the moratorium on dock permits on the lake until 30 days after adoption of new regulations. The moratorium was to have ended June 27.

That announcement was made by Dr. Torrey Brown, DNR Secretary, in a letter to the advisory committee and to the lake management office of Mike Gregory.

The moratorium went into effect August 12, 1983 at the request of the advisory committee, which is formulating regulations in cooperation with the lake management office.

In announcing the moratorium extension, Dr. Brown pointed out that this will make sure that the hard work of the advisory committee to promulgate regulations is not impacted by lifting the moratorium.

Heated Discussions Precede Zoning Board Decisions On Seven Requests

Accusations and counter-accusations flew during a four-hour zoning hearing last Thursday, ending with the board approving five of the seven requests.

A request by Laurance Wolfe for a special exception to allow establishment of a food concession at Western Trails campground and riding academy was approved. There were no protests against the proposal.

Oakland Coal Company was granted a special exception to mine coal on the Rock Lodge Trust property adjacent to their current mining operation off Foxtown Road. William Buckel, Bittinger, presented the coal company's request and answered several questions concerning acid mine drainage into the already-acid Cherry Creek, which currently has an acidity level of 5 pH. Strip mines must bring drainage water to levels of between 6 and 9 pH before releasing the water into streams.

Several persons attended to protest an application by Carolyn Fazenbaker for a special exception to allow her to retain a mobile home she recently purchased for her property on O'Brien Road. At the time of purchase, she was unaware that her ten acres are in the lake zoning district.

Persons opposed, including Gary and Janice Stein, Marshall and Cindy Stacy, Clarence Paugh, Frances Otto, Harold and Ellen Harris, Don Otto, Jr. protested in person or by letter saying that a trailer would lower property values and citing various other problems. Charles Beckman, who sold Ms. Fazenbaker the land, testified in favor of her application.

After consideration, the zoning board denied the Fazenbaker request, saying that the neighborhood is not developed for mobile homes and such a unit is not in keeping with the present development.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Gunshol were denied a special exception to place a mobile home on their prospective property on Green Glade Road for basically the same reasons.

Paul Grant sought and was granted a variance from the side yard setback requirement for his property on South Shore Drive to place a modular chalet on the land. Grant and Jerry

DECD Awards Promotion Council $14,758 Grant

Garrett County's campaign to attract tourists will receive a boost through a $14,758 grant awarded to the Deep Creek Lake - Garrett County Promotion Council by the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development (DECD).

DECD Secretary Frank De Francis announced the awarding of the grant as part of the Matching Funds Grant Program of DECD's Office of Tourist Development (OTD). The funds will be used for advertising, brochures, postage and participation in travel shows. Under the program, the counties are required to provide matching funds.

"Garrett County has become increasingly popular with tourists from throughout the area," said Secretary De Francis. "This grant should help the county in promoting its attractions and increasing travelers' awareness of Garrett County as an exciting place to visit."

According to a study by the U.S. Travel Data Center, visitors spent more than $3 billion in Maryland in 1982, an increase of 11.2 percent over the amount spent in 1981. This increase is significantly larger than the estimated national growth rate of 1.8 percent.

Mtn. Lake Park Days Schedule Of Events Noted

The Friends of Mountain Lake Park have released their schedule of events for the second annual Mountain Lake Park Days, set for July 13-15. The program is designed to take participants back to Mountain Lake Park's historic era as one of the premier exclusive resort areas in America around the turn of the century.

Some 12 restored private homes will be opened to the public from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. Most are listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Tickets for the tour will be available at the old amphitheater ticket office across the grounds from the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall on G Street.

The entire schedule of events is as follows:

Bittinger Trial Transferred To Circuit Court

The case of a Swanton man charged with shooting an area resident has been transferred from Garrett District Court to Garrett County Circuit Court for trial.

Edmond Junior Bittinger 48, is charged with assault with intent to murder; inflicting a malicious injury with intent to maim; shooting with intent to maim; and carrying a deadly weapon with the intent of causing injury.

The charges stem from a June 9 incident which occurred in an open field along the Dry Run Road, near Swanton, when Bittinger allegedly shot Homer Wilt with a .22 calibre rifle.

Oakland Sewer Plans Discussed At Two Meetings

Oakland's mayor and council conducted a closed session Monday night to make further plans for obtaining a sewerage treatment plant for the town, ejecting a reporter for radio station WXIE in the process.

The group met with the town's attorney, Robert Watson, to discuss possible acquisition plans for the former Sterling poultry processing facilities for use by the town.

Officials from the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene had been scheduled to sit in, but cancelled last week after their department gave approval to the three appraisals the town has received.

Present Monday in addition to council members, attorney Robert Watson, and Mayor H.D. Swartzentruber were Joseph Strickland, who prepared the engineering appraisal, Morgan France of Franklin Associates, Sol McCartney, of Potomac Engineering, and Wendell Keaton, municipal coordinator.

Several hours were devoted to discussion of the Sterling facility which has been unused for nearly a year, and the possibility of making Sterling owners an offer.

The state requires that appraisals be figured on the basis of what the plant would cost to build now, and then subtracting depreciation amounts for each year since the facility was actually constructed. Sterling is approximately 17 years old, according to Robert Boal, chairman of the town's sewer matters committee.

After the regular council meeting Tuesday night, the members again discussed the Sterling site, particularly the amount of land with the property and the amount which may need to be purchased.

State law requires that the town must own all the property needed for the treatment plant, and Sterling presently leases part of its land (where one lagoon is located) from the McIntire estate. The town must determine if it can acquire enough of the property to build the additional facilities needed. Other than the four acres leased to Sterling, the land is unused.

There is also some slight confusion on deeds about the owner of another small amount of land. Conflicting records appear on deeds held by the McIntire estate and the Chessie system, adding to the red tape which must be untangled before the project can be completed.

Growing Opposition To Handicapped Housing Gets Commissioners' Support

Opposition to the location of an apartment living facility for mentally retarded adults in two neighborhoods in the Oakland area continued to build this week. The issue was the subject of a meeting between Garrett Crossroads officials and residents of the Mitchell Manor area last Thursday. Another group of Oakland residents from the 11th Street area near Dennett Road presented a petition to the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday stating their opposition to the location of a similar unit in their neighborhood.

Both groups, which have joined forces to oppose the apartment units in their neighborhoods, cite the safety of their children and damage to property values as the reasons for their opposition.

The Board of County Commissioners, which has repeatedly stated to the protesting residents that it does not have any jurisdiction over the residential programs, forwarded a letter Tuesday to Dan Elmlinger, Crossroads director, the Crossroads board of directors, and Frederick-Garrett Residences stating that they "strongly object to the method that you, as administrator of Garrett Crossroads, have handled the site selection process for homes for the developmentally disabled.

"The Board of County Commissioners, as well as the general public, was not aware nor informed of your organization's intent to locate homes in various parts of Oakland until the afternoon of June 14."

An article in the April 5 issue of The Republican stated that "Six mentally retarded persons scheduled to be transferred to the Garrett Crossroads program in June will be temporarily housed in rented houses until construction of the new Crossroads group home is completed, according to Dan Elmlinger, director of Crossroads."

The article went on to state that "The two rental properties will be used by Crossroads in the future as apartment living facilities for Crossroads clients." The article did not mention what locations were under consideration.

The commissioners' letter urged the board to "re-evaluate their intended sites, follow the proper procedures prescribed by law, and stop circumventing the system that has disrupted and caused ill feelings in the community."

The groups feel that it was the intent of Garrett Crossroads to "sneak the program in the back door" without first consulting with the residents of the neighborhoods in question. Dan Elmlinger, director of Crossroads, denied that that was the intent of his agency, or of Frederick-Garrett Residences, which selected the sites on 11th Street and in Mitchell Manor as the best options among about eight homes in various locations that were under consideration for the use as apartment sites for handicapped persons.

Frederick-Garrett Residences has received approval of a loan grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to purchase housing sites in the two counties for the use of handicapped persons. The intent of Frederick-Garrett Residences was to lease the two properties to Garrett Crossroads, which already operates a group home and an apartment living site in Garrett County.

Garrett National Bank To Form Holding Company

The Directors of The Garrett National Bank in Oakland have announced their intention to form a one-bank holding company known as GNB Bankshares, Inc.

In a letter to shareholders dated June 25, 1984, chairman of the Board, James H. Feaster, Jr., M.D. and Milford E. Beckman, president, explained that the reorganization is being made for several reasons. The directors believe that the reorganization will benefit the communities and customers served by the bank. "The holding company structure will allow greater flexibility to meet the challenges of a changing business and financial environment while providing a larger choice of services to the customer," Feaster stated.

They also stated that there will be no change from the present operation of the bank. Deposits will still be insured by the FDIC and the bank will be subject to all present Federal Regulatory authorities. All assets and liabilities of the bank, as well as its directors, officers and emplyees will remain the same.

"The Bank will cotinue its policy of investing funds in the communities it serves," Beckman said.

Tax Bills Mailed To 46 States And 11 Countries

Real estate tax bills were recently mailed to Garrett County property owners living in 46 of the 50 United States as well as 11 foreign countries. According to Mrs. Arzella Parsons, county treasurer, over 20,000 of the tax bills were mailed this week. The real estate tax will amount to $5,772,872.92 in revenue for the county.

Mrs. Parsons stated that those residents whose property was transferred in May or June of this year will receive their bills at a later date.

"Twigs" To Open Playhouse 30th Season Tonight

The Garrett County Playhouse will open its 30th season on Deep Creek Lake tonight with a production of "Twigs," which stars Helen Page Camp, and is directed by Joan Statkus.

"Twigs" will open a day later than the usual Wednesday due to yesterday's Independence Day holiday, and will play only three performances.

Ms. Camp, a well-known television and film actress, performed in the first production produced by the Playhouse 30 years ago. This will be her first appearance in a Playhouse production in 21 years. She has appeared in such television hits as "Cheers," "Hart to Hart," "Laverne and Shirley," and "Happy Days."

Ms. Camp, who last performed at the Playhouse in 1963, said that she returned for this weeks performance, "as an act of gratitude to the Playhouse audience. They taught me a lot back then, and I hope I can do a nice show for them."

She said that this will be her first appearance in Summer stock since her days at the Playhouse, adding, "It's awfully hard work. I guess I'm spoiled, I'm used to a lot of rehearsal time."

Director Joan Statkus has been a member of the Playhouse company since 1975, serving as an actress in numerous productions as well as director in recent years.

Next Wednesday, July 12, "So Far . . . No Further," the second production of the season, will open for four performances. A dark study of the shades of guilt Philip King's mystery recalls the most treasured works of J.B. Preistley, in which crime itself becomes almost unimportant in the parade of human emotions it inspires.

"So Far . . . No Further" features Chris von Eckartsberg, back for his third season after a two year hiatus. The show is directed by Milburn Melhop, a long-time veteran of the company.

For information and reservations call Englanders, Gregg's or Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy in Oakland. All performances begin at 8:30 p.m.

NEW KELLY'S LOCATION — Kelly's Appliance and Furniture, Inc., has purchased the former H.P. Warehouse complex in Loch Lynn from F & M Real Estate and is in the process of moving the two blocks to the new location. Shown above is Mike Vance, left, president of Kelly's Appliance and Furniture; Thomas "Kelly" Vance, founder of the company; and Milford Beckman, president of the Garrett National Bank. The former H.P. complex has over 63,000 square feet of showroom and warehouse space, which means nearly three times the display space of the present store, and much more storage space under one roof. Kelly's started business in Loch Lynn in 1954 in what is now the Loch Lynn Restaurant and employed three people. Over the years, the store has grown from that one building to the present store and seven warehouses, and now employs 14 full-time people. Kelly's is the county's largest furniture and appliance store. Mike Vance, who said that a moving sale is being planned, has not yet announced an opening date for the company's new store and assures customers that service will continue to be provided as usual even during the moving period.

Summer Queen Event Scheduled In Friendsville

Eleven young women will be seeking the title of 1984 Summer Queen to reign over the activities of the Summer Festival IV in Friendsville on August 4. The selection of the queen will take place Monday, July 30, at 8 p.m. in the Friendsville School auditorium.

Girls in competition for the title include Laura Bosley, Bobbi Jane Bowser, Sherri Frantz, Autumn Frazee, Rita Friend, Kelli Grove, Miranda Hicks, Sheila McCarty, Vicki McCrobie, Mary Liz Sisler and Crystal Thomas.

A queen and two runners-up will be selected. The queen will receive a crown, flowers, dinner for two at Old Mill Grill and swimming privileges for two at the Village Inn, McHenry, during August. The first and second runners-up will receive trophies.

The girls will wear old fashioned dresses, in keeping with the Festival theme, "Remembering Days Gone By."

Mrs. Leota Friend, coordinator of the event, will decorate the float for the parade on August 4. For the first time, the queen and her court, not the queen candidates, will ride in the parade which begins at 11 a.m. (Parade entries are to be in by July 20).

The 1984 Summer Festival Talent Show will be held in connection with the queen contest. Both of these events are being held early because the August 4 slate of activities is already full.

There will be three divisions in the talent show: elementary, middle school and high school. A trophy will be awarded to the winner in each division.

Young people expected to participate in the show include: Miranda Hicks, Michele Clutter, Sheila Bender, Marcie Beiler, Rodney Arblaster, Billy Dixon, Chad Fike, Diane Vitez, Pam and Tammy Brenneman, Darla Friend, Amanda and Lori Wakefield, Heather Golden, Josh Panicho, Stacey Anderson, Damon Garner, Ben Hetzel, Charles Enlow and Jonathan Kahl. The public is invited to attend and admission is free.

All former queens will be involved in the program. Jana Harshman, 1981 Queen, will emcee the event; Dawn Humberson, 1982 Queen and Stacy Rodeheaver, 1983 Queen, will award trophies.

Summer Festival IV, is being held in conjuncion with Maryland's 350th celebration. Approximately 75 Native Americans will be on hand to highlight the role of the Indian in the development of Friendsville and the state. Other attractions include old time craftspeople, Indian crafts, Maryland's birthday balloon and more.

Judge Requests More Information In Ad Valorem Suit

Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer has requested that the three attorneys involved in the Mt. Lake Park-Loch Lynn ad valorem tax issue submit additional information not previously included in the memoranda.

The oral argument on the case is scheduled by Judge Thayer for August 1 at 2 p.m. Memoranda on the above issues should be filed on or before July 30.

Attorneys are W. Dwight Stover, representing the county; Robert Watson, representing the towns; and Gorman E. Getty III, representing the Sanitary Commission.

Watson originally filed the suit against the county commissioners in November 1981. In May of 1983 the Sanitary Commission was brought in as co-litigants.

If the towns win, the money already paid during the past several years would have to be refunded and a new tax levied as a lump sum. Watson is alleging for the towns that due process was not followed. The towns are also seeking a temporary restraining order prohibiting county Treasurer Arzella Parsons from collecting the supplemental taxes.

Official Explains Blacktop Procedure

A concerned Grantsville area resident recently reported to The Republican Newspaper office of the possibility the State Highway Administration was blacktopping private driveways and parking lots at the same time they were resurfacing Route 40, between Keyser's Ridge and Grantsville.

In response to this report, a call was made to SHA District Engineer Wallace Beaulieu. He explained that whenever a blacktopping project is underway, it is not unusual to carry the blacktop surface back as far as the SHA right-of-way allows. This right-of-way can extend as far as 33 feet from either side of the center line.

Beaulieu said that the extension is made for several reasons. First, the addition of the blacktop makes for an even transition from the surface of the roadway. Some new blacktop may extend as far as three inches in height and by extending the edge of the road, the SHA ensures a safer and more comfortable transition for drivers. Without the carry over onto (seemingly) private property, a vehicle would have quite a hump to cross before entering the roadway. Secondly, by extending the blacktop the extension eliminates the possibility of gravel being thrown from either the road shoulder of private drives. This is also an asset for citizen safety, whether they be drivers or pedestrians.

While this particular re-paving operation is being done, the shoulders of Rt. 40 are also being blacktopped to encourage proper water drainage which has been a problem in that area for the SHA.

Dr. F.D. Custer Retirement Noted

After 37 years of service with the State of Maryland, Franklin D. Custer, Oakland, retired as veterinarian for the Maryland Department of Agriculture on July 1. Since December 1946 Dr. Custer has been active in disease control in food animals in Garrett and Allegany counties. He has also supervised Meat and Poultry Inspection in these two counties since 1969.

During his years of service, Custer has helped with the eradiction of several costly animal diseases from the area, including brucellosis in cattle, hog cholera in swine, scabies in sheep, and pullorum disease in poultry. He served in the Army Veterinary Corps in World War II, and operated a general veterinary practice in Oakland from 1946 to 1972.

Dr. Custer was reared in Garrett County, attended Oakland High School, West Va. Wesleyan College, and received a Doctor of Veternary Medicine degree from Michigan State College. He is married to the former Lorena Baker, and they have five children.

Back To The Dark Ages . . .

Prejudice takes many forms. We are unfortunately now witnessing an organized, public display of it by scores of Oakland residents. The innocent victims in this case are the mentally handicapped.

The residents of Mitchell Manor and the 11th and 12th street area (the majority of them) have made their opinion quite clear—they do not want the mentally handicapped, even those classified as mildly handicapped, living in their neighborhood. The reasons they give for this, as stated on their petition, are their concern for the value of their property and the well-being of their children.

As for the first concern, we do not believe that the value of their property will diminish if an apartment house for the mentally handicapped were located nearby. We will admit, however, that it may be a little more difficult to sell their homes since a number of potential buyers probably share this same prejudice.

It is primarily the second reason cited—concern for the well-being of their children—that we feel is outrageous. These petitioners have already labeled the mentally handicapped as criminals, or at least persons with greater potential for committing crimes against others. On the contrary, these people generally are among the most docile, gentle, kind, law-abiding citizens in our society. They are far less likely to commit a crime than are our "normal" neighbors. One need only look at the arrest log and check out the personnel in our county jail to see that this is true. Perhaps many of the petition signers are confused about the vast difference between the mentally handicapped and the mentally ill, in which case there may be a hazard without proper supervision.

A similar rental home on Alder Street in Oakland has been highly successful and has resulted in no problems for neighbors. In fact, the owner of the home (don't worry . . . he's "normal") has stated that these people have been among his finest tenants and there have been no problems whatsoever with neighbors. Two of the three women who lived there originally are now living on their own.

The residents state "We are all for the programs for the handicapped," but they follow that with general, fuzzy statements that essentially say, "but I sure don't want any of them living near me." It is as though they were lepers who should be housed together somewhere out in the wilderness.

We are anxious to see if the residents of these areas will subject each other to a battery of intelligence tests to make sure that none of them is mentally handicapped. Will persons so identified then be asked to leave? Of course, any folks wanting to buy or rent a home there will be required to take the same test before any such arrangement is permitted.

The Dark Ages have returned to Oakland. What a wonderful example of Christian behavior to set for our young people and our town in general.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

During the past two weeks we have heard and read much about the Mitchell Manor residents concern over the possible apartment for adults who have a mental retardation disability. Ninety-seven percent signed a petition against such a facility. That is a sad commentary on us all!

During my term of service at the House of Hope, Garrett Crossroads established its first apartment living facility on the corner of 4th and Alder Streets in Oakland. For two years the women who lived there were neighbors to us. We came to know them by name and their gentleness, warmth and friendliness soon found its way into our hearts and home. They became good neighbors who helped us out on many occasions.

Often many of our actions are based on fear and mistrust rather than love and trust. I would ask the residents of Mitchell Manor to reconsider—to take time to reflect and pray asking the One who made us all for guidance. Perhaps the issue here is not a change of mind, but a change of heart.

Sincerely,
Sister Catherine Arata

To the Editor:

I wonder why the residents of Mitchell Manor refuse to accept the mentally retarded adults scheduled to move into the development. They claim to be protecting their own children and property, while at the same time their children throw stones at the staff and home to be used to house the mentally retarded. The adult residents of Mitchell Manor are aware of these acts of violence against Garrett Crossroads, and yet they claim to be concerned for the welfare of their own families. Such irresponsible and radical behavior is not condusive to a peaceful solution.

The mentally retarded are not individuals that rape, murder and commit such crimes. They are sensitive humans just like the rest of us. Not only are they receptive to training, but they also have a wealth of knowledge to impart to us, knowledge of such ideals as patience, perseverance, and compassion.

The Mitchell Manor residents are a group of frightened adults who have consolidated on the basis of their ignorance in common.

I think that the people of Garrett Crossroads should be applauded for the work they do and not be criticized and accused of illegitimate acts. They have the compassion, guts and courage to do what few people would.

If your child were retarded, would you lock him up way down state, or keep them tied in the basement? Or would you want them to have the love, time and most importantly, the space, to learn.

Love and the smiling face it brings, are worth a lot more to me than the Almighty dollar. It appears that this is not the case with the residents of Mitchell Manor. That's a shame because they cannot buy love and compassion with the same dollars that bought their pretty houses. Perhaps the term "Snob Knob" truly is justified for the Mitchell Manor development.

Dear Editor:

There is more to living that satisfies the soul than material gain. We have seen this time and time again in our Amish neighborhood by Amish and non-Amish, and want to say "thank you" for making us feel at home these last 6½ years we have lived here.

Since the good is mostly left unpublished let me relate one neighborly act.

On June 27 it was quite evident we would get a good rain. My husband had over 800 bales of hay in the field. Our oldest son had his back injured earlier that week and was limited to what he could do, leaving most of the task to my husband and second oldest son. It looked impossible, especially when a hay wagon broke, leaving them with only one big wagon and the pick-up truck bed, and may I say a sincere prayer "Lord help us."

Let me tell you how our prayers were answered. It was probably unknown to two Amish men and two of their sons—they were just putting into deed the Bible passage "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

No one phoned them, they just came; they didn't know our son had a hurt back, they just noticed the bales earlier and at 9:30 p.m. after a full days work of handling many bales of their own they came with two tractors and two wagons.

My husband and I look on it as a perfectly timed miracle. Just the right timing, the right amount of people, the right amount of tractors and wagons. As soon as every bale was under shelter, the wind started. Our worries were over and we could enjoy the rain as we slept.

Deeds of the heart mean more than any material wealth to us and will live on forever with rewards that will not perish.

To the Editor:

Yesterday, we all celebrated our independence and freedom. Now that the festivities are complete, I would like to speak on behalf of six individuals who, at present, are not free. Their freedom is being withheld because of the intolerance of a vocal few. I am speaking of the six proposed residents for the Alternative Living Units to be operated by Garrett Crossroads, Inc.

Because of several outspoken citizens in the community, these six individuals are being denied their rights to participate in the improvement of their lives through training, employment and individualized programming.

It saddens me as an American and a Garrett County native to witness the cruelty and ignorance of my fellow citizens. I appeal to those individuals that support the Normalization Principle to educate their neighbors. Only through knowledge and understanding can the mentally retarded realize their God-given right to a normal life.

We want to take this opportunity to say goodby to the many friends we have made on the mountaintop over the past thirteen years. Dick is beginning a career in housing research in the Washington, D.C. area and we will be moving within a short time.

We will always love Garrett County and feel certain we will be making the trip up the mountain many times in the future. Thank you for the wonderful memories you have given us all.

To the Editor:

I think we've got our priorities mixed up! According to the sway of public opinion it seems we've waged an all out war on the poor!

I have actually heard more people complain about some poor pregnant girl receiving food stamps than some big government expenditure that wastes vast amounts of tax dollars and benefits no one! If the facts were known, I'll bet that the tax dollars alloted for welfare is peanuts compared to this kind of spending, for special government "studies" and such.

Welfare recipients have been getting a lot of bad press lately by the medias who seem to take fiendish delight in holding up the few frauds they manage to find as the "norm" for welfare recipients in general.

Some have taken action on the positive side, like backing job training programs, etc., while other immature and misguided individuals have childishly struck out in ignorance and waged their own private war on the welfare recipients themselves.

Granted, there may be some on welfare with questionable integrity, however, I would certainly hate to have to be the one who draws the dividing line as to who does or does not deserve help. Because a man can be shoved around and beaten down by heartbreak and the rejections of life for so long that he finally reaches a point where he is no longer capable of even caring if he has a job or not. In my opinion, that person is just as sick and needy as one with a visable physical ailment.

Thank you for letting me share these thoughts. I may be a little off base on some points, but this I know for sure the answer to the problems in this country will not come by attacking Christ's "Blessed Poor."

Thank you,

To the Editor:

We would like to publicly thank the team of health professionals at Garrett County Memorial Hospital who saved our daughter's life recently. Without the immediate care given at birth by Dr. Jared Zelman, the maternity nurses, and the cardio pulmonary team, our child would probably not be with us today.

The fine team from the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit that transported her to West Virginia University Hospital also praised the high quality care given by the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Staff.

We are also indebted to hospital staff members, Cheri Jose and Fred Callis, who visited our daughter in Morgantown the evening of her birth, and updated our knowledge of her care the same night.

For the tender professional care given our dear baby, we are most grateful.

Sincerely,
Happy New Parents

To the Editor:

I have noticed that many of the letters addressed to the Editor are not really written to the Editor and are not about things for which the Editor should be blamed or given credit.

Neither is this. But perhaps those to whom the credit is due will read this.

Sidewalks of brick oft rumpled by the roots of aging trees Whose lofty branches reach to arch above the quiet streets
May not be easy on our feet, but add to Oakland's charm.
Wide porches, and the homes they front, built many years ago
When there was often leisure time to sit and rock and chat
Recall that slower pace of life and add to Oakland's charm Alleys which seem to be shortcuts to where one wants to go
And streets which end, then start again, and some which twist and turn and garden plots, and open fields are part of Oakland's charm.
Train whistles in the early morn, the peepers' sound at dusk,
And sometimes when an Amish buggy passes the soft sound
Of horses' hoofs clop-clopping
add their bit to Oakland's charm.
Though it is hard to say which one I most enjoy, I know
Of all the lovely sights and sounds around the town, for me
The chimes which mark the quarter-hours crown
Oakland's many charms.
It is such a daily pleasure to hear them once again!

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

When a person sworn to uphold the law and the office he fills goes beyond the law, then that person is above the law, and solely can and will do almost anything he wants and by whatever means he can "get by" with. Then that person is bigger and better than the position for which he has sworn to do his duty. This is based upon only a couple of true incidents, which can be proven by documents of court and witnesses.

Friendsville To Host 20th Annual Fiddlers Contest

The Youghiogheny river banks in Friendsville will come alive with some "foot-stomping" fiddle music on the evening of July 21, the date of the 20th Annual Old Time Fiddlers Contest sponsored by the Friendsville Rotary Club.

Contestants already registered represent a four-state area: Ohio, Pennsylvania, W. Virginia and Maryland. The contestants must be amateur or semi-professional and will be competing for cash awards and trophies.

During intermission the Fisher family from Dawson, Pa., which consists of a father, mother and their three teenagers playing the piano, guitar and violins, along with Pinkie Shoemaker, the 1983 Pennsylvania Champion Fiddler, will entertain. The Mountaineer Square Dancers from Oakland, with Claude Strickler as figure caller, will also perform.

Something different this year will be the absence of live radio broadcasting. Therefore, those who have in past years tuned in to W.F.R.B. from Frostburg will have to journey to the town park at the Elementary School grounds where the event will start at 7 p.m. on the outdoor stage.

A variety of food and beverage will be available. In the event of rain, the contest will be held the following Saturday, July 28. Admission for adults will be $3, children, $1, and those under six years of age admitted free of charge.

Spectators are urged to bring their own lawn or folding chair.

Real Estate Firm Sues School Board For $100,000

A two-count lawsuit has been filed in Garrett County Circuit Court by a Cumberland Real Estate Corporation seeking $100,000 from the Garrett County Board of Education.

In the suit, the corporation states that they own a .33 acre parcel of vacant land with approximately 149 feet of road frontage on Dennett Road, Mt. Lake Park. Next to their property is the Dennett Road School. The suit maintains that the driveway to the school trespasses onto the property owned by the corporation and that agents, servants, employees of the board as well as school children trespass on a regular basis when entering and exiting from the school. The suit asks for $100,000 in compensatory damages.

The second count petitions that agents and employees of the board of education be restrained from entering upon this property.

The board's response maintains that they have used and maintained this property for over 20 years prior to the complainant's claim and that the statue of limitations bars any trespassing charge.

The Cumberland corporation has asked for a jury trial.

Opposition

Site selection was the responsibility of Frederick-Garrett Residences, not Garrett Crossroads, according to Elmlinger, who added that the HUD grant specifies that homes purchased under the grant must be fairly new, to ensure that they last the duration of the 40-year loan period specified by the grant. He said that most homes in the downtown Oakland area, where the currently operating apartment unit was located without opposition several years ago, are too old to qualify for purchase under the grant requirements.

He said that the lack of opposition to the current residential programs on Alder Street and Broad Ford Road had left the groups unprepared for the storm of opposition which exploded when the intent to locate in the two prosperous neighborhoods became known. The agencies are not required by law to hold public hearings before locating residential units serving small numbers of persons, although a public hearing was held regarding the establishment of a group home slated for construction near Weber Road.

Elmlinger said that he was asked by the state to use the two controversial sites as temporary housing for handicapped persons who were slated to occupy the new group home, which the state had scheduled for completion by July 1 of this year. Due to delays downstate, the home will be completed by late this year at the earliest, according to Elmlinger.

County resident Louise Harvey called for an investigation into the management of Garrett Crossroads at both the Thursday and Tuesday meetings. "I question the ability of the director, the board of directors, and the management that took part in this decision. There should be an investigation," Mrs. Harvey said.

Elmlinger said Tuesday that he has been notified that the Mental Retardation-Developmental Disabilities Administration will conduct a financial and licensing audit of the Garrett Crossroads program at the request of Delegate Edwards. He re-emphasized the fact that it was Garrett-Frederick Residences, not Garrett Crossroads, that made the site selections. He pointed out that the audits will be conducted at the expense of the state, and said that he did not know whether there was an audit slated for Garrett-Frederick Residences as well.

Elmlinger said that the Garrett Crossroads and Garrett-Frederick Residences boards will be meeting in the near future to discuss the proposed sites.

Moratorium

Gregory said Monday that public hearings on the regulations are tentatively planned this fall. The regulations drafted by the committee are presently under review by the Attorney General's office. Once approved, the regulations will be reviewed at meetings with Penelec and the advisory committee before final approval by DNR.

Robert Watson is chairman of the advisory and review committee. Members are Richard Barnes, representing the Deep Creek Property Owners Association; Del Carpenter, Del. George Edwards, Helmuth Heise, Ernie Gregg and Bob Railey.

In a brief telephone conversation this morning, Watson pointed out that he had suggested the moratorium in a letter to Dr. Brown some months ago. When no response was forthcoming the board adopted a resolution making the request.

Watson also noted the years of hard work which have gone into the regulations proposed by the advisory board, regulations which he feels "will be really super for the lake and preserve the desirable recreational qualities of the lake."

The Oakland attorney also pointed out that to begin issuing dock permits after the moratorium was lifted would have destroyed part of the work the board has accomplished.

He went on to say the proposed regulations contain some new mechanisms he feels are very important, such as the elimination of dock permits in favor of buffer strip use permits. Information on other basic proposed changes will be given in the near future.

Firemen remained on the scene for about three and one-half hours.

Personnel from the Deer Park and Bittinger fire departments were summoned by Garrett Central Alarm Wednesday at 6:45 p.m. to a summer residence located along the Hazelhurst Road, Deep Creek Lake.

Shimer stated that the two-story home was owned by Mrs. George Lemmert, Frostburg, and firefighters found one bedroom on the second floor in flame upon their arrival.

Shimer said that neighbors of Mrs. Lemmert responded with garden hoses before firemen arrived, and in his opinion, saved the residence from major damage or destruction. He said the fire was contained in that one bedroom.

Children playing with a lighter was cited by Shimer as the cause of the fire. The house and its contents are insured, he said.

Also responding to the scene were the county air cascade unit and the equipment truck of Southern Rescue. Oakland firefighters stood by at the Deer Park station.

EXQUISITE STITCHES adorn the needlepoint work created by Mrs. Paul (Kay) Hoye and displayed for the next two weeks at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. Mrs. Hoye, an elementary teacher in this county from 1941 until retirement in 1978, says she learned stitchery when in first grade. "At that time," she says, "all little ladies went to learn stitchery." She and her five sisters attended needlework classes on Saturdays in her hometown of Fairmont, W.Va. They all continue needlework as a hobby, as does her daughter, Kathleen Powell, who learned from Mrs. Hoye but "not under duress." Mr. and Mrs. Hoye were married in 1946 and have in addition to their daughter one son, Michael, who resides in Tampa, Fla. The exhibit at the library contains samplers of candlewicking with quilting, cross-stitch, needlepoint, and petit point on various types of canvas. Often Kay gives work away to her friends, and at Christmas displays and sells some work from Vogue Beauty Salon in Oakland. A volunteer with Meals on Wheels and at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, she is dividing her spare time now between a set of six Bargello needlepoint covers for her dining room chairs, and a quilt stretched in its frame.

Talk Of The Towns

Friendsville To See Improvements In Water Lines

Michael Wojton, from the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, will be in Friendsville Thursday to devise an effective program to flush water lines. Wojton is expected to come up with a program which will not require lines to be flushed as often.

The health department employee will spend part of today meeting with town officials and employees, according to Lisa Hetzel, town clerk.

Water lines are to be extensively flushed for several hours this evening beginning at 6:30.

Two representatives from Charles Community College, James Cooper and Leonard Gold, will be at the town's water and sewer plant July 11 at 8:30 a.m. The men are expected to appraise the plant and offer suggestions and expertise on operations, financial rate structures, and budgeting.

Survey Planned On Crime Watch

An apparent lack of interest in a Crime Watch program in the town has proved disappointing to Tfc. William W. Rice, Crime Prevention Officer for the Maryland State Police. Tfc. Rice indicated Monday night that he plans to make a survey of residents to determine if the matter should be pursued further.

Cable Issues

The town officials discussed the current cable television contract with Yough Cable T.V., particularly lack of maintenance and the proposed rebuilding program.

More Dog Complaints

Mayor James Spear has noted that he receives more complaints on problems with dog control than any other issue. This week a letter was received from another disgusted resident about the problem. The town is reminding citizens of the dog ordinance which went into effect in 1983. Those violating the ordinance are eligible for fines of up to $200 and incarceration of their animals.

Budget Announced

Friendsville is projecting income of $98,356.55 for the coming fiscal year. Of this amount $11,082 will come from real estate and property taxes; $24,000 from state highway user fees and $8,000 from coal hauling taxes.

Expeditures are expected to be the same amount, with $32,800 set aside for street maintenance; $10,000 for a park to be located on the Friendsville-Addison Road adjacent to Guardian Apartments; and $6,715.18 for street lights. Maintenance on town buildings is to be $6,000 including salaries, while the mayor, council and town clerk will receive a total of $4,600.

A transfer of $20,000 will be necessary from the general fund to the water and sewer fund because of present problems at the plant.

The water and sewer budget for the year is projected to be $72,382.91, including the $20,000 from the general fund. The remainder is expected to come from bills, assessments and water and sewer uses. Under the expenditures column, there will be $12,200 to repay a Farmers Home Administration loan; $13,037.84 for a bond from the state; and $2,100 for interest on a note at the First United National Bank and Trust. The town owes $50,000 it borrowed to pay Rummel, Klepper, & Kahl and plans to repay the note as soon as money is received from state agencies.

There is $2,000 in a contingency fund; $10,000 for repairs and maintenance to the plant; $10,723.47 for electricity and telephone service; $3,500 set aside for chemicals and $9,000 for salaries for three employees.

Accident Opens Community Park

Opening of Town Park

With the completion of the new restroom facilities, the mayor and town council announced that the Accident Community Park will now be open for public use. The park is located at the end of Deakin Street adjacent to Town View Village. Reservations are now being accepted for use of the pavilion, which could be used for family reunions, birthday celebrations, and group picnics, such as organizations, clubs and churches. The pavilion contains tables for seating about 65 people. For reservations, telephone Marjorie Fratz, town clerk, at 826-8149. Formal dedication of the park will be scheduled for a later date. Additional improvements funded through the Program Open Space program are scheduled to be made this summer.

Operation of Water and Wastewater Facilities

A contract was executed with the Maryland Environmental Service for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The contract provides for the supervision of the town employee in the operation and maintenance of the town's water and wastewater facilities. Since January 1983, the town has had a full service contract with MES to operate the facilities. The supervision contract provides for the continued availability of expertise to the town while resulting in substantial cost savings in the operation of the facilities.

Comprehensive Development Plan Update

The mayor and town council and the Accident Municipal Planning Commission met with Tim Dugan, consultant to the Garrett County Commissioners, on June 19 for the initial meeting on the update of the Town's Comprehensive Development Plan. The purpose of the meeting was to determine the principal issues and goals to be accomplished by the update process. Dugan discused each item of the work program and explained how the information would be gathered. By mid-August a working draft of the plan should be ready for review. Public hearings will then be scheduled on proposed changes to the plan and zoning ordinance.

Street Repairs

Following an inspection and report by Councilman James Smith, the council authorized Keystone Lime Company to patch various streets throughout the town. About 800 feet of 6-inch curb will also be placed along the east side of Main Street where there is presently no curbing between the highway and the sidewalk.

Community Pond

The town is requesting assistance from the State Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Administration to control the apparent excessive plant growth in the Accident pond. The town has responsibility for maintaining the grounds and the state provides fishery management.

Insurance Coverage

With the beginning of the fiscal year on July 1, the town transferred its various insurance package coverages to the firm of Beall, Garner, Screen and Geare of Oakland.

Appointment to Accident Municipal Planning Commisision

The council appointed Kristen Stahl, who resides on Main Street, to the Accident Municipal Planning Commission. Stahl will fill the unexpired term of Gurney Kolb.

EPA Audit Appeal

The town of Accident and three other grantees who were approved for federal funding during the early 1970's for wastewater treatment facilities have received letters from the Environmental Protection Agency Board of Appeals. The letter asked questions pertaining to the application of certain EPA regulations to engineering contracts executed prior to 1975. The town, through the town clerk responded to EPA's request for additional information in a June 25 letter.

Oakland Sets $1.20 Tax Rate

Oakland will retain its tax rate of $1.20 per $100 assessed valuation for yet another year following action by the town council recently, and tax bills were mailed to residents July 2.

It was announced at Tuesday night's council session that the bills for the July water quarter will be mailed either late this week or early next week.

In other business Tuesday, the council heard a group of citizens present concerns about sewerage backing up into their homes along Third Street when heavy rains are received. Councilman Von Johnson assured the citizens the matter will be rectified.

In addtion, the group complained that one resident, who has three elderly boarders in her home, is changing the nature of the neighborhood by introducing a boarding house situation.

To Hold Hearing On Cablentertainment

There will be a public hearing July 16 at 7 p.m. on the Cablentertainment proposal to add two channels to the Oakland service. Oakland is the only one of three area towns which declined to add two stations, and without this approval, the other two cannot receive the additional channels.

Cablentertainment, in order to sweeten a proposed rate hike of $2, had offered to switch two present channels to whatever two new stations residents might vote they want. Oakland residents, however, apparently thought that if they did not want to add stations, the $2 increase would not take effect.

Both Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn wish to have two channels changed.

Taking Police Applications

The town of Oakland is still accepting applications for the position of police officer. Applications must be obtained at city hall.

Hearings Set For Sewerage Priorities

Public hearings are scheduled around the state next month on the state's draft sewerage facilities construction grants priority list and system. A hearing is set in Cumberland's ACC theater, August 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The announcement was made this week by the Office of Environmental Programs, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

The priority list is a list of municipal sewerage projects which the state has determined to have priority for receipt of federal grants under Title II of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, and state grants during the five-year period which begins October 1, 1984.

The list is divided into four portions: large municipalities fundable portion; small communities fundable portion; large municipalities planning portion, and small communities fundable portion.

Fundable portions contain projects scheduled for grant award during the federal fiscal year 1985, provided adequate federal funds are available.

The planning portions contain projects which the state expects to be funded during the following four fiscal years.

The priority listing is a ranking of sewerage facility projects as determined through a comparative analysis of the degree of severity of water quality and public health problems.

Anyone wishing to review the priority system and list may do so at main branches of county libraries, or at the Office of Environmental Programs, 201 W. Preston Street, Baltimore.

Persons wishing to comment may submit views in writing to the Construction Grants and Permits Program, Office of Environmental Programs, P.O. Box 13387, Baltimore 21203 or in person at any of the hearings. Persons presenting testimony are requested to provide two copies of their statement to the hearing officer. The hearing record will remain open until August 27.

For further information contact Charlotte Holland or Judy Marsh at (301) 383-5121.

Loch Lynn Citizens To Petition Court

Fifteen Loch Lynn property owners presented concerns about a possible threat to citizens posed by a Seneca Avenue resident during Monday night's council meeting. The concerned citizens will be obtaining signatures on a petition to be presented to the Circuit Court asking for some type of assurance of protection.

Present to hear their concerns was Assistant Chief Deputy Paul Pratt of the sheriff's department.

According to the citizens, the man causing the concern, Delbert Friend, was arrested two weeks ago and charged with assault with a deadly weapon. He remains in the county jail in lieu of bond.

The remainder of Monday's meeting was given over to discussion of street paving, and the council decided to request bids for paving. Specifications are to be obtained from Mayor Charles Tressler.

The town council also agreed to improve the remainder of First Avenue west, down to the new Kelly's Appliance and Furniture location.

The council's next meeting will be August 6.

Mt. Lake Discusses Sewer Projects, Town Plan Update

Mt. Lake Park officials held a regular council meeting followed by a special session with the town's planning commission June 28. Topics ranged from sewer rehabilitation grants and local shares to updating the town's comprehensive plan.

In the regular session, the council and Mayor Russell Alexander discussed the sewer rehabilitation project. The state recently approved grants totaling $18,225 to be matched by a local share in the same amount, and EPA has agreed to provide $109,350 of the total $145,800 costs. The town share will come from the town's general fund, according to the mayor.

The town has received a letter from the Maryland Department of State Planning concerning failing septic systems and resultant stream pollution, advising that state planning department has given its approval of both the Upper Yough Plaza and Broadford Road projects. The state will provide $51,680, pending approval by the state Board of Public Works. The local share of that project will be $26,349.

An update of the town's comprehensive plan by Barbara Hawk, of the Institute for Governmental Services, University of Maryland, provided a topic for much discussion. Present in addition to the town council and mayor and Ms. Hawk were planning council members Morgan France, George Evans, Brian Thayer, Kitty Crowe and Welton Lane.

Among the items discussed were traffic patterns, proposed commercial districts, zoning and new annexation.

Proposals For HUD Block Grant Due July 12

A public hearing to inform county citizens, agencies and organizations of the opportunity to apply for community development block grants from the Department of Housing and Urban Development was held Tuesday by the Board of County Commissioners.

Tim Dugan, county block grant application coordinator, said that the county is eligible for up to $500,000 in community development funding this year. He requested that any organization or individual with an idea to propose should contact the County Planning Office immediately so they can work together to develop a proposal before next Thursday's proposal deadline.

Charlotte Griffith, director of the Appalachian Center, a day care and training facility for the handicapped, presented a proposal to apply for funds to renovate a portion of the center for use as a food service training facility. She told the board that the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation has sent a letter of intent to award a grant to the center to purchase the necessary equipment for the program, but the grant does not include funds for renovations.

She said that the Appalachian Center also intends to apply for funds to install a separate entrance to the center, since the only accessable entrance to the center is currently shared by Country Oven Bakery. Funds would be used to construct a wheelchair ramp to the entrance on Green Street. Also included in the center's proposal would be renovations to make the large bank of windows on Third Street more energy efficient.

Dugan said that Community Action Agency also intends to apply for block grant funding.

A second public hearing on proposals received will be held Tuesday, July 31 at 8:30 a.m.

The county has received over a million dollars through the HUD community block grant program since 1976, including funds for housing rehabilitation, economic development, water systems, fire protection equipment and handicapped services.

Proposed projects must meet one of the national programs three general objectives, which are that the program benefit low to moderate-income families, aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight, or meet other community development needs having a particular urgency because existing conditions pose a serious and immediate threat to the health or welfare of the community.

Area Girl Reigns At Summer Camp

Attending summer camp for the first time can be traumatic for young children. Not so for little Carrie DiSimone, 9, who was bestowed quite an honor while attending Camp Higton, near Baltimore.

Carrie was voted "Queen of the Pee Wee Camp" by the other 42 children attending camp. She was also chosen cutest and most bashful.

The camp is sponsored by the Church of God of Prophecy. Carrie and her family attend the Deer Park affiliation.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard DiSimone, Oakland. Carrie will be a fourth grade student this fall at Dennett Road School.

Other area children attending the camp were Eric Upperman, Lance Logson and Angie Crosco.

Sheriff's Office Notes Several Theft Reports

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is currently investigating several reports of breaking and enterings and thefts in the area.

According to a department spokesman, Deputy Larry Gnegy is involved in the investigation into the Sunday night breaking and entering and theft of the Oakland Little League Auxiliary's concession stand in Broadford Park.

Reports indicate that someone broke a side window into the building and then removed an unknown quantity of candy and potato chips.

Another report of a theft in the Broadford Park area involving a young boy's bike was reported Sunday.

Scott A. Moon, Mt. Lake Park, was engaged in playing ball when his 20-inch bicycle was loaded into a motor vehicle and removed from the area.

Loss was set at $149. The investigation is continuing by Deputy Larry Gnegy.

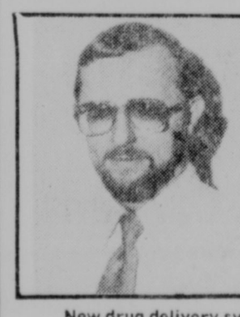
A breaking and entering and destruction of property was reported to sheriff's authorities on Saturday.

According to reports, the summer home of Thomas Vogel, Germantown, which is located on Smith Drive in Oakland was entered on that date.

Unknown persons gained entry by breaking a window and unlocking the door.

Once inside, they reportedly had a party which resulted in the damage of several paneled walls.

Deputy Philip Buckel is continuing the investigation.



A theft was reported to the sheriff's office by James Gower, Oakland, who stated that sometime between June 21 and 26, someone removed a battery from his truck parked on his farm located on the Oakland-Deer Park Road.

The loss was estimated at $50. Deputy Larry Gnegy is continuing the investigation.

Oakland Suffers Double Setback Against Hyndman

Oakland saw its Pen-Mar League record drop to 9-7 in sustaining a double setback to Hyndman on Sunday afternoon, 3-1 and 10-8, on the Pennsylvanians diamond.

Steve Mohr tossed a masterful first game for the Oaklanders, scattering six hits and allowing only one earned run, but the Oakland bats could not produce enough scoring as Mike Keel scattered eight hits for Hyndman.

Okaland's only run resulted after Ed Wildesen singled, advanced to third on a pair of wild pitches and came home on a Randy Cirillo single. Keel provided Hyndman's only RBI.

Phil Caruso and Francis Mouse each fininshed with two hits for Oakland.

In the second contest, Francis Mouse smacked his second grand slam of the season, but it wasn't enough as Hyndman pounded out 11 hits to complete the sweep.

Mouse, Wildesen and Cirillo all recorded doubles, as Cirillo and Mouse scored twice. Wildesen also had a triple and Caruso picked up another pair of hits.

Steve Feaster homered and doubled for the winners, while Gary Crawford added a double and a single.

Oakland will attempt to return to the win column in hosting Moorefield this Sunday afternoon at the Southern High School field.

The Pen-Mar League All-Star game, which was played yesterday at Hyndman (results unavailable at presstime) included eight members of the Oakland team. Lawrence Nesselrodt, Phil Caruso, Tim Mouse, Francis Mouse, Mark Tysinger, Randy Cirillo, Dean Marsico and Mark Rodeheaver were all awarded spots on the team.

Francis Mouse leads Oakland in home runs with six, RBIs with 29 and a .471 batting average. Caruso holds a .464 average, followed by Nesselrodt with a .425. Cirillo is hitting .371; Tim Mouse, .370; Marsico, .354; Tysinger, .346; and Dave Bender, .333.

The All-Star teams were composed of players from Oakland, Moorefield, Tri-Towns and Cumberland versus those of Everett, Hyndman, Mt. Savage, Salisbury and LaVale.

held in the Garrett County Jail. He will be represented in court by Michael Morrissette.

In other District Court results, a pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Turney in the case of Edward Wayne Myers, 20, Oakland, who pleaded guilty to charges of destruction of property and theft.

Both charges stem from an April 26 incident involving approximately $3,000 worth of vandalism at the Crellin Elementary School.

A charge against Myers of breaking and entering was declared nolle prosequi. Myers is currently out of jail on bond.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Ernest M. Durr, 27, Aurora, W. Va., who was found guilty of disturbing the peace in a public place.

The charge stemmed from a December 2, 1983, incident in the Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Durr had originally been charged with indecent exposure and the case sent to Circuit Court for a jury trial. However, after the charge was reduced to disturbing the peace, Durr pleaded guilty.

Judge Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation in the case of Doris Jane Ashby, 32, Corinth, W. Va., who was found guilty of battery.

Ashby was charged in the March 25 assault on Ruby Angelene Ayres. A charge of destruction of property was declared nolle prosequi.

A Mt. Lake Park couple was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $50, plus court costs.

Joseph C. DeWitt, 30, and his wife, Olive L. DeWitt, 22, were both charged in an incident which occurred on February 21 at Dennett Road School. Mrs. DeWitt was also charged in an assault on Clark Sharpless, principal of the school.

A bench warrant was issued for Scott William Rice, 22, Swanton, who failed to appear to answer to a charge of battery. The alleged incident occurred May 5 in Grantsville and involved an attack upon William B. Rice.

The case against Amy Teresa Lohr, 23, Deer Park, has been dismissed. Lohr had been charged with unlawful telephone use.

Oakland Police Report Mishap

The Oakland Police Department investigated a two-car mishap that occurred Independence Day afternoon at approximately 3:18 p.m., at the intersection of Oak and Fifth Streets in Oakland.

According to Police Chief John Sines, a vehicle being driven by Patrick Nichols, Davis, W. Va., and carrying two passengers, Linda Nichols and Jaclyn Nichols, was struck by a vehicle being driven by Clarence Cogley, Oakland.

Due to wet road conditions, no charges were filed by Officer Sines.

The Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene, and transported Jaclyn, 15 months of age, to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released. The child was wearing a safety seat which apparently did not restrain properly.

Minor Boating Mishap Reported

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Police Officers recently investigated a boating accident that occurred Friday in the Cherry Creek section of Deep Creek Lake.

According to Officer Richard Towers, a Crystal Waters Boat rental was being operated by Marc Bruneau, 23, Cockeysville, and as the driver attempted to make a turn the boat shifted sharply to one side and began taking in water.

The officer attributed the accident to the inexperience of the operator, the uneven weight distribution; all three of Bruneau's passengers were sitting on the same side of the vessel.

There were no injuries reported. Investigating officer Towers and Bradley Stafford made no charges.

On Assessing Income-Producing Residential Property

There are three approaches to estimating the values of real property: the market data approach, the replacement cost approach, and the income approach. Often various combinations of these three approaches are utilized in order to obtain the fairest valuations and greatest degree of uniformity which, at the same time, are reasonably consistent with the principle of the highest and best use of a property and which must always be considered by assessors.

Generally, residential property in predominantly owner-occupied neighborhoods is valued by employing both the cost replacement and market data approaches. This is satisfactory where the homes are predominantly owner-occupied, but in the larger cities, Baltimore City being a good example, where entire neighborhoods are often rental in character and where reliable sales data is sketchy, other methods must be employed along with the market data approach in estimating the fair market value.

One such technique, and the one utilized for this kind of property in the City, is application of a factor called the gross rent multiplier in conjunction with the documented fair market rent. The gross rent multiplier embodies a modified income approach to value. The considerations involved in its development are complex but it is computed on the basis of the economic rent, vacancy allowances, the analysis of income and expenses, allowances for reasonable rates of return on investment, and then correlating this information with that gleaned from the latest sales figures paid by buyers of this unique type of neighborhood property.

The City, for example, has more than 50,000 such rental properties—more than one out of every five—in predominantly residential neighborhoods. These are, for the most part, former single-family residential units which are now single—and double-family rental housing. This does not include apartments, which are classified as commercial property, and for which, in estimating value, the income approach is usually taken. The number of rental residences, as an indication of their importance in housing, is greater than the total number of all properties within each of the counties except the four largest.

Those neighborhoods within the City which are predominantly rental in character fall into three types: Type A being predominantly rental but with some owner-occupied properties; Type B being those where the majority of properties are rental; and Type C being those where practically all of the properties are rental. Each type is assigned a specific gross rent multiplier, which is updated periodically. Although the determination of an appropriate gross rent multiplier is complicated, the application is relatively simple. For example, if the adjusted fair market annual rent is $3,000, then the gross rent multiplier would be applied to this figure. Using the specific gross rent multiplier of 4.5 for the Type B category, which includes the largest portion of this kind of residential property, the value arrived at for the unit would be $13,500 ($3,000x4.5 = $13,500.) The assessment is then determined by applying the current growth factor to the full cash value figure.

Zoning Board

Humberson, of Humberson Homes, spoke in favor of the variance.

Red Run Applications Granted

After hearing nearly two hours of discussion and sometimes heated testimony about two requests for Red Run, the zoning board approved both requests.

The first will allow Red Run Restaurant, Inc. to convert the cocktail lounge into four boarding rooms. The conversion is expected to eliminate the traffic and noise that the nearby Red Run condo owners have been complaining about.

The board also approved a request to construct three of the four new condo units of the same exterior appearance as present units proposed by Ruth Umbel, owner of Red Run. Ms. Umbel's proposals were presented by her attorney, Ralph Burnett.

Spokesman for the opposition was Walter Clark, chairman of the Red Run management committee. Several others had written letters of opposition and at least 14 persons appeared to protest the proposals. They base opposition to the boarding rooms the fact that the Red Run development was never intended as a motel environment.

Speaking in favor of Ms. Umbel's request were William Fletcher and Walter Cool, both former partners.

Opposition to the condos cited that such development would create a condominium regime between other condo regimes; and a claim that there is not enough square footage in the parcel for four residential units, among others.

Chairman Jack Lear presided at the meeting, with members John Marple, Dr. William Savage, Irving Day, and Mrs. Betty Friend present. John Nelson zoning administrator conducted the meeting and recorded the proceedings.

FROM OLD-FASHIONED SPARKLERS to booming skyrockets, the hills and valleys of the county echoed yesterday with laughter and loud booms as citizens observed the Fourth of July holiday. Above, children still love to whirl sparklers through the dark night air, the more the merrier. Others preferred to gather in areas such as Broadford Park, where men like Milton Proudfoot, below, carefully prepared the gun powder-loaded fireworks for display. In Maryland, volunteers such as Proudfoot must attend a training session and be licensed before they are judged qualified to handle the potentially dangerous but beautiful skyrockets.

HOMEMAKERS CAREER OPPORTUNIES PROGRAM celebrated another successful year of assisting Garrett countians who must re-enter the work force after a long absence at the program's recent advisory board meeting. HCO Program Notes Successful Year Of Effort

The Homemaker Career Opportunities Program, a displaced homemaker project sponsored by Garrett Community College and jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Vocational/-Technical Education and GCC, commemorated the close of another successful year of operation in Garrett County at a recent meeting of its advisory board.

This displaced homemaker project has been serving the needs of men and women in the county since January of 1980, who, because of separation, divorce, widowhood, or economic changes in their lives, have required that they enter or return to the work force after a long absence.

The Program has had a successful year according to Barbara Frey, director, working with over 200 new and returning clients providing career advisement, career-oriented workshops, training opportunities, and job awareness. Approximately 80 of these individuals took advantage of over $4,000 tuition money made available through the program to take vocational classes to update skills which could lead to employment. At least 50 clients became employed during the 1983-84 fiscal year.

The HCO Program has been notified of approval for continued operation during the 1984-85 funding year beginning July 1, and will continue to offer its services to individuals seeking assistance in building self-confidence to develop their career abilities in order to enter the job market.

A large block of tuition money will again be available to qualifying persons during the coming year. To learn more about the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program, persons may call 334-9184.

Holiday Accident Injures Oakland Area Resident

Maryland State Police investigated one auto mishap that resulted in the hospitalization of one area woman. The accident occurred on old Route 135, near Southern High School, at approximately 10:30 p.m. on Independence Day.

According to police reports, a 1976 Chevrolet Nova being driven by James Edward Gallagher, 26, Oakland, was traveling west when his vehicle ran off the road onto the shoulder and the right wheels ran into a ditch causing the vehicle to overturn.

Gallagher and his wife, Pamela Sue, were transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad where he was treated and released. Mrs. Gallagher remains a patient there. Their son, James David, was not injured.

Tfc. L.R. Rosage investigated the mishap. No charges were filed.

Two area women were treated and released from Garrett Memorial Hospital after they were involved in a two-vehicle mishap Tuesday afternoon on Rt. 135, near the Sand Flat Road.

Reports indicated a 1981 Ford F-7000 tractor pulling a flatbed was being driven by Randie Allenson, Winchester, Va. Allenson was traveling east on Rt. 135 when he attempted to pass a vehicle being driven by Mary Etta DeWitt, McHenry. As Allenson passed her vehicle, DeWitt attempted a left turn onto the Sand Flat Road. The truck struck the DeWitt vehicle in the left side and the car then flipped over onto its side.

Traffic was halted until a special tow truck arrived from Cumberland to remove the truck.

Mrs. DeWitt and her passenger, Rosalind McCullough, Mt. Lake Park, were transported to the medical facility by the Southern Rescue Squad. Allenson was not injured.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney charged Allenson with improper passing.

A one-vehicle mishap was reported on Friday morning on the Bear Hill Road, near Jennings.

William Dale Pickrel, 22, Accident, was proceeding north on the Bear Hill Road when he slowed to let a dump truck pass. Pickrel pulled onto what appeared to be a grassy knoll which was actually tall grass growing on an embankment.

The Pickrel vehicle slid down the embankment and overturned. Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the mishap. There were no injuries reported.

A one-vehicle accident that occurred early Saturday morning resulted in minor injuries and a DWI charge for a Cumberland man.

Michael Derek Sarfino, 27, was northbound on Rt. 495 when he failed to negotiate a sharp turn onto the Rock Lodge Road and struck a large tree, a telephone booth and a highway sign.

Tfc. Chester Miller charged Sarfino with driving while intoxicated and failing to keep right-of-center.

Although the driver sustained minor injuries, he was not transported to any medical facility.

A minor hit-and-run accident was reported to police early Sunday morning when a vehicle being driven by Kip Leslie Washington, 19, Bunker Hill, W. Va., collided with a vehicle attempted to investigate the mishap. The car is reportedly owned by Dorothy Fulwood who resides in Washington, D.C. Her son, Thomas, had loaned the vehicle to Kip Washington who reportedly has no insurance.

In at attempt to protect his friend, Thomas Fulwood initially reported that he had been the driver involved in the mishap.

Luke Mill Report Details Facets Of Paper Production

Westvaco's Luke Mill has released its anual spring report, detailing its $4.7 million odor reduction program now underway, construction of a new Beryl bridge, and a $25 million moderization plan for the Beryl Woodyard.

Pages of the report were printed on some of the company's finest papers to demonstrate the capabilities of the plant, which is rated as one of the largest single fine papers mills in the nation.

Facts contained in the report show that the Luke Mill produces 1,100 tons per day of high quality white printing papers for books, magazines, catelogues, canned goods, cigarette wrap, etc. The company uses five paper machines, and the two largest paper machines together make over a mile and a half of paper, 20 feet wide, every two minutes.

During the paper-making process, the mill uses 1,000 tons of coal and 3,000 tons of wood a day; produces enough filtered water to provide the domestic needs of a city of 300,000 people, and generates enough power to supply a town the size of Cumberland with electricity.

In 1983, the plant had 1,932 employes and paid $742,000 in Allegany County taxes; $24,500 in Garrett County taxes, $112,000 in Mineral County taxes, and $189,800 in town taxes to Luke. Payroll and benefits amounted to $71,221,000.

During the last six years, the firm has spent $179,460,000 for new construction. Razing of old buildings has already taken place so a new administration building may be constructed at the corner of Pratt and Cromwell Streets in Luke. The four-story brick structure is being built by Noonan Construct, York, Pa. and is expected to be ready for occupancy by spring of 1985.

The three-story Devon Club building is being renovated for use as engineering offices. Total cost of these two projects is estimated at nearly $4.5 million.

This past year, a 750-gallon pumper was donated by Westvaco to the Luke Volunteer fire company and a new building to handle the emergency apparatus had been constructed at the Luke mill main gate.

Employees for the mill come from all over the tri-state area, including 41 from Bloomington; 16 from Oakland; 88 from Swanton; 11 from Kitzmiller; nine from Mt. Lake Park; 16 from Deer Park; one from Crellin, Accident, McHenry, Shallmar and three from Grantsville.

In 1983, the company's Luke mill won the Bill Pate Award, the state of Maryland's highest recognition of outstanding economic and civic achievement. The award was presented by Gov. Harry Hughes to John A. Luke on behalf of the corporation.

BUY CAKE, NOT FROSTING

Would it make sense to marry a lady because you like the shape of her nose—but everything else about her was completely unsuitable? If you did, chances are you would end up with a pretty nose and a lot of unhappiness.

Yet, this is one of the common mistakes that a househunter can make. All too often, a family will fall in love with an eye-catching feature, such as a rock garden, a chandelier, a built-in radar oven or a fancy fireplace and end up buying the wrong house. This mistake happens frequently and in all price ranges. You have to resist the temptation of paying too much attention to a frill and forgetting the importance of the overall house, location and price.

Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family winding up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that these same, alluring features can usually be added to another house at a relatively small cost, considering the amount of the overall purchase. Buy the house—not the frosting.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

Steve Forrest

By Val Carew

Some time ago there was a series called "S.W.A.T." I would like to know the real name of the actor who played T.J. McCabe. — M.L.B., Crete, Ill.

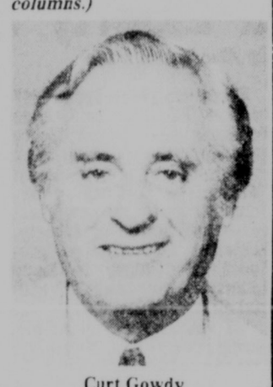
James Coleman played McCabe on "S.W.A.T.," which ran on ABC from February 1975 to June 1976. Steve Forrest was the star with Rod Perry, Robert Urich, Mark Shera (who went on to "Barnaby Jones") as other members of the Special Weapons and Tactics team.

Please tell me where I can get in touch with Phillip DeGuerre. He is the executive producer of "Simon and Simon" and the canceled "Whiz Kids." I have an ancestor with the same name and would like to get in touch concerning his family history. — Mrs. P.H.G., Kentwood, Mich.

DeGuerre works out of Universal Studios. Write him at Producer's Building, Universal Studios, Universal City, CA 91608.

Since we share the same last name of Snow, I am curious about Norman Snow who plays Richard Fairchild on "As the World Turns." Where can I write him? — S.S., Searcy, Ark.

The series originates in New York, so write Snow in care of the soap at CBS, 52 West 52nd St., New York, NY 10019.



Is Maxwell Caulfield the son of Joan Caulfied? — J.W., Beaver Dam, Wis.

There's no relation between the two at all.

My husband is very interested in sending a letter to Curt Gowdy. Could you please give me an address for him. — K.B., Couer D'Alene, Idaho.

Sure, tell your husband to write sportscaster Gowdy in care of Curt Gowdy Broadcasting, 33 Franklin Street, Lawrence, MA 01840.

(Do you have a question about TV? Write Val Carew at 200 Park Avenue, Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

Sachs Issues Alert To Owners Of Honda Autos

Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs Tuesday alerted all Maryland owners of 1979 Honda Accord or Civic automobiles that they have until August 15 to seek to qualify for an inspection and repair program the auto maker has instituted voluntarily in response to complaints about front fender rust problems on the cars.

Sachs said the rusting on the cars is due to a design problem that involves a closed-in area under the fender that does not allow ventilation or drainage, thereby promoting corrosion. The first signs of rusting are large, smooth blisters in the paint on the fenders on the top, near the windshield. When the paint flakes off the rust is revealed and the metal will give way, creating large holes, the Attorney General said.

Numerous complaints to American Honda Motor Co., Inc., and to federal consumer officials prompted the automaker to institute the inspection and repair program, which only covers Honda Accords and Civics made in 1979, Sachs said.

It is not known how many Marylanders own these autos, but the Federal Trade Commission has received "a sizable number of complaints from consumers in Maryland, particularly in the Washington area," Sachs said.

Hondo already has sent notices to all consumers who purchased the 1979 Accords in the 28 states that form the so-called "salt belt," in which the salt used to combat winter driving conditions creates additional corrosion problems, Sachs said. Maryland is one of the "salt belt" states, he said.

The company has not sent notices to the owners of Civic automobiles, according to federal consumer officials, because the company said there were too few Civics with the rust problem to warrant the expense of the mailing. Nevertheless, owners of these cars are covered by the repair and reimbursement program Sachs said.

Under the program, consumers who already have paid for repairs due to this specific rusting problem can apply for reimbursement from Honda, provided they can show the automaker that the repairs were completed before last February 15, which was five days after the company sent out its first notice about the program to consumers.

The program covers any consumer who owns a 1979 Honda Accord or Civic that now has fender rust or has had it repaired at the owner's expense. Although Honda only mailed notices to 1979 Accord owners in the "salt belt" states, any owner of 1979 Accords or Civics is eligible, including those who bought the car used or live elsewhere.

In addition, car owners who since have sold the car, but can show they paid for front fender rust repairs while they owned it, may be eligible for reimbursement, Sachs said. The company also asks consumers who complained about the problem earlier—but whose repair or reimbursement requests were denied by the company—to apply again for payment.

Consumers should contact a Honda dealer before August 15 and arrange to have their cars inspected, Sachs said. Even those owners of the affected 1979 models who have not had rust problems yet should arrange to have their cars looked at, he said.

If the inspection reveals the design problem that creates the rusting, the consumer can apply for repairs or for reimbursement, if they can show Honda the paid bills for repairs that were completed before February 15. Application for reimbursement must be made before the August 15 deadline.

Sachs said consumers with any questions about the Honda Accord and Civic repair and reimbursement program should contact Attorney Allen Hile at the Federal Trade Commission in Washington. The address is 6th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580. The telephone number is (202) 523-3357.

April Showers Dampen Driving

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says those April showers may have put a damper on the driving habits of Marylanders. Sales of motor fuel during April, 1984, increased by only about three-quarters of one percent over April, 1983, according to tax revenue statistics.

Marylanders used a total of 174,362,677 gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel during April, 1984, helping to generate motor fuel tax revenue of $23,955,863 during May, 1984. May motor fuel tax revenue was based on sales made during April.

"Despite the marginal increase in consumption, motor fuel tax revenue for May, 1984 posted a 24% increase over the same month last year," Goldstein said. "The year to year comparison includes revenue raised by the 13.5¢ per gallon tax rate enacted by the Maryland General Assembly, which went into effect June 1, 1983."

The motor fuel tax rate for the previous year was 11¢ per gallon.,

For the first 11 months of Fiscal Year 1984, motor fuel tax revenue totaled $276,337,354, a 25% increase over the $220,620,286 collected during the same period of the previous fiscal year. "This increase is also primarily attributable to the higher tax rate," Goldstein said.

IRS May Help In Collection Of Support Monies

Families whose court ordered child support payments are in arrears may be eligible to use the collection services of the Internal Revenue Service, the Department of Human Resources announced last week.

According to Ann Helton, executive director of the Child Support Enforcement Administration, "The IRS Collection Service is a service we offer to assist anyone whose child support payments are at least $750 in arrears and who have made all reasonable efforts to collect through the usual channels."

To qualify for the collection service, applicants must know the name, address, social security number and employer of the person owing the money. In addition, a statement of the obligor's known assets is helpful to the IRS.

"The IRS Collection Service is not widely known about by the general public and is consequently underutilized," noted Charles Dorsey, chairman of the Child Support Enforcement Advisory Council. "We would like to see more people with unusually high arrearages take advantage of this service." The Child Support Enforcement Advisory Council was established by Governor Hughes in 1983 to study the child support program in Maryland, advise the Child Support Enforcement administration and publicize the availability of child support services.

Applications for the IRS Collection Service may be obtained at the Child Support Office of the local Department of Social Services. The fee for the service is $122.50.

Medicaid Will Cover Cost Of Organ Transplants

Maryland Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, Adele Wilzack, R.N., M.S., at the direction of Governor Harry Hughes, has announced that proposed regulations have been developed to pay for organ transplants for Maryland Medical Assistance Program recipients.

"Maryland recognizes the need to provide access to these highly specialized and expensive services which are only available in major medical centers, often out of state," the Secretary said. "Maryland has developed one state's solution, but this is a national problem which requres a national solution."

This step paves the way for Mark Mitchell, of Baltimore, and other Marylanders who need organ transplants, to undergo surgery at these hospitals where the surgery can be done.

Under the proposed regulations, such procedures may be performed at Presbyterian University Hospital in Pittsburgh, where Mitchell expects to be treated, or at other national referral centers for organ transplants. The centers are to be designated by the Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene under the new regulations.

The proposed regulations receate a new approach to reimbursement for non-experimental organ transplants for Maryland Medicaid recipients treated in out-of-state centers. They also waive the current 20-day limitation on inpatient stays. The new method will help to assure access for Medicaid patients to hospitals which perform these highly sophisticated procedures.

Reimbursement under the proposed system will be actual costs, the Medicare per diem rate, or 70% of charges, whichever is less.

"The proposed regulations have been sent to Annapolis to be reviewed by the Administrative, Executive and Legislative Review Committee," Wilzack said. "We have been assured by AELR Committee Chair Senator Catherine Riley of prompt action by the Committee".

Americans were first able to travel coast to coast by bus in 1928, from Los Angeles to New York.

Qualifications For Prescription Drug Assistance Noted

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene has announced that a change in income standards will enable more residents of the state to become eligible for financial assistance in obtaining prescription drugs.

John W. Baker, manager of the Maryland Pharmacy Assistance Program, says that if a person's annual gross income is $5,400 or less for one person in a family, and that person is not receiving Medical Assistance (Medicaid), that person may be eligible to obtain prescription drugs at a cost of one dollar. The state will pay the remaining cost of the drugs and certain other covered items.

Baker said for that for each additional eligible person in the family, the income limit goes up approximately $300.00.

According to Baker, this new income level could allow between 2,500 and 3,000 more Marylanders to become eligible for the program. There are now approximately 12,000 Marylanders receiving support from the Pharmacy Assistance Program.

The Maryland Pharmacy Assistance Program was established in 1979 to provide assistance to those persons who have an annual gross income higher than that which would make them eligible for Medicaid but who are in need of financial assistance for the purchase of prescription drugs.

Eric Fine, M.D., director of the Preventive Medicine Administration said that "it is our experience that prescription drugs are an important part of an early preventive means of avoiding health problems that could occur at a later date and require more costly and complicated surgery. This program is an encouragement to not only avoid health problems and disease but is additionally cost effective."

For more information or an application form, persons who believe they may be eligible for this program may call toll free, 1-800-492-1974. Correspondence may also be addressed to Maryland Pharmacy Assistance Program, Post Office Box 386, Balitmore Md. 21203.

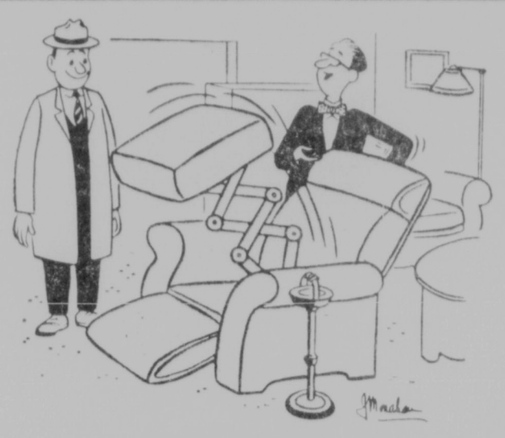
Local Educator Attends National Fellows Program

"School principals face a great challenge to prepare our nation's children for the technological world of the future," said Clark A. Sharpless, principal of Dennett Road Elementary School in Oakland, at a week-long seminar designed to strengthen leadership and instructional skills of elementary and middle school principals.

"Our key responsibility, if we are to maintain excellence in education, is to keep up with new developments in society and incorporate this knowledge into the school curriculum at the early stages of child development," Sharpless added. "To achieve this goal, we must first prepare ourselves."

Sharpless is one of over 300 educators throughout the country selected to attend the second annual National Fellows Program, sponsored by the National Association of Elementary School Principals (NAESP) in cooperation with Walt Disney World's Epcot Center, Orlando, Fla., and Florida Institute of Technology (FIT) in Melbourne.



Under the theme of "The School of Tomorrow - Today: Technology, Time and Talent," the session is exploring current educational issues as well as the area of educational technology, with faculty selected from among leading educators.

Workshops will occupy the first four days, followed by two days at Epcot Center to study the "community of tomorrow." Discussion groups, videotape presentation, and an open computer lab provide additional learning opportunities.

Highlights of the program are hands-on experience in using computers, a presentation of model techniques on how to increase academic learning time, and a workshop in which principals develop personal profiles to strengthen leadership skills.

The National Fellows program is offered in two identical sessions. July 1-7 and July 8-14.

The NAESP is a professional organization serving more than 22,000 elementary and middle school principals throughout the country, in Canada and overseas.

Debt Prevention Effort Underway

In a major effort to prevent debt, Social Security is contacting people on the roll studies show are likely to incur overpayments, Elaine Watson, Social Security district manager in Cumberland, said recently.

These are people who were overpaid in the past, who estimated they would earn less this year than last, who plan to start getting retirement checks this year, who earn over the exempt amount but still get some benefits, or those dependents whose benefits ended this year.

People in these groups will receive a letter asking if their plans have changed since they last notified Social Security, Watson said. Many of them estimated earlier what they expected to earn in 1894 and they will be asked if their estimate has changed.

Those whose plans have changed or who expect to earn more than they estimated will have their benefits adjusted so that they will not be overpaid.

Mrs. Watson said it is important for people getting benefits who work to notify Social Security if they expect to earn more than the annual exempt amount. In 1984 the annual exempt amount is $5,160 for people under 65 all of the year and $6,960 for people 65 through 69. There is no earnings limit for people 70 or older for all of 1984.

People who receive letters can make their report by completing a simple form enclosed with the letter. People who did not get a letter, but who want to make a report, can do so by calling or writing any Social Security office.

The Cumberland Social Security office is located at The Country Club Mall and the telephone number is 729-3232. The people there can provide more information about how work affects payment of benefits, Mrs. Watson said. A free leaflet, "How work affects Social Security checks," is available.

Sachs Announces New "Lemon Law" Now In Effect

Maryland Attorney General Stephen H. Sachs announced this week that the Consumer Protection Division of his office has prepared a fact sheet for consumers on Maryland's new "lemon law", which went into effect July 1.

"The Automotive Warranty Enforcement Act—the 'lemon law'—is an important piece of consumer legislation," Sachs said. "We supported it enthusiastically and we're delighted that it's now on the books, giving new car buyers in this state the right to seek a replacement vehicle or a refund if they find they've bought a lemon that simply can't be repaired."

According to the fact sheet, which is available for free from the Baltimore office of the Consumer Protection Division, the new law applies to all passenger vehicles, trucks and multi-purpose vehicles (except motor homes) purchased or delivered after July 1.

If consumers find that they have a problem with the vehicle during the first year or the first 12,000 miles, they should take it to any factory authorized dealer who sells that model for repair under warranty at no cost, the fact sheet states.

"Dealers are reimbursed by the manufacturer they represent for the work they do under the warranty, so any dealer should be happy to service the vehicle," explained Assistant Attorney General Steven J. Cole, Chief of the Consumer Protection Division. "In general, most of the problems with new cars are resolved by the dealer."

However, if the consumer is told that "all these models make that noise," or something like that, the dealer should be asked to put that diagnosis in writing on the repair order, Cole advised. "It's important that the consumer keep complete records of all the repairs that are done on the car, since that information is vital to pursuing subsequent complaints under the lemon law."

According to the fact sheet, a vehicle may be considered a lemon if:

•Defect in it substantially affects the consumer's ability to use the vehicle and reduces the value of it; and

George Edwards, congratulating her for winning the Maryland Miss Teen Charm Pageant and for representing the state in the national competition to be held July 10-14 at Arlington, Va. Lois Martin, Oakland, made a candlewick comforter for Kim to sell chances to defray expenses in the competition.

•The vehicle is out of service for repair of one or more defects for a cumulative total of 30 days during the warranty period; OR

•A single defect is not corrected after a total of four attempts by the dealer or manufacturer to repair it. If the defect involves the steering or brake systems, it should be fixed in one attmept.

If the consumer has a lemon, the law requires the manufacturer to:

•Replace the vehicle with a comparable one acceptable to the consumer; OR

•Accept the return of the vehicle and refund to the consumer the full purchase price including taxes and registration fees, less a reasonable allowance for the use of the vehicle. This allowance may not exceed 15% of the purchase price, according to the fact sheet.

In order to qualify for a replacement or refund under the lemon law, consumers with a complaint about their vehicles

House Approves Byron Amendments On EPA Deadlines

Sixth District Representative Beverly Byron last week offered a successful amendment to the water Quality Renewal Act (HR 3282) that would require the Environmental Protection Agency to make a decision within 60 days on an appeal of a bid determination. The amendment was passed by voice vote.

The amendment was offered as a result of a problem that the town Grantsville had with the EPA. EPA had required the town to correct a problem with their sewage system. When the original low bidder provided unsatisfactory service, Grantsville awarded the contract to the second lowest bidder. The original low bidder then appealed the decision to EPA.

The agency eventually upheld the town's decision, but not until a full six months later. As a result, Grantsville must renegotiate the bid because of increased costs, and will miss the October deadline for FY84 that will reduce their EPA fund match from 70% to 55%.

Representative Byron said, "Even though Grantsville won its case, it is still costing them extra money because of the six-month delay in the decision. EPA imposes many time constraints on businesses and municipalities—I do not think that it is unreasonable to ask for a timely determination on bid appeals. The agency should be more responsive to the country's towns and cities."

Boggess Attends NVATA Event In Massachusetts

Janet L. Boggess, vocational agriculture teacher at Southern High School, attended the National Vocational Agriculture Teachers' Association (NVATA) Regional Leadership Conference at Sturbridge, Mass., May 18-19. She joined over 100 vocational educators in agriculture to discuss issues/concerns confronting the profession. Vocational agriculture teachers from 12 state NVATA affiliated state associations participated in the two-day conference.

Six conferences are scheduled in 1984 to develop professional leadership, acquaint state association leaders with responsibilities related to the national organization, discuss mutual problems facing agricultural education, give direction to the NVATA, and become more knowledgeable about programs of vocational education in agriculture. The conferences include workshops on Quality Education, State/Federal Legislation, Agriculture/Agribusiness Relations and Membership Development.

Mrs. Boggess was one of the 13 agricultural educators representing the Maryland VATA at the conference. She is currently serving as treasurer for the state association.

The Massachusetts Vocational Agriculture Teachers' Association served as local hosts and arranged for meeting facilites, special functions and educational tours. The meeting was conducted by Carroll Shry, NVATA Region Vice President. He teachers vocational agriculture at Frederick Vo-Tech.

Farming in Maryland

GARRETT COUNTY Cooperative Extension Service

FARM-O-GRAM

by Jim Simms, Extension Agent, Agricultural Science

Attention Farm Families-An Important Program

Farming is the most hazardous occuptaion in the U.S. Each year here in our county we have several farm accidents and very unfortunately some of the accidents result in death. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Company is presenting a program on "Farm Accidents" on Thursday, July 12 at 7:00 p.m. at the Bittinger Fire Hall and Community Building. Tip Yaste of the Bittinger Fire Company says "This program is of excellent quality and designed to alert people to the danger and complexity of modern agricultural equipment." I know this is a busy time of the year but I urge you to attend. During the presentation many actual farm injuries are shown and the emergency care and rescue procedures need discussed.

European Corn Borer

This is the start of the time of year we can expect the Corn Borer. Symptoms: "Someone's been shooting birdshot at this Corn." This insect declares war on the whole plant. There are normally two generations of European Corn Borer you have to worry about. Each causes different damages. Larvae of the first generation feed on the leaves and cause "Shot hole" damage to plants. Borers enter the mid-rib and may cause leaves to break. Mature larvae later burrow into the stalk causing disruption of moisture and nutrient transportation in the plant. Second generation larvae bore into and feed on stalks, tassels and ear shanks as well as leaf collars and developing kernels. This reduces dry matter production and causes broken stalks and dropped ears. Some of the insecticides that you can use are: Sevin 80S, Furadan 15G, Lorsban, Diazinon, Pydrin, Dyfonte, Penncap-M, Thimet 15G. Make sure you follow directions on the label. If you need my help give me a call.

Using Up Toxaphene

Most uses of toxaphene, as you remember, were cancelled as of December 31, 1983. Although toxaphene can no longer be purchased for those uses, farmers who still have some toxaphene on hand may use it up according to the directions on the label through December 31, 1986. After that date, it will be illegal to apply toxaphene, and remaining stocks will have to be disposed of according to EPA guidelines. Therefore, it makes sense to use up any leftover toxaphene you may have, according to label directions, before the end of the 1986 field season.

Farm Bureau To Hold Picnic

The Garrett County Farm Bureau will be having its annual picnic on Sunday, July 15, at 1 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Each member is asked to bring a covered dish, and meat and beverage will be furnished by the Bureau.

A representative from the State office will be present to relay greetings and answer questions. Young farmers and their families are urged to attend, because a brief meeting will be held sometime during the afternoon.

It has been announced that the Garrett County Farm Bureau has again successfully met its membership goal for 1983, and extended appreciation to all who joined, or assisted in any way with the campaign. Solicitation for next year's dues will soon get underway and all those wishing to be members are urged to contact Merrell Wilburn, secretary/treasurer, as soon as possible.

Market Line Now Toll Free

The seasonal consumer and farmer information service, "MDA Market Line" which has been a service of the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Marketing Services Section for the past two years, went on a toll-free telephone call basis July 1, announced Bradley H. Powers this week.

Powers, chief of the Marketing Services Section of MDA said, "We have made arrangements to use an 800 telephone system so that all Marylanders can now avail themselves of the news reports without having to pay for a toll call.

"Anyone in Maryland can call 800-492-2105 at anytime for the reports which consist of three minute taped messages changed each weekday at 4 p.m."

The schedule for the reports is as follows: On Mondays a weekly crop weather report is put on line giving the latest growing conditions, planting progress, and agriculturally-related weather information.

On Tuesday, the report consists of various farm-oriented news such as grain stocks, slaughter figures, inventories, prices paid and prices received statistics.

On Wednesdays, the report is a summary of the well-known "Retail Food Price Report" based on a cost survey taken each week in supermarkets by MDA's Helen Huber.

The Thursday report is a version of the "Maryland Feed and Grain Report" which gives summary information on cash grain prices, feed prices and livestock prices.

Of particular interest to consumers is the Friday report which consists of a survey on availability of Maryland-grown fruits and vegetables so that buyers can take advantage of local harvest opportunities at roadside stands, pick-your-own farms and markets that sell locally produced fruits and vegetables," Powers said.

ENERGY TIP: Store food in containers just large enough to hold the amount of food you have to store. Putting small amounts in large containers wastes cooling energy and adds to electric bills. You will also be saving space in the refrigerator and allowing air to circulate.

SAFETY WITH FOOD MIXTURES

Meat, poultry, and egg-containing mixtures, used as salads or as sandwich fillings, are perishable foods and need to be prepared and handled with care. Questions are often asked concerning the safety of these mixtures.

Here are recommendations made by USDA regarding the handling of these mixtures - whether or not they contain mayonnaise:

*Be sure that poultry used in the mixture has been thoroughly cooked.

*Be especially careful to wash hands, utensils, and surfaces thoroughly before deboning meat or poultry for use in meat, poultry, and egg-containing mixtures.

*Thoroughly clean equipment and work surfaces that have been used for raw food before you use them for cooked foods. This prevents the cooked food from becoming contaminated with bacteria that may have been present in the raw food.

*Debone meat or poultry as soon as possible after cooking or cool cooked meat or poultry promptly and thoroughly before deboning. Chill deboned meat thoroughly in shallow pans before adding other ingredients of the mixture.

*Thoroughly wash raw vegetables to remove soil and other bacteria. They can serve as a source of bacterial contamination in the mixture.

*In preparing and mixing meat mixtures make sure that all ingredients are thoroughly chilled. After mixing, place the mixture in shallow, covered containers that will allow heat gained during mixing to be removed quickly.

*Keep mixtures cold during transportation to outings through the use of coolers, etc., and keep mixtures chilled throughout the serving period. Remember, food may not be safe to eat if held for more than 2 or 3 hours at temperatures between 60°: and 125° F., the zone where bacteria grow rapidly.

FOOD NOTES

Blueberries are a favorite summer treat. They must be handled with care. Fresh blueberries are perishable and should be refrigerated until they are used. Once chilled, they will last at peak flavor for two weeks. At room temperature they soon lose their fresh goodness. Blueberries should not be washed until time to use them. They contain 87 calories per cup, and small amounts of vitamins A and C, plus some of the B group, thiamin and riboflavin.

Here's a blueberry recipe I think you'll enjoy:

VERY BLUEBERRY PIE

¼ cup cold water
5 tablespoons all purpose flour
Pinch of salt
4 cups fresh or dry-pack frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
1 cup sugar
½ cup water
Baked 9-inch pie shell

Make a smooth paste of the water, flour and salt. Boil 1 cup of the blueberries with sugar and water. Add the flour paste and stir until it thickens. Remove from stove and cool. When cool, add the remaining blueberries and put into baked pie shell. Refrigerate. When cold, garnish with sweetened whipped cream or whipped topping.

Work Sharing Now Available In Maryland

Work Sharing, a voluntary unemployment insurance program which allows workers to agree to share reduced work hours rather than have some workers face a total layoff, is now available in Maryland.

According to Brent M. Johnson, State Secretary of Employment and Training, the Work Sharing program, adopted into law during the 1984 Session of the Maryland General Assembly, allows employers to reduce their labor costs during periods of temporary decline in business and still maintain a full work force with minimum financial loss to those workers.

Basically, the program allows the Department of Employment and Training to supplement reduced wages with unemployment insurance benefits for workers who agree to work fewer work hours for less total pay.

Johnson explained that previously when employers needed to reduce their labor costs by 20 percent, for example, they would generally lay off 20 percent of the work force. The Work Sharing program now offers an alternative by allowing those employers, with the agreement of their employees, to reduce a normal five-day work week by 20 percent to four days and accomplish the same savings in labor costs. For the fifth day in which the employees do not work, they would receive unemployment insurance benefits on a pro rata basis for the Department of Employment and Training. As a result the employers would realize a 20 percent reduction in labor costs while their entire work force would receive about 90 percent of their normal, full time weekly earnings.

In addition to reducing labor costs the Work Sharing program enables employers to maintain the same quality of work previously experienced, expand rapidly and avoid training costs of new employees when normal productivity resumes. At the same time, employees can maintain their skills, have access to the same advancement opportunities and keep their fringe benefits. Also, the most recent hired will not suffer the burden of bearing the heaviest financial losses resulting from layoffs.

For more information about the Work Sharing Unemployment Insurance Program, interested persons should call the Jobs Hotline at 1-800-422-JOBS or the Work Sharing Unit at 383-4167.

Dr. Feaster Retains AAFP Membership

Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr., Oakland, has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The Academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for the members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. Members become eligible for re-election at the end of the third year following their election to membership. The Academy, the country's second largest national medical association, was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

The Academy, founded in 1947 and headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969. The new specialty is expected to increase the numbers of family physicians available to serve the public in the future. The Academy's continuing education program is the foundation of eligibility for the family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new specialty.

Public Opinion Poll On Schools To Be Conducted

A poll of public opinion of the public schools will be conducted in Garrett County beginning the week of July 30, according to Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Schools.

"We expect the poll to provide valuable benchmark data on attitudes of the community toward the schools," the superintendent said. "Also, we hope this experience will provide a vehicle by which we may regularly update our data."

The survey, based upon the 16th Annual Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes Toward the Public Schools, will involve a short interview by local volunteer callers of approximately 400 randomly selected residents. The same poll will be conducted simultaneously in the other public school systems in Maryland.

Tabulation of responses will be completed in September. Results are expected to be ready for release in October. Consolidated statewide results will be released at about the same time. The poll is part of the Maryland State Department of Education's Communication Project, "Maryland Schools: People on the Grow."

If any individuals or groups are interested in serving as interviewers, they are asked to call Paul Harr, at the Board of Education, 334-8121.

Group Seeking Volunteers To Visit Homebound Elderly

The Commission on Aging in Garrett County is seeking volunteers to help isolated elderly persons through a Reminiscence visiting program.

A seminar to train volunteers will be offered at the Village Inn July 17, 18 and 19, from 6:30 to 9:30 each evening in the Crow's Nest. Trainer will be Earl Kragnes, senior coordinator for Interreligious Liaison Office of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), which sponsors the program nationwide. Any persons interested in becoming volunteers should contact either Vickie Berry at 334-8733, or Lois Brenneman, Commission on Aging, at 334-3314.

Elderly persons to be visited locally will be chosen through referrals from churches and from the Commission on Aging.

The program is described by AARP literature as "A visiting program where volunteers help isolated persons share life experiences and affirm feelings of worth." The description continues: "The program trains volunteers to employ their listening and visiting skills in sharing another person's cherished memories and facilitating the life review efforts of homebound and institutionalized elderly. The volunteers enjoy the satisfaction that comes from helping others—experiences about which they too will someday reminisce.

"When older persons are institutionalized or become homebound, they often suffer from loss of contact with family members, friends and others important to them. Even when these relationships are maintained through frequent visits, they may fail to meet the older person's need for acceptance, credibility or approval."

DECD Announces Marketing Effort

Department of Economic and Community Development Secretary Frank J. De Francis this week unveiled a major new marketing effort targeted at all Maryland businesses to increase their awareness of the services DECD offers to help businesses grow and expand.

Governor Hughes will launch the new marketing effort in a series of 30-second commercials which will be used in Baltimore and Washington area news show slots promoting DECD's new toll-free 800 number. Callers to the 800 number will receive immediate responses to questions about DECD programs to assist their business in Maryland. The 800 number will be staffed by DECD's three top industrial representatives to ensure accurate and timely responses.

DECD will create a new unit known as the Maryland Business Assistance Center which will be comprised of 18 positions consolidated from three existing DECD programs. The three 800 consultants will serve as the command post. Inquiries that are not immediately answered will be assigned to one of ten industrial representatives who will then work with each company.

"The new marketing effort represents a bold new approach to make it easier for businesses to operate in Maryland," said DECD Secretary Frank J. De Francis. "It allows a business person to make a single phone call and quickly get all questions answered regarding DECD's programs that are designed to help the business community."

"This program will not diminish our efforts in any way whatsoever to bring new businesses into the state. However, it is a message to in-state businesses that the state of Maryland has organized its priorities to take care of its own," he added.

De Francis emphasized that the Business Assistance Center will operate within DECD's existing staffing and funding parameters.

The creation of the Business Assistance Center allows DECD to concentrate a greater share of its resources on assisting existing businesses and ensures that working with existing businesses is a priority within the department, De Francis said. This program will also give DECD a greater flexibility in marketing all of its economic development programs and will put the department in a position of being an advocate for the business community, he stated.

The new marketing effort will begin on or about August 1.

must follow certain steps, the fact sheet notes. They must:

•Notify the manufacturer or a factory branch in writing, by certified mail, return receipt requested, and enclose copies of all documentation relating to the vehicle's repairs. Consumers should check their owner's manuals for the local zone official's address and procedural instructions. They also should keep copies of all correspondence.

The law says that the manufacturer must be given an opportunity to repair the defect or defects in the vehicle. Ultimately, it is the manufacturer, not the dealer, who may be obligated to provide a refund or replace the vehicle, Cole noted.

If the manufacturer has an informal arbitration procedure, the consumer must use that program in an effort to resolve the complaint. If the manufacturer has no arbitration program, or if the consumer is not satisfied with the arbitrator's decision or does not get a replacement vehicle or a refund, the Divisions's fact sheet advises the consumer to file a claim in court against the manufacturer. If the consumer is successful in court, the manufacturer may be ordered to pay all attorney's fees in addition to the consumer's claim, the fact sheet notes.

Sachs said that consumers wishing a copy of the fact sheet may obtain one for free by writing to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 7 N. Calvert Street, Third Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21202, or telephoning (301) 528-8662.

BOARDING HOUSES used to be common in Mountain Lake Park and vacancies in these homes were few and far between during the summer months when thousands of persons would come to the Park from all over the east to partake of the cool, mountain air and particularly the wide variety of activities, entertainment and culture offered by the Chautauqua program. Many of the boarding houses are now gone, however several of them have been restored and are now used as private homes. Pictured above left is the Ohio Cottage, which was located at the corner of H Street and Alleghany Drive. After being used as an apartment building for some years, it was demolished about five years ago. Above right is the Colonial, located at the corner of G and Cedar Streets. It was built in about 1903 by a Weimer family and functioned as a boarding house for about 50 years. It is now the private residence of Mr. and Mrs. Welton Lane. Below left is the Haydenhurst boarding house, located next to the Colonial. It has been extensively remodeled in recent years. Below right is the Alleghany House, at the corner of H and Cedar Streets. It is presently owned by Weir Pollard, Hagerstown, and was operated as a boarding house for many years by his grandmother. An historical presentation entitled "The Boarding House Reach" will be presented on Saturday, July 14, at 11 a.m., at the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall by Mary I. Love, a local historian. The event is one of several activities of the second annual Mountain Lake Park Days, to be held July 13-15.

Mountain Lake Park Days To Feature Historical Presentations By M. I. Love

Mountain Lake Park, with its many Victorian houses in various stages of renovation or dilapidation, takes some understanding. Why were all those large, elaborate houses built there a century ago? What attracted people to this area miles from anywhere? Was it just scenery? Above all, where is the lake that gave the place its name? And what happened that caused people to let their houses go to seed as they did? What's happening now to cause a revival of interest and pride in the Park?

These are some of the questions that Mary I. Love will attempt to answer in a talk during Mountain Lake Park Days on Friday, July 13, at 8:30 p.m. Her presentation will be held in the tabernacle auditorium in the grove along G Street.

Miss Love, Oakland, was the coordinator of the Mountain Lake Park Ad Hoc Committee which organized the first Mountain Lake Park Days last year with the aid of a grant from the Maryland Humanities Council. She has known the Park for many years, but is an avocational historian, having been trained and employed as a clinical psychologist with the Garrett County Health Department for a number of years.

Miss Love's presentation will be based on publications going back to the Park's founding and will be augmented by recollections of people who "remember when." It will be accompanied by slides of the past and present scenes, some of them provided by the Maryland Historical Trust.

"History is not static, and since interest has been aroused in the Park, new accounts of the old days have been turning up to augment what we thought we knew last year about the Park's organization and downfall," Miss Love stated.

Another presentation, entitled "The Boarding House Reach," will be presented by Miss Love on Saturday, July 14, at 11 a.m. in the same location. Summer boarding houses were an important part of the Park living from its founding until the late 1940s or early '50s, according to Miss Love. "They provided a way of life far removed from today's motels and fast food chains," she said, "a way of life that had its own charms and inconveniences, and that deserves to be recalled, although not revived."

A complete schedule of events for the Second Annual Mountain Lake Park Days appears on the front page of this newspaper.

Revenue Sharing Requests Exceed County's Total

A hearing for proposals on the use of federal revenue sharing funds held Tuesday included requests from the Sheriff's Department and the Garrett County Firemen's Association totalling $107,500. An additional $793,000 in written requests previously submitted to the Board of County Commissioners brings the total of requests at this time to $901,050, or about $161,000 more than the county's revenue sharing fund total of $739,844.

Written requests submitted to the commissioners office include $268,550 from the Board of Education for architectural services for the Northern High School renovation project, and school site improvements and remodeling or repairs on several county schools.

The County Roads Department has requested $460,000 for capital equipment purchases, and capital projects such as bridge replacement.

The Garrett County Election Board submitted a request for $65,000 to purchase an electronic voting system, which they say will save the county $53,000 in reduced storage, personnel, transportation costs,

MANY TOUCHING REUNIONS, such as the one shown above, could be seen July 4 when the Fresh Air Children arrived at the Maple Glen Church, near Grantsville. Approximately 80 underprivileged youngsters from New York City were met by area families. Yvette and Bernadette Dubois, nine-year-old twin girls from Manhattan, were greeted by members of the Ernest Yoder family. This is the third visit to the Yoder farm, located outside Salisbury, Pa., for the Dubois sisters. The children will spend two weeks in area homes to give them an opportunity to experience summer in an atmosphere outside the city streets.

Southern Rescue Personnel Handle Unusual Call

Members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad handle a wide variety of emergency calls for assistance, just as all rescue squad personnel do; however few are any more unusual than one that occurred this past Saturday.

It seems that Mary Weimer, Oakland-Sang Run Road, was out in her yard getting some exercise when a young man approached her on his 185 Honda three-wheeler. He stopped and Mrs. Weimer asked if she might try to operate the vehicle. She climbed aboard and inquired as to where the brakes and throttle were. She then proceeded to take off at full throttle, heading directly toward her house. The three-wheeler overturned her into the shrubbery as she attemped to steer away from the house.

Mrs. Weimer was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released for cuts and bruises.

So what's so unusual? The man operating the three-wheeler before the mishap occurred was her grandson. She also has great-grandchildren who drive three-wheelers. Mrs. Weimer is 91 years old.

She had ridden on the three-wheeler with her grandson previously and her four-year-old great-granddaughter captured a trophy recently in a race at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. She had been considering buying her own three-wheeler, according to one member of her family, however that decision has now been at least delayed since the treating physician at Garrett County Memorial advised that she wait at least three weeks before attempting to ride again.

Commissioners OK Purchase Of Roads Dept. Trucks

The Board of County Commissioners voted two to one to purchase 12 Mack dump trucks, and to lease-purchase an additional seven trucks from Interstate Truck Equipment Co., Hagerstown, on Tuesday.

Commissioner John Braskey, who cast the dissenting vote, said that, while he is not opposed to upgrading the county roads equipment, the upgrading should be done in a fiscally prudent manner.

He specifically opposed the lease-purchase of the seven additional trucks. He said, "The roads budget was set up for the purchase of 12 trucks. The lease-purchase was a new idea I opposed. We can't afford to buy the trucks outright. When the 19 trucks need replaced the county may not be in as good a financial condition as it is now. Replacement of such a large number of trucks at one time could pose a serious financial hardship on the county."

Interstate Truck Equipment, Co. was the low bidder for the contract to provide the trucks. County roads supervisor Ken Metheny said that the purchase will be advantageous because the county already has a good inventory of parts on hand for the Mack trucks.

The purchase of the trucks, for $50,478 each, will complete the replacement of the county roads truck fleet, except for a few spare trucks, with vehicles two years old or younger, according to Bob Fousek, county clerk.

Mtn. Lake Park Days Location Changes Noted

Some changes in location of a number of events of the second annual Mountain Lake Park Days, slated for this Friday through Sunday, were noted this week by Kathie Smith, coordinator of the celebration.

The croquet and horseshoe pitching tournaments, as well as the pony rides, which were once slated to take place on the grounds of the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall, have been moved to other locations. The antiques, arts and crafts booths and displays have also been moved just off the Assembly Hall property to the corner of G and Spruce Streets.

The croquet events, slated for Saturday and Sunday afternoons, will be held at the Willard Hayden residence on the corner of G and Cedar Streets, the horseshoe pitching competitions will be held on the corner of H and Oak streets, and the pony rides will take place on the property of Manning and Kathie Smith, G and Oak streets.

The changes were made because of the desire of the Mountain Lake Park Holiness Camp Meeting Association, owners of the Assembly Hall property, that the grounds not be used for these events on Sunday.

A full schedule of events will begin on Friday evening at 8 p.m. at the Assembly Hall auditorium with a performance by the Galileans, a local barbershop style men's chorus, followed by an historical slide presentation by Mary I. Love and remarks by U.S. Senator Jennings Randolph (see separate story).

Persons desiring to take tours of a dozen of the Park's Victorian homes may purchase tickets for the tours, to be held Saturday and Sunday afternoons, beginning Friday evening at the Assembly Hall. The price is $5 per ticket which is

Groundhog, Skunk Confirmed Rabid

Confirmation of Garrett's first rabid skunk and groundhog was received Wednesday by the county health department, bringing the total number of rabies cases this year to 14.

Case number 12 was a rabid raccoon killed on the Virgil Stone property off Table Rock Road near Mettiki. Stone was alerted by the family dogs about 5 a.m. July 1 when they got in a scuffle with the coon. None of the three dogs had been vaccinated against the disease, and Virgil Stone had his dog destroyed.

His son Neil, however, has agreed to keep his two German shepherds in strict quarantine for six months, and has also been advised by the health department to undergo the series of pre-exposure rabies vaccine to keep him from contracting the disease in case one of the dogs is later confirmed as rabid.

Isolation means the dog must be confined within a double fence. The animal must be vaccinated after five months. There is no post-exposure vaccine for animals.

The county's first cases of rabies in wild animals other than raccoons were confirmed Wednesday, according to Rodney Glotfelty, rabies prevention coordinator for the health department.

A groundhog had come out of the woods near the Robert Coddington home along Pysell Crosscut near Sand Flat Road and attacked the Coddington dog. A neighbor, Ed Lewis, shot the groundhog and the carcass was turned over to the health department. Coddington's dog had recently been re-vaccinated, and requires a 90-day quarantine before being declared free of the disease.

Route 50 resident David Caruthers had his dog in a pen when it was attacked by a skunk which crawled into the enclosure. The dog, which had been vaccinated, will be revaccinated and will require a 90-day quarantine.

No human exposure was recorded in either of the last two cases.

The Preston County health authorities confirmed its first case the last week of June, when a rabid raccoon was killed in the Aurora area.

Anyone who finds a suspicious animal in that area is urged to contact the Preston County Department of Health.

The Republican's Mountaintop Spotlight Now Direct Mailed

Publishers of The Republican this week announced they will begin to direct mail their Mountaintop Spotlight (television listings) to help advertisers meet the growing need for 100% coverage of the market area at a reasonable cost.

To offset the tendency of discarding third class printed matter the moment it hits the door, the Spotlight will contain exclusive TV listings for the coming week and local news briefs, giving the advertiser the potential of having his message read not just once, but several times during the week. It will be distributed to households and businesses at no cost to the recipient.

Nearly 15,000 are being distributed to Garrett County and parts of Preston, Tucker, Grant, and Mineral Counties, West Virginia. It will be larger in size than the usual third class mailer, being eight columns in width, the same size as The Republican.

Printing and publishing will be done in Oakland.

County Wants Included in Conference Study

The Garrett County Commissioners agreed Tuesday to have Garrett included in a study of potential sites for a state-subsidized conference center.

The agreement was made with Dr. Torrey Brown, DNR Secretary, during a conference call between the four men.

Dr. Brown was inquiring whether the county wants a Deep Creek State Park site included in a $250,000 study underway by the Western Maryland Enterprise Study Committee. The group is studying the potential of state-owned land at Rocky Gap State Park in Allegany for a convention-tourism center complete with 400 motel rooms and all amenities.

Dr. Brown was inquiring not only whether the county wants to be included in the study committee's review, but whether officials would agree to abide by the decision of the committee. The commissioners agreed to abide by the decision.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg stated "If, in the event that the committee persists and recommends Allegany County, then we'll accept that. It is then out of our power to do anything and it would fall upon the members of the General Assembly to either fund or refuse to fund the monies for any such facility. It could well be that the consultant may find the sites in both counties are unacceptable."

However, Gregg qualified his statement by saying "In the meantime, we are going to do everything in our power to lobby, push, shove and persuade the committee that Garrett County is the logical

"How The Other Half Loves" Next Playhouse Show

The third show of this summer's Garrett County Playhouse season, playing July 18-21, will be Alan Ayckbourn's "How the Other Half Loves." It will feature Playhouse veteran performers Chris von Eckartsberg and Joan Statkus. Milburn Mehlhop will direct.

"How the Other Half Loves" is a farce confusing two households in marital upheaval. Playwright Ayckbourn has become very well-known for this comedy trilogy, "The Norman Conquests."

Tonight through Saturday, see Philip King's "So Far . . . No Further" at the Playhouse. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Garrett Crossroads Board Responds To Commissioners', Residents' Concerns

The Garrett Crossroads Board of Directors responded by letter Tuesday to last week's letter from the Board of County Commissioners which objected to Crossroads' plans to locate two apartment living units in the Mitchell Manor and 11th Street areas of Oakland.

The Crossroads letter said that the commissioners' quick written and verbal repsonses to the delegations of residents of the two areas, "without allowing us to further clarify some of the misrepresentations and inaccurate statements, are methods that have had a very adverse effect to these types of programs for the developmentally disabled in Garrett County that may prove detrimental for months or years to come."

The commissioners' letter last week urged "your board to re-evaluate its intended sites, follow the proper procedures, let common sense prevail, conduct public information hearings, as prescribed by law, and stop circumventing the system that has disrupted and caused ill feelings in the community."

Crossroads' letter to the commissioners responded with, "In light of the fact that there is no law requiring public hearings for alternative living units, and that our ALU project has existed successfully without incident in the Oakland area, we do not feel that we have circumvented any system, and we have followed proper procedures for establishing ALUs."

Kathy Pontzer, executive director of the Western Maryland Coalition for the Disabled, the agency which submitted the loan applications to HUD, said Tuesday, "The coalition, which is composed of service provider agencies for the disabled from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick Counties, was caught completely off guard by this opposition. Many residences have been operated in Washington and Frederick Counties by member agencies, without opposition. We didn't think there would be any animosity."

Crossroads Director Dan Elmlinger has repeatedly stated that his agency did not see the need to hold public hearings on the sites, as Crossroads had already started similar apartment units in two locations in Oakland, which were readily accepted. The currently operating site is across from the county courthouse on Alder Street.

The Crossroads board said that the letter they received from the commissioners contained a number of inaccurate statements, which should be clarified.

Board president Jennifer Kotulak said that, although the commissioners' letter referred to the homes as being purchased through Department of Housing and Urban Development and state of Maryland loans, no funding from the state of Maryland is involved in the purchase of the two alternative living sites.

According to Crossroads board members, Frederick-

Pilot Uninjured As Small Plane Overturns Monday

If, as they say, "any landing you can walk away from is a good landing," then a Pennsylvania pilot made a great landing Monday afternoon even though his plane overturned.

Maryland State Police reported that Thomas R. Lanager, 37, Curwensville, Pa. was making an intentional landing on an airfield behind Bull's Restaurant along Rt. 135, on Backbone Mountian, when the left wing of the single-engine Cessna became entangled in the brush. The plane was pulled to the left and overturned. Lanager climbed out without sustaining any injuries.

The pilot was enroute to the Swanton area from Clearville, Pa., when the 12:30 p.m. mishap occurred. The plane was reportedly traveling at about ten miles per hour at the time.

Allegany County Civil Defense dispatched the Bloomington and Westernport Fire Departments, the Tri-Towns Rescue Squad, and the State Police Medevac helicopter to the scene.

County Planners Consider Changes In Lake Area Plan

The Garrett County Planning Commission considered two alterations to the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Plan, which is currently undergoing an update, at the commission's regular meeting Wednesday.

As a result of the commission's request that citizens make their desire for any alterations in the current plan known to the commission during the update process, James & Robert McCann, of Marsh Hill Road, and Bruce K. Sweitzer, Jr., of North Glade, submitted requests to have the zoning of properties in the above mentioned areas re-examined by the commission.

The McCann request involves an area of about 15 acres, across Marsh Hill Road from the Wisp Ski Area, which was purchased by the McCann family in 1949, when it contained a marina. It has a history of commercial use through the year 1964, when a miniature golf course on the property was destroyed by a severe winter storm and ceased operation.

The McCann family cites the fact that the property is virtually surrounded by commercial

Senator Jennings Randolph To Visit During Mountain Lake Park Days

U.S. Senator Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., a frequent visitor of Mountain Lake Park for many of his 82 years, will be a guest of honor at the opening events of Mountain Lake Park Days this weekend.

Senator Randolph who has spent five decades in the United States legislature, will give remarks Friday evening at the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall auditoruium following an historical slide presentation by Mary I. Love, local Mountain Lake Park historian.

Jennings Randolph was only three years old the first time his mother, Idell Bingman Randolph, took him to Mountain Lake Park. His father, Ernest, and the owner of the Dunnington Hotel in the Park were business partners.

Young Randolph says that he had a canoe named "Pal" that he used for racing sessions on Mountain Lake and he also spent a considerable amount of time on the Mountain Lake Park tennis courts, having participated in the first tournament ever held there. He also had a summer job in the bowling alley that was at one time located next to the tennis courts.

The Senator also remembers swimming in the indoor pool at the Loch Lynn Hotel and attending dances at the famous Deer Park Hotel.

One young woman Randolph greeted a number of times in the Park, and later married, was Mary Catherine Babb.

Senator Randolph was born in Salem, W. Va., in 1902. He is a former newspaper and magazine editor, college professor and university dean, airline executive and transportation officer, and a member and director of numerous organizations, societies and foundations for education business, civic and service programs. He has been the recipient of 20 honorary degrees and served as a trustee of Salem College for 50 years.

He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1932 and to the U.S. Senate in 1958, where he has remained until this day. He has written or strongly influenced legislation in many fields.

He was the first chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on the

Grantsville Man Charged With Rape, Battery

A Grantsville man has been charged by Maryland State Police with first and second degree rape and three counts of battery.

A warrant was issued on July 2 for the arrest of David L. Wilt, 26, at which time he was taken to the Garrett County jail. Wilt has since been released on $30,000 bond.

The charges stem from an incident which occurred on May 24 along the Maynadier Ridge Road and a June 29 incident which occurred near Keyser's Ridge.

MILLIONS OF VOLTS OF ELECTRICITY have filled local skies this past week, accompanied by heavy downpours that have flooded streets, yards and gardens. Drier conditions for the next few days have been promised by the weatherpersons who explain that cool air near the surface of the earth being covered by warmer air is the reason for the stormy activity. This time exposure was taken by The Republican staff photographer, Craig Phillips, in the Bittinger area on Tuesday evening. Over three inches of rain have fallen on the mountaintop during the past week, according to local weather stations.

WHETHER FROM THE CITY OR THE COUNTRY, all children share the attraction toward a small kitten. These Fresh Air Children, shown above, were captivated by the little creature that accompanied their hosts. Approximately 80 underprivileged children arrived July 4 from New York City to meet their hosting families at the Maple Glen Church, near Grantsville. After a few awkward moments, trusting friendships were formed and the children set off, depicted below, for a country adventure. They will spend two weeks outside the realm of asphalt and concrete and enjoy a portion of a Garrett County summer.

Highlanders Win National Award

The highlander bagpipe band of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, Cumberland, participated in National bagpipe bands competition at Boston University on July 3 and received a second place award. The event, sponsored by the National Shrine Pipe Bands Association, included various Shrine pipe bands from the United States and Candada, and was associated with the Imperial Shrine Council Convention held at Boston, Mass., July 2-6.

In addition, the Ali Ghan Highlanders participated in the Imperial Shrine Parade on July 4. Following the parade, the Highlanders then performed at the Imperial Shrine Recorder's banquet held at the Boston Sheraton Hotel.

Band members participating were: Drum Major, Ray Lapp; Pipe Major, Fred Thayer; Pipers, Paul Buchanan, Kyle Diehl, Bruce Douglas, John Grant, Harold Marx, Miles Thompson and Lynn Workmeister; Drummers, William Heinrich, William McMinn, Norman Barger, Earl Wilson and John Wolfe; and Color Bearers, Gary Upchurch and Allen Macy.

The Highlanders have participated in the Oakland Autumn Glory Parade for many years and are featured in the 1984 Garrett County Vacation Guide published by the Garrett County Promotion Council.

A Bit Of Magic Will Be Part Of Park Event

A performance by the Magical Mime Company on Saturday, July 14, will be among the events during the Mountain Lake Park Days geared to give spectators a glimpse of the glory days of the Park.

The Magical Mime Company, a troupe of three local entertainers, will present acts reminiscent of Carter the Great, a magician who performed several times at the Park during the early 1900s. The Company's show will begin at 5 p.m., in the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall auditorium on G Street.

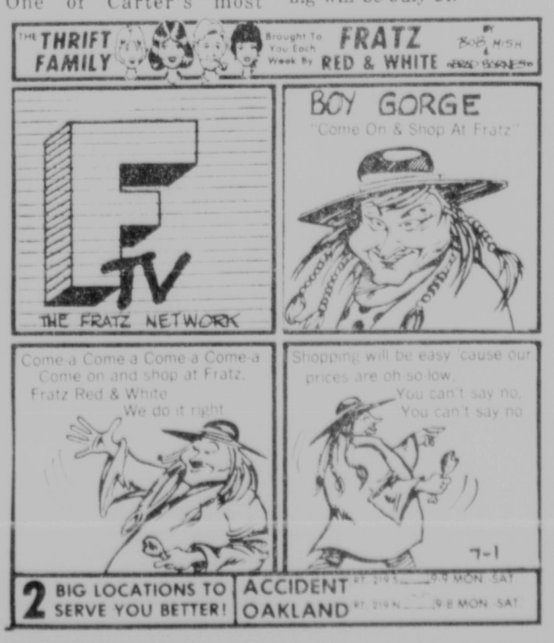
Carter, once called "the greatest traveling magician the world has ever had," began his magic career at 10 years of age. His name was Charles J. Carter, but to the world he was known as "Carter the Great, the World's Weird Wonderful Wizard."

Carter made eight world tours between 1900-1936, carting around 60 tons of stage equipment by ship, truck, train and even oxcart.

One of Carter's most renowned acts was the "Frame of Life and Death," which will be presented by the Magical Mime Company, as well as other of Carter's illusions.

Along with re-enactments of Carter's work, the Company will perform original pieces including a scene entitled "In The Park." This scene was presented by the Company during its recent performance at the International Mime and Clown Festival in Elkins, West Virginia.

Members of the Company include producer Ben Sincell, Mary Ruth Sincell and Greg Carrico.



Mt. Lake Voters Select Vandiver, Ritchey And Lane

Incumbents Margo Vandiver, Welton Lane, and Tommy Ritchey were re-elected for two-year terms to the Mt. Lake Park town council Tuesday.

Some 102 of the town's possible 475 voters turned out.

Vandiver had the greatest number of votes with 63, followed by Ritchey with 62 and Lane with 61. Defeated this term were newcomers Mary Katherine "Kitty" Crowe, 46 votes; Steven Hile, 36 votes; and James Moore, 29 votes.

The town's next council meeting will be July 24.

Hearing Slated On Upper Yough Plan

The final public hearing on the Upper Youghiogheny Area Sewerage Facilities Plan will be held August 6 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church basement, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

Beitzel said that this is the final formal hearing required by Environmental Protection Agency's grant award stipulations.

The sanitary district paid $68,000 in the late 1970s for completion of the facilities plan by Pullman Swindell, but the plan was never given state health department approval because the agency had not yet set discharge parameters.

The earlier plan included Oakland, Deer Park, Mt. Lake Park, Loch Lynn and Crellin, but Oakland is now pursuing a separate plan and Loch Lynn has declined to seek grant funding for work needed in that town. Deer Park officials, during a public meeting in mid-May, decided that the town does not wish to install a sewer system.

About six months ago, discharge parameters for the Upper Youghiogheny were set by the state health department. Final work on the plan was then completed by Franklin Associates as Pullman Swindell has since gone out of business.

With costs of Franklin Associates, the entire cost of the plan is some $93,000. The sanitary commission is presently seeking grant aid to make up the difference in costs.

The facilities plan must be approved by state and EPA agencies before design and construction grants for systems in the area can be approved.

Meanwhile, state agencies are attempting to set discharge parameters on the Little Yough in case Deer Park should ever build a sewer system. The sanitary commission had hoped to complete the Upper Yough plan in time to seek funding for the improvements needed at the Trout Run treatment plant before the October 1 funding level reduction, but this now seems impossible without the discharge parameter guidelines from the state.

Copies of the plan are available for review at the sanitary comission office, at Franklin Associates, 203 S. Third Street, or at the headquarters of the various communities involved.

The sound of thunder will travel one mile in five seconds.

A Bold Step . . .

Unless Walter Mondale pulls a fast one moments after this issue of The Republican hits the streets, an historic event will take place today—the selection of a woman as a vice presidential running mate. Speculation was overwhelming this morning that Mondale would choose Representative Geraldine Ferraro, an Italian-American Catholic who represents the New York, Archie Bunker neighborhood in Congress.

Mrs. Ferraro's record is impressive. While carrying out the chores of a housewife at home, she also taught school and worked her way through law school via night classes. She is a tough, liberal, outspoken individual who has pushed legislation for economic equality for women and has been a staunch supporter of her party by serving as secretary of the House Democratic Caucus. She most certainly has far more charisma and pizzazz than her running mate, which was no doubt one reason for her selection.

Although we find Mondale an undesirable candidate for the presidency, we must admire this bold step he has taken today. Obviously, he weighed the political assets and liabilities of his move carefully and decided it would do his campaign more good than harm. He is facing a tough, uphill battle with President Reagan and probably feels that such courageous, unprecedented actions are his only chance of victory.

Mondale will lose some votes from chauvinistic males who believe that the White House is absolutely no place for a woman. There will be others who turn away, believing that Mondale gave in to high pressure groups pushing for a female selection.

We are convinced that gender should have no bearing on the office of the presidency. The fact that there has never been a female vice president or president is a vivid reminder that, in most respects, it is still a man's world. There have been numerous female world leaders who have served quite well; Margaret Thatcher of Great Britian and Indira Gandhi of India, to name two current ones. In fact, there would probably be some refreshing changes from the White House if a female touch were added.

Congratulations to Mrs. Ferraro, but we're still for President Reagan all the way.

To the Editor:

It really hurts us deeply that some people do not want mentally retarded people living next door to them. We have raised a mentally retarded daughter for 22 years and our whole family has sacrificed so she could have a good life. We feel her happiness is more important than some people's unenlightened ways. We want her in the residential program so she can learn independent living skills.

Parents of mentally handicapped children had better start fighting for this now. Ten or 15 years down the road, their child will be an adult and their frustrations will be so great because they will have problems fitting into society. Residential care will give them a flicker of hope of achieving a right everyone else has—the pursuit of happiness.

If anyone has any objective comments or questions regarding this matter please feel free to call us and we will discuss this with you.

To the Editor:

As a resident of Mitchell Manor, I am concerned with the bad press we have received and the lack of information that has surfaced regarding the July 28th public meeting with Dan Elmlinger, the Crossroads Board of Directors and the residents of Mitchell Manor. Approximately 50 people were in attendance, along with Commissioner Gregg and Delegate Edwards.

The reported purchase price of $62,000 for the Mitchell Manor property is misleading. According to Mr. Elmlinger, the cost to the taxpayers after renovation is approximately $100,000. Add to this the cost of a full-time caretaker and I am wondering just how cost effective this can be for the care of three people.

$16,000 per acre was also the reported sales price of the Weber Road property. Delegate Edwards reminded Mr. Elmlinger that the price of this acreage had been $12,000 per acre, but because Mr. Elmlinger had not acted within a 90-day time period, the price was raised to $16,000 per acre. Who will benefit from this extra $8,000.00 of our money?

Mr. Elmlinger asked for volunteers to sit on the board of directors to help with the selection of an alternate location to house these people. A person from our neighborhood volunteered, and he has not heard from Mr. Elmlinger since this meeting. Mr. Elmlinger promised to be in touch with him the next day. Clearly, these people do not want to work with us.

Also we are concerned that the State of Maryland may find some other use for this house in future years. Could they use this facility to house recovering drug addicts, etc.? This question has not been answered.

So, before you judge us further, I would like to remind you and your readers that there is more to our side of the story than is being covered.

Thank you
A Mitchell Manor resident

To the Editor:

Over the past few days I have received several, "Good Job with the fireworks!" or "Nice show on the 4th." I hope to allow some of this praise to fall on the people who do the work . . . Mike Howell, Jimmy and Randy Crabtree, Mark Diehl, Ron Savage, and Mark Proudfoot for lighting off most of the show; Gary Bray and Bob Jackson for helping keep the show smooth and without long pauses and the fire department. All of these people share in the work involved in firing a good show. Your comments and suggestions will not fall on deaf ears if you contact any of us.

We want to thank the public for supporting the show this year, for donations, supplies and insurance. We hope to do it again for you next year.

Milton Proudfoot

To the Editor:

As a live-in mental health counselor for the past four years, I am shocked to hear Americans say they do not want mentally retarded individuals in their neighborhood. For the past several years these individuals have not had the opportunity to live in the community, yet they have the same rights as every American to live anywhere they choose, speak as chosen, and to interact in the community. Part of getting them back into the community is their having access to walk into town, go shopping, do their banking, and participate in community activities. If given that opportunity with staff help and time they can achieve a more independent lifestyle.

It amazes me that Americans in political status such as commissioners and Paul Sarbanes can support such groups that oppose community residences for mentally retarded.

Humility is the characteristic that separates confidence from conceit. Look at the sky every day to remember the immense freedom around you, then look within yourself to make certain you can enjoy freedom. Refuse to be locked up, overcome by frustration. Enjoy the freedom that can be yours through clear thinking, an open mind, and an open heart.

For the past two weeks we have heard, and read of controversial and negative feelings as to mentally retarded individuals gaining residency at Mitchell Manor and 11th Street. Mentally handicapped have the same privileges and rights of every American. Can we deprive them of the opportunity to live in the community wherever they choose? How many residents at Mitchell Manor or 11th Street had a public hearing before they located there?

We as individuals are assessed by self worth, not wealth.

Sincerely,
Ted Ross

To the Editor:

I would like to make a point about why the people do not want any of the other people living in any of the apartment units.

I feel that it is my right to move if I want. We are not trying to put anyone down. What we are saying is we are not crazy. We are very important people. Everyday I work very hard to please everybody. I hope that everyone will look and say, "We need people like them!"

When I see the apartment, it makes me feel very good to see them work very hard and do the best that they can. I'm a resident here at the Group Home.

I also say that the center is proving to be a good opportunity for those who wish to attend.

Victor Mazzocco

To the Editor:

This letter is in regard to a hearing I had with the zoning board a week ago. I purchased 10½ acres of land on O'Brien Road after my mobile home was destroyed by fire last winter. I also am making payments on a 1984 mobile home I bought a short while after.

I was just getting ready to get the home on a basement and get the water and electric in when I got a letter from the zoning board saying I was in the lake zone and mobile homes were only allowed by special exception. My neighbors, two of whom lived in mobile homes for years themselves and one who still does, all went against me. Two other families who live over a mile away from me also don't want the mobile home here.

With all the negative opinions, of course, they denied my permit. So here I am with a mobile home to pay for and in less than three months I will have to let it go back and ruin my credit and the worst thing, I won't have any place to live.

I think it's getting pretty bad when your neighbors can tell you what you can afford to put on your own ground. Besides, anyone who is familiar with this area of the county knows it is a farming community and approximately three miles from the lake. So the way I see it, you not only have to see that your taxes are kept up, you also have to keep up with the Joneses to be able to live on your own ground, whether you can afford to or not.

Respectfully yours,
Carolyn Fazenbaker

Conference Study

choice." He concluded by saying that he is confident if selection is done on an equitable basis, Garrett is the logical choice.

Commissioner Elwood Groves noted the confusion in the past month over whether the county wished to be included and said "Considering that the legislature made the decision to expend the monies, we definitely feel Garrett County should be included." He also said "Once the results of the study are in, it will be up to the committee to make recommendations to the legislature . . . the battle may be taken up then."

All three commissioners say they strongly endorse the private sector's plans to provide this type of facility. They refer to two private developers who wish to expand present property or develop property to provide the same services a state-subsidized center would provide. They urge the General Assembly to consider very carefully before committing government monies to support a facility similar to one private businessmen are already planning.

A formal letter will follow the phone call and the commissioners will put their commitment in writing after that letter is received.

No Problems Foreseen For Lake Sewer System Completion

A progress report on Deep Creek Lake contracts showed no major problems at the present time with startup of the system slated for October, according to a report given Tuesday night before the Garrett County Sanitary Commission.

Electrical service at the treatment plant is expected by the first of September, after which testing and startup procedures will begin. Henry Doyle and Jeff Gilbert gave the reports Tuesday, for the engineering firm of Greenhorne & O'Mara.

The commission is expected to make an announcement within a week on who will fill the position of wastewater superintendent for the Deep Creek system. The most likely candidate was interviewed by the entire board July 10.

The sanitary district has now received all grinder pumps ordered for the basic system These will be installed by the contractor for the system and in the future, anyone desiring to connect to the system will have to purchase the necessary pump through the sanitary district.

Manufacturer's list price on a pump is $1,637 but Beitzel said that no firm pricing policy has been determined. The property owners will be responsible for ensuring that the pumps are installed to sanitary district specifications. If properly installed and an easement is provided, then the district will take over operation and maintenance as part of the lake system.

The commission is emphasizing to property owners that grinder pumps are the property of the sanitary district, and that where negligence or malicious destruction occurs, the property owners can be held responsible. Penalities for abuse of the pumps or other property of the sanitary district are spelled out in the lake ordinance, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

Beitzel was asked to request that property owners use reasonable care to avoid damaging pumps after one pump was destroyed when hit by a backhoe and another was severely damaged when the property owner built a fire too close to the pump.

Strohecker has been granted 17-day extensions for contracts two and four since some extra work was added to the contracts.

Two requests for extensions of sewer lines have been received by the commission. In the first instance, the request of George Stanya for his undeveloped property on Bumble Bee Road, was investigated but Stanya found that since the commission could not obtain grants for the extension, cost would be prohibitive. No other property owner in that area appeared interested in obtaining sewer service.

Robert Queen, owner of B.J. Whistler's, had requested an extension to his business along Glendale Road and the commission is presently determining costs. If EPA funding could be obtained in the light of the property's history of failing systems, then the sanitary commission will consider providing service.

In another lake matter, the manufacturer of the grinder pump control boxes has demonstrated plans to make corrections on the present boxes, which show an alarming tendency to corrosion. However, project engineers and the commission are not satisfied and have asked the contractor to indicate methods to be employed to correct the corrosion problem.

Commissioners Cut Two Names From Yough Board

The county commissioners have accepted ten of the tweleve names submitted by Dr. Torrey Brown, DNR Secretary, for membership in the newly-constructed Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board.

The local commissioners had originally nominated nine members and Dr. Brown counter-offered 12 members for the board.

The commissioners had recommended Melvin Dunithan, Robert L. Thomas, and Deborah Pepper as non-contiguous landowners. To that list, Dr. Brown had added Jack Fridinger, Jack King and Brison Thomas. The commissioners wish deletion of King and Fridinger from the membership, leaving a ten-member board.

Commissioner Elwood Groves said Tuesday that the board does not know whether Brown will accept the revised list, but that he is hopeful that a workable board will be assigned and able to function after ten years of controversy.

Commissioner Chairman John Braskey abstained from voting on the matter, saying that he wishes more time to review the proposed membership in light of conflicts encountered within and by the advisory board.

DNR and the commissioners are agreed on appointment of Brison Thomas, Hazel Duvall, Donald Sebold, Mary Jane Yoder, John E. Hinebaugh, Shaun Sanders and Commissioner Groves.

Garrett Residences was created in the spring of 1983, by the housing committee of the Western Maryland Coalition for the Disabled, to apply for Housing and Urban Development loan funds for the purpose of establishing sheltered housing for the disabled of the area.

Upon learning from HUD that Garrett and Frederick Counties were considered non-metro counties while Allegany and Washington Counties were designated metro counties as a result of the proportion residents who live in towns or cities, with separate funding available for each division, two separate non-profit corporations were formed to make application for the funds.

The Allegany-Washington group was unsuccessful in its funding application, but Garrett-Frederick Residences was notified last fall that their proposal had been approved.

The organization compiled a list of properties listed for sale through various real estate agencies, arriving at a list of about 14 potential sites in Garrett County. The sites were examined by a representative from HUD, who selected the Mitchell Manor and 11th Street houses on the basis of their relative newness and potential for renovation.

In May of this year, HUD issued quidelines requiring that each project must have its own borrower corporation, resulting in the division of Frederick-Garrett Residences into two county entities. The Garrett County portion, which retained the name of Frederick-Garrett Residences, Inc., must now establish a separate board of directors to replace the members that were from Frederick County.

This spring, Garrett Crossroads was requested by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to temporarily house the six individuals scheduled to be released from state facilities for the mentally retarded to live in the second Crossroads group home which the state is planning to construct on Weber Road. The group home, which was slated for completion in early July of this year, has not yet been constructed.

As a result of this request, Crossroads agreed to temporarily house the six individuals in the two HUD houses until the group home is completed.

Crossroads spokesmen said that the state has now agreed to extend the date for the transfer of the six individuals indefinitely until all alternatives have been reviewed. The six individuals had been slated to arrive in the county last Monday.

Kotulak said that some residents of the two areas in question have suggested that the state might change its mind and use the homes for some other purpose in the future, without the area residents having any say in such a decision. "The state will not own the residences. They will be owned by Frederick-Garrett Residences, and will be leased to Garrett Crossroads, which will administer the programs. The state cannot mandate who will live there."

The Crossroads board pointed out that potential residents of the alternative living sites are screened by an admissions and review team which includes representatives of the medical profession, the health department, service providers such as the Appalachian Center, community members, and parents of handicapped children. Kotulak emphasized that the selection process is designed to make sure that persons assigned to apartment living units are well on their way to achiev-

As a member of the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee, he authored the Appalachian Regional Development Act and the Public Works and Economic Development Act. He was a major contributor to other basic environmental statutes, including the Clean Air Act, Clean Water Act and Endangered Species Act. He also introduced the first black lung legislation in 1969 as the ranking member of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee.

In his years of service, the West Virginia Senator has cast over 10,100 career roll call votes. He will retire from the Senate on January 1, 1985.

Senator Randolph will remain in the Mountain Lake Park throughout most of the weekend, visiting friends in the area and participating in other Mountain Lake Park Days events.

OK Purchase

Fousek said that the extra funds needed to acquire the lease-purchase trucks will be realized through savings in gas use, maintenance, repairs, and down time which could have been expected if the roads department continued to use its old vehicles. Additional funds, if needed, would come out of the roads department's federal revenue sharing funds for capital equipment.

The commissioners opened proposals for the expansion of the Round Glade Landfill at their Tuesday meeting with county roads personnel. Responses were received from four engineering firms, with one, Franklin Associates, expressing an interest in the project, but not submitting a proposal due to lack of preparation time.

Proposals were received from Harris-Smariga and Associates, Frederick, $36,018; Whitman Requardt, and Associates, Baltimore, an incomplete proposal not to exceed $97,350; and Potomac Engineering and Surveying, Oakland, $29,250.

Due to the complexity of the proposals, the commissioners turned them over to county roads supervisors, Ken Metheny and Earl Foster, for review. Metheny and Foster will present their recommendations to the commissioners within several weeks.

properties, and its past history as a commercial site, in requesting that the zoning be changed to allow commerical development, if desired.

Anna McNallie, county planner, said that she feels that a mistake was made when the property was zoned lake residential, which precludes most kinds of commercial development. She suggested that including the property in the town residential category would be more appropriate, considering its history and location. Designation as town residential would make many kinds of commercial development possible through use of a zoning exception.

The commission voted to authorize McNallie to develop a complete proposal to present at the next regular planning meeting.

Sweitzer Request

McNallie presented a request by Bruce K. Sweitzer, Jr., and a group of neighboring property owners requesting a zoning change to allow for the placement of mobile homes on permanent foundations in North Glade Road/Curt's Corner area. The residents cited the rural character of the area and recent additions of mobile homes nearby as reasons for the change.

McNallie told the commission that the area in question is primarily occupied by permanent county residents, is largely rural, and is not in close proximity to the lake. She recommended that the area in question, as well as a number of other areas with similar circumstances in the Watershed region, be placed in a new zoning category that more accurately takes into account their character. She suggested the designation of "rural residential", which would allow for the placement of mobile homes, but would not change other guidelines such as lot size and density.

Other areas McNallie proposed for the new category were: Foster Road, Bray School Road and the part of Oakland-Sang Run Road within the Watershed; Sand Flat Road and Pysell Cross Cut Road to Route 135; all areas within the Watershed east of Route 495; the area along North Glade Road between its intersection with Harvey's Peninsula Road and Route 495; and Rock Lodge Road northeast from Deep Creek Lake State Park.

The commission authorized McNallie to develop a proposal, including maps, to be examined at a special work session meeting scheduled for Wednesday, July 25, at 1:30 p.m.

Lake Plan Update

McNallie updated the commission on progress with the base work for the lake plan update. She said she is reviewing the drafts of the economic base, recreational facilities inventory, and transportation resource reports.

She said that the lake hydrography base report has been completed, and updated the commission on an algae growth problem that occurred recently in the Thayerville area of the lake. She said that the algae bloom, which was possibly the largest in lake history, broke up on its own when wind conditions changed, after resisting all efforts by health department workers to break it up. She added that the problem was "a dramatic example of what might have happened to the lake without the sewage system."

Agricultural Land Petition

The commission approved a petition by Carl DelSignore to place 363 acres of his 1,800 acre farm in a Agricultural Land Preservation District. McNallie noted that the request was unusual, in that only part of a farm was under consideration, and that the soil class of woodlands included in the parcel had to be taken into consideration to determine eligibility.

She told the commission that it had been invited to attend and address the meeting of the Deep Creek Property Owners' Association this Saturday at 10 a.m., at Garrett Community College.

She introduced Peggy Rolf, recently hired planning technician, who is assisting with the completion of the base studies and maps for the lake plan update, and HUD block grant administration.

Grantsville Will Not Re-bid Sewer Rehab Project

An article sent in last week from Sixth District Representative Beverly Byron's office contained erroneous information about Grantsville's sewer rehabilitation project, according to Wendell Keaton, municipal coordinator.

The story said that Grantsville must renegotiate the project bid and as a consequence will miss the October deadline for the 70 percent EPA funding match. This is incorrect, Keaton pointed out Friday.

In actuality, the town had awarded the contract to the second low bidder, Trimble Contracting, after low bidder Mattingly Construction, failed to meet certain stipulations in the contract documents. To meet the stipulations, Mattingly would have had to reduce its total bid by five percent. Mattingly refused and appealed the town's decision to award the contract to Trimble to the EPA in late August 1983.

A decision from EPA agreeing with the town's action was received in late April this year, and Trimble began work that same month.

A LETTER OF APPRECIATION in recognition of service to the community was presented to James P. Rook this week by the U.S. Postal Service, of which Rook is an employee. Rook, pictured left, recently retired from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department after 28 years of service, in which time he held the office of president for several years. The letter, which was presented by Paul H. Bauer, Oakland Postmaster, stated in part: "Volunteerism is a sense of community spirit which touches us all. It is gratifying to know that you have demonstrated this spirit through your volunteer activities, 28 years as a member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department."

Talk Of The Towns

Deer Park In Support Of Yough Facilities Plan

The mayor and council of Deer Park agreed Monday night to support the Upper Yough sewerage facilities plan, but postscripted their approval by the condition that the town has no intention of putting in a new sewer system unless that system would have the support of the majority of the residents.

The stipulation was outlined in a letter which accompanied written support for the towns facilities plan.

Wendell Keaton, municipal coordinator, will be preparing an ordinance for the town which will prohibit the discharge of raw sewerage into open ditches or waterways.

In other business, the town officials will be checking prices on repair of a 200-foot water ditch and manholes for the water system before assigning the town work force to the project.

Town clerk Mary DeBerry, who recently marked her 22nd anniversary in the position, reported that nearly all the town's tax bills have been mailed. With the conclusion of the fiscal year, the town's books have been turned over to Sowers, Burkey and Mason of Frostburg for audit.

Board Awards Kitzmiller Water System Contracts

The three contractors for the Kitzmiller water system have been sent notices of award, and once the contracts and bond documents are awarded the sanitary district will hold bond closings.

The above announcement was part of the July 10 meeting of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission. Once the documents are properly signed, notice to proceed can be given, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

Once the contracts are awarded the district can hold bond closings with the Farmers Home Administration for the local share, and the sanitary commission will be authorized to sell bonds to obtain the long-range funding for the local share.

Once the commission passes a resolution to authorize the sale of bonds, the bond issue will be passed to the county commissioners for similar action.

Cost Savings Effected

The sanitary district had urged the only bidder for the treatment plant, H.J. Schneider, to investigate ways to cut costs in light of actual bid costs coming in at $340,281 over the engineer's estimate.

After consideration, the contractor initiated changes in the treatment process which will effect $25,000 in savings and provide more treatment capacity. This will ensure that there will be no problems in providing enough water to serve Shallmar as well as Kitzmiller.

The commission is in the process of seeking funding from state, FHA and other sources to make up the difference in costs.

Frank Arnold was the low bidder for the distribution system and H.J. Schneider was

A DRAWING was held Friday to determine the winners of a handmade quilt and afghan to benefit the Cardiac/Intensive Care Monitoring Equipment Fund at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The effort was organized by an employee group, which has also held other recent fundraising activities. Larry Beck, hospital administrator, was called upon to draw the winning name for the quilt and he proceeded to draw his wife's name, Debbie Beck, as the winner. Beck offered to draw again, fearing that some may claim the contest was "rigged", however at the insistence of Mary Beckman, left, coordinator of the raffle and an employee at the hospital, Mrs. Beck was declared the winner. Mrs. Beckman then drew the name of the winner of the afghan, who was none other than Emma Jamison, of Cleveland, Mrs. Beckman's mother! The quilt was made by Ann Kahl and both the quilt and afghan were donated for the raffle by Mrs. Beckman. The effort realized a total of $518.

Friendsville Man Listed As Stable After Auto Falls

A young Friendsville man was admitted to Cumberland Memorial Hospital with a fractured pelvis after he was injured while working on his automobile at approximately 1:30 Wednesday afternoon.

Steven Eric Meadows, 24, was working on his vehicle when it drifted off the ramps, pinning Meadows under the wheels. He reportedly was able to work his way out from under the vehicle.

Garrett Central Alarm dispatched the Northern Rescue Squad to the scene. A local physician, Dr. Donald Pepper, was in the area and also responded.

Meadows was flown to the medical facility by the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter where he is listed in "stable" condition.

Cpl. Donald Maiers investigated the incident.

A CHECK in the amount of $4,435 was presented to the local Crippled Children's Fund this week in honor of Betty W. Shaffer, R.N., who retired this month after serving for 30 years with the Garrett County Health Department. Contributions to the fund were received in her honor from the March of Dimes, American Lung Association, private citizens, businesses and local civic groups. Presenting the check to Mrs. Shaffer in the above photo is Dr. William W. Pope, local health officer. A retirement celebration for Mrs. Shaffer was held June 8 at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, which was attended by numerous area and state health officials.

Potomac Edison Seeks Slight Rate Increase

The Potomac Edison Company applied Monday to the Maryland Public Service Commission for a slight increase in the fuel portion of bills for its customers.

PE is asking the commission to increase the fuel rate billed customers from 1.190 cents per kilowatt-hour to 1.254 cents per kilowatt-hour, an increase of about six cents for each 100 kilowatt-hours used beginning August 7, 1984, subject to commission approval.

The utility's present fuel rate has been in effect for 14 months. Prior to that time, PE noted it experienced several fuel rate reductions. The Western Maryland utility reduced its fuel rate from 1.444 cents per kwh. to 1.343 cents in August 1982, dropped it again in October to 1.247 cents and reduced it for a third time in May 1983 to 1.190 cents.

Under the company's fuel rate, benefits from sales to non-affiliated utilities are applied as a credit to reduce the cost of fuel in each kilowatt-hour of sales to its Maryland customers. Since May 1983, this credit has been about one-half cent per kilowatt-hour. Increased competition has now resulted in decreased benefits from sales to non-affiliated utilities and has reduced this credit to about one-third cent per kwh., according to PE officials.

Bambacus Urges Persons To Attend Economic Forum

The Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development, in conjunction with Maryland state legislators, will hold an Economic Development Financing Forum at Frostburg State College on Thursday, July 19, beginning at noon.

Frank J. De Francis, secretary of the Department, will offer remarks during the program, which will include presentations on financing alternatives for Maryland businesses.

Senator John Bambacus, who will also be present, noted the importance of this program for business leaders in western Maryland and urged them to attend. Approximately 200 personal invitations for the event were mailed to persons in Garrett and Allegany counties, but Bambacus stated that arrangements can easily be made for other persons wishing to attend by contacting him.

"This is a great opportunity for business persons to express their concerns and ask questions directly to Frank De Francis," the Senator stated.

"There is a lot happening from a business standpoint in both Garrett and Allegany County," he continued, "and we must keep things moving ahead."

The forum will be held in Chesapeake Hall at the college.

More Screening Asked For Guthrie Junkyard Permit

The county commissioners have requested that a request for a junkyard license be held in abeyance until owner Michael Guthrie can come up with plans for screening that the board considers adequate.

Guthrie, who had made the license request through the zoning department, has property near the intersection of Route 219 and Monte Vista Road, south of Oakland.

The commissioners have asked that screening be more dense on two sides of the property which is presently operated as an auto repair shop.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg spoke for the entire board Tuesday when he said that "We endorse private enterprise and if an individual wants to be in scrap metal recycling, that's their prerogative. We're asking only that he submit a more highly defined plan for screening."

Guthrie has planned to plant pine trees around the perimeter of the property.

THESE VEHICLES BEING SO PROUDLY SHOWN are now on the road, so beware of shiny new patrol cars bearing radar. The four Ford LTD Crown Victorias were recently purchased from Shaffer Ford Sales in Oakland for the use of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department. A few of those drivers who might be using the new cars are, shown left to right, Deputy Larry Gnegy, Deputy Russell Drenning, salesman Rick Shaffer, and Sheriff Frank Finch.

SITTING IN FRONT of the new A&A Realty lake office are, left, Joyce D. Bishoff, office manager, and Karen F. Spiker, broker. The office is constructed of solid logs and features a new "Vert-a-lok" corner log system. The building was entirely completed in one month by Mountaineer Log and Siding and A&A Construction. The office, which opened July 4, is along Old Route 219 adjacent to Cabin Lodge drive-in restaurant.

State Police Note Area Auto Mishaps

Maryland State Police officers investigated several area accidents this week, none of which resulted in serious injury to those involved.

A two-vehicle mishap was reported on Monday morning at approximately 10:40 a.m. on U.S. Rt 219 South of Oakland at the intersection of the Weber Road.

According to police reports, Harry F. Frost, 70, Cumberland was the driver of a 1977 Ford LTD II which was attempting to enter Rt. 219 from the Weber Road. Frost reportedly failed to notice a 1980 Chevrolet Chevette being driven by Noel Beudin, 38, of Severna Park, and pulled out in front of the Beudin vehicle.

Beudin and a passenger, Eric Beudin, 8, were transported to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad where they were treated and released.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman charged Frost with failing to grant right-of-way.

A nine-year old child was treated and released from the Garrett County Memorial Hospital after he was injured when he fell from a moving vehicle.

Reports indicate that Michael Stenson, Daisytown, Pa., was a passenger in a 1976 International Scout being driven by Richard Stenson, 46, of California, Pa. The Stenson vehicle was proceeding east on the Glendale Road when, as the vehicle was negotiating a left curve, the right front door opened and the boy fell out onto the roadway.

Close investigation of the door showed no defects and Tfc. R.J. Resh made no charges.

The Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported the youth to the medical facility.

A one-vehicle accident occurred Saturday night on the Mountain Road, just south of the Table Rock Road.

Reports indicate Walter James Cassidy, 21, Oakland, was the driver of a 1974 Plymouth Duster that was proceeding north on the Mountain Road when the driver had to swerve sharply to avoid hitting a deer. Although the driver maintained control of the vehicle, he sustained minor injuries.

Tfc. Larry Rosage investigated the accident.

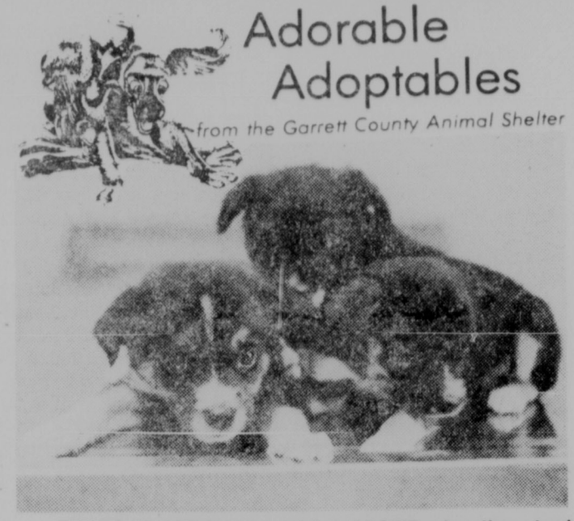
Mtn. Lake Park Days To Begin With "Galileans"

The Galileans, a local, all-male vocal group that performs in the barbershop style, will perform at the Mountain Lake Park Assembly Hall auditorium on Friday, July 13, to kick off the second annual Mountain Lake Park Days. The event is free of charge to the public and will last approximately one-half hour.

The leader/arranger for the Galileans is Dr. Charles Springman, Accident, and many of the group's selections are original arrangements by Dr. Springman. Most of the numbers they will present during the program were written around the time that Mountain Lake Park was founded by a Methodist Church organization, and also at the time when the town was famous for its summer Chautauqua programs during the late 1800s and early 1900s.



"The Old Country Church" (pre 1880) will be the chorus for a medley which will include "Shall We Gather at the River?," "In the Sweet Bye and Bye", "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms" and "I'm Redeemed."

Other numbers will include "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" (1886), and the response to that question "Down at the Licensed Saloon" (1892). Oakland Pen-Mar League Standing Continues Slide

Oakland has dropped from second to sixth place in Pen-Mar Baseball League standings over the past few weeks by losing five of their six games, the latest two defeats coming at the hands of visiting Moorefield in a doubleheader Sunday afternoon, 4-3 and 12-5.

Mike Brady and Scott Colaw combined efforts on the mound for Oakland, scattering eight hits and allowing only three earned runs; however Moorefield's Bill Liller did the same thing, allowing two earned runs on eight hits.

The Oaklanders scored a pair of runs in the fifth inning when Tim Mouse singled, brother Francis doubled him home and Dave Bender singled to plate Francis.

The home team added a run in the sixth when Lawrence Nesselrodt walked, moved to third on Phil Caruso's single and came home on a wild pitch.

Tim Mouse and Bender each finished with a pair of hits, while Rick Ours recorded two doubles for Moorefield and Danny Eye provided two singles.

The second contest remained close until the sixth inning, which opened with Moorefield on top, 5-3. Then the visitors broke loose for seven runs on three hits and four walks. Ours again paced the West Virginians with three hits, while Greg Liller and Craig Turner finished with two each.

Randy Cirillo had two hits for Oakland including a home run, Nesselrodt homered and Caruso and Francis Mouse each recorded two hits.

Bill Liller and Larry Eye picked up the win over Mike Brady and Stan Fitzwater.

Oakland will play an exhibition game on Saturday at the Southern High School field against a team from Elkins, W.Va., and then will return to regular season action on Sunday with a doubleheader against top-ranked Everett. Gametime is 2 p.m.

Revenue Sharing

at the same time providing faster election results.

The Sheriff's Department's $91,500 request includes rental for the department's Miles terminal, the purchase of four automobiles, two Scott Air Packs for jail fire safety, eight repeater radios, one small business computer, one four wheel drive vehicle, and one light bar for the four wheel drive vehicle.

The Garrett County Firemen's Association requested $16,000 to purchase a new air pump truck for the use of all county fire departments. Firemen's representatives told the commissioners that the truck they are currently using was donated, and is past repair.

According to Bob Fousek, county clerk, the Garrett County Fair Board and the county building manager, Gary Mullich intends to submit proposals before the deadline.

Additional requests for revenue sharing funds, which are distributed to counties based on county wealth by the Federal Bureau of Revenue Sharing, will be accepted by the commissioner's office until Tuesday, July 17.

Farming in Maryland

Corn Acres Must Be Reported By This Weekend

Maryland farmers who have planted corn and other spring seeded crops still have a few days to report the acreage to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and become eligible for 1984 farm program benefits.

"The final certification date is July 15," Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairman of the Maryland State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committtee said. Farmers who meet this deadline will avoid paying a late certification fee of $20.00.

Davis said the entire farm must be certified correctly before farm program participants can receive benefits. Those farmers who are not participating in the 1984 programs should also certify their acreages because their participation in future programs can be adversely affected if they fail to certify their acreages of crops.

To avoid eligibility problems and be sure of their planted acres, farmers can request measurement service. "For a reasonable fee farmers can have their planted crops measured before reporting their acreages." Davis said the fee covers the cost of a farm visit and the work necessary to accurately measure the acreage.

The ASCS official said farms will be randomly checked to verify that acreage reports are correct and aerial photographs will be available for farmers to identify their fields.

Crops may be certified with county ASCS offices weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:40 p.m.

Spray Squash

Summer squash such as yellow straight and crookneck, Green pan and zucchini should be sprayed to prevent loss from squash vine borers. These insects which feed in the main stems of squash plants shorten the life of plants. This drastically reduces yields. The borer doesn't come from the soil so treatment there is not effective for control. In late spring and all summer the adult of the vine borer a moth, lays eggs on squash stems. These hatch and the worm tunnels into the plant stem. As the stem is eaten the vine will soon wilt and collapse. This often is after only a few fruits have been produced. To prevent vine borer, squash should be sprayed with Sevin every five days from when the vine begins to run. Apply the spray down at the soil level where the worms will hatch from eggs layed on the stems lying on the soil. Continue the spray routine for at least five applications. Spraying in the evening will be less harmful to bees needed to pollinate the blooms. No time delay is needed from when Sevin is applied and harvesting the crop.

HAZARD ALERT

15.3 Inch European Tires and Rims

A very dangerous situation exists where agricultural equipment is imported into this country from Europe with the following tire and rim sizes:

Tire Size	Rim Size
Old 10.0/75-15	Old 9.00x15
10.5/85-15	9.00x15
11.5/80-15	9.00x15
12.5/80-15	9.00x15
New 10.0/75-15.3	9.00x15.3
10.5/85-15.3	9.00x15.3
12.5/80-15.3	9.00x15.3

Those tire and rim sizes designated as old, show the size markings used prior to 1/1/82, while those shown as new, show the size markings used since 1/1/82. In both cases the tires and rims are 15.3 inches (388.3 mm) in bead diameter and are incompatible with USA-produced 15 inch (380.2 mm) tires and rims.

Any attempt to mount 15 inch tires on European 9.00x15,9.00x15.3 rims can result in a broken bead, which will allow the tire to fly off the rim, causing serious injury.

There are US-produced sizes and load capacities to match these European tires and rims. Please consult Tire Applications for the best available replacement.

ing independent living, so that the purpose of those units, which is to make a transitional step to independent community living for the disabled, will be met. "We want them to succeed, so we don't place people in that situation that are not ready," she said.

She said that the current apartment unit on Alder Street will be holding an open house on July 22 to allow the public a chance to see the program firsthand. "Board members will be happy to meet individually with anyone who wants to learn more about the organization," she said.

Commenting on the controversy, a Crossroads spokesman said, "Support from the general public has been outstanding, including offers to donate land, information about homes available for rent, and free legal assistance. We still feel that the main issue is that these people have a right to live anywhere, like anyone else."

Commissioner Ernest Gregg commented on the Crossroads letter, saying, "This board endorses the concept of deinstitutionalization. We don't want to oppose the program. It requires the understanding, compassion, and support of the community. The way to get that is through the open flow of information to the public. Partial information causes emotional reactions. We, the commissioners, were more concerned with the manner in which the project was implemented. I still strongly oppose the proposed sites, which are up to one and one-half miles from town, on the basis of access to medical facilities, shopping, etc. and am seriously concerned about the safety of the residents walking back and forth from town."

Commissioner John Braskey expressed concern that the members of the Crossroads board may have taken the commissioners' letter as a personal attack, saying, "I have a lot of respect for the members of the board. They have lots of integrity. I am not opposed to the program, I just wish this issue had been handled better."

Celebrating our 22nd year

BASKETBALL CAMP at Garrett Community College was deemed by camp officials as a success again this year, as over 80 area youth representing some nine schools participated. Camp director Tom Bosley, head coach at GCC, credited the growth of the camp to the "excellent staff" which conducted the week-long event. Five area high school head coaches, plus two members of the GCC coaching staff served as instructors. An awards ceremony was held on the final day of camp. See story.

FORMER BASKETBALL STAR Dick Bender, shown above center, who played previously on the teams of Garrett Community College and Northern High School, was recently named to the All Region XX Academic Team. To achieve this honor, Bender ranked sixth academically among over 2,000 young men and women athletes in Region XX, which includes all of Maryland and part of Pennsylvania. During his two years at GCC, Bender was on the Dean's list and was named Outstanding Transfer Student at last spring's commencement ceremony. Prior to that, he was the recipient of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club's Bill Ravenscroft Memorial Scholarship. Bender is a 1981 graduate of Northern High School and the son of Mrs. Shirley Bender, Grantsville. He will enter Western Maryland College in Westminster this September where he will major in elementary education. Shown above with Bender are GCC Laker Coach Tom Bosley, left, and GCC Athletic Director Dennis Fearnow, right.

GCC Basketball Camp Draws 85 Area Players

Garrett Community College recently concluded its eighth annual basketball camp. The week-long activities were attended by 85 area players, the largest total of campers in the history of the camp.

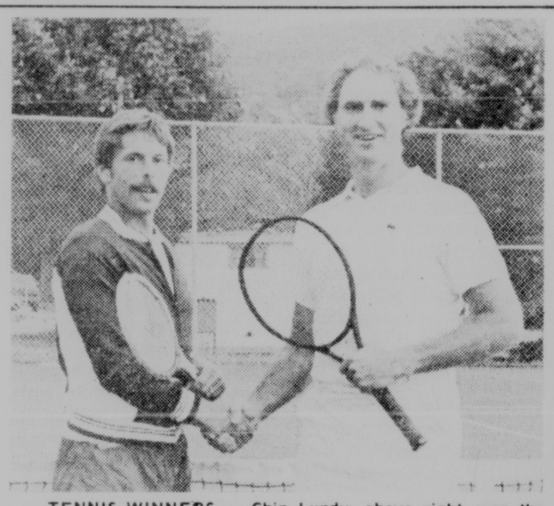
Fifty-two of the hoopsters were from Garrett County schools, 47 from southern Garrett County and five from the northern area. The remaining 33 campers represented such schools as Bruce, St. Francis of Morgantown, Elk Garden, East Preston, Tucker County, Union and West Preston.

"We had an excellent staff for the week and I feel that's why the camp is growing", stated camp director Tom Bosley. Some of the area coaches assisting in the camp were Ken McLaughlin (Southern), Paul Pacella (Union), Dave Bender (Southern), Baker Neal (St. Francis), Carl Watson (Berkeley Springs), and GCC assistant Dennis Gibson.

The philosophy of the camp is to teach basketball fundamentals and expose the campers to different methods of working on their game throughout the summer, Bosley stated.

Twenty-two campers won awards at the closing ceremony held Friday evening at the McHenry Campus. The All-Stars from the NBA Division were Brett Rice, Matt Ruckel, Dave Yoder, Brian Dixon and Jeremy Bosley. The All-Stars from the NCAA Division were Allan Selders, J.R. Bosley, Mike Roy, Jeff King and Bobby Bernard.

The five All-Stars from the NAIA Division were Scott Stem, Wayne Dixon, Mel Evans, Marty Miller and Dave Mclaughlin. The shooting champion of the NBA league was Scott Clever.



One-on-one contests were held in the NCAA and NAIA division. The winners were J.R. Bosley and Wayne Dixon, respectively.

Defensive awards in each division were presented to Britten Martin (NBA), Sean Hershman (NCAA), and Dave Bomboy (NAIA).

The Camper of the Week Award went to Southern High School senior, Jane Bell.

Ten counselors, all incoming or former Laker players, made up the remainder of the staff. Tom Fulwood and Dick Bender were selected by the campers as the "outstanding counselors of the week."

"WHERE THE COMMUNITY COMES TOGETHER"

GCAFT The Federation Speaks

by William C. Hogan

There seems to be a different climate today in education than there was back in the 1960s and 1970s. Although many reports and proposals coming out may be critical of American education, the groups are very different than those in the past.

For the most part, these reports are coming from prominent national and state groups, such as business leaders, governors, and educational leaders seriously concerned about the condition of American education in regard to the national interest. These same groups are willing to support large increases in funding for education and compensation for teachers, provided that certain changes are implemented which would, in their view, improve education.

Some proposals, mentioned by groups like the National Commission on Excellence in Education and the National Task Force on Education and Economic Growth, are longer school days or a longer school year, different salaries for different kinds of teachers, ie., in shortage areas like math and science, incentive type pay for teachers who, one way or another, are judged superior, and easier methods of ridding education of incompetent teachers. These are ideas that teachers and their unions have traditionally shunned, not because they are totally against them, but because they are either impractical or unfairly implemented.

These large influential groups are also saying that they know teachers are too poorly paid for the teaching profession to be attractive to the best and brightest of the young people. They also know that teachers work under difficult conditions and receive very little public support.

These groups realize that what has happened in education is not the fault of the teacher, but society's de-emphasis on excellence in education. What these groups want is tougher curriculum and higher standards for student discipline and achievement. They are willing to pour literally billions of dollars into education if educators are willing to make some of the changes they want.

With this kind of "constructive criticism" teachers are faced with some of the greatest opportunities in recent decades for improving schools, conditions of teachers, salaries, and teachers' status.

Teachers' reactions to reports coming out should not be one of instant rejection based on the past, but based on what is happening now. The future of education depends on how educators respond to what is being proposed.

People in education should not view these groups as enemies, but as potential allies, friends and supporters of education. Educators should welcome the support and concern of these groups and, even though they may not agree with all the proposals, be willing to sit, listen and discuss them openly.

As previously mentioned, there are billions of dollars sitting there waiting that were not there years ago which can be used for education if all involved in education are willing to sit and talk with top leaders in our country in all fields as equals.

All involved have the opportunity to bring status to American teachers and money to American education, an opportunity unlike any before. If the opportunity is missed, education will be the loser.

"SOUTHPAW", a country music band based in Oakland, will perform at the Garrett County Fair August 14, at 7 and 9 p.m. The group, which plays a high energy brand of music they call "kickin' country", includes, pictured left to right, Bill Janoske, lead guitar; Brian Sheally on harmony vocals and drums; Butch Moats, lead vocals and bass guitar; and Rodger Ware, lead vocals and rhythm guitar. The band's repertoire includes current country chart hits as well as country classics and original material. "Southpaw" has fronted for Nashville acts such as Sonny James, and plays a full schedule of club dates in the tri-state area.

Fair Board Asks Help With Final Fair Preparations

The Garrett County Fair Board of Directors requested the help of all fair directors and stockholders in making final preparations for this year's fair August 13-18, at the board's July meeting. The board also expressed appreciation for those who donated items for the July 7 fundraising sale, and for those who worked hard to make it a success.

Persons wishing to volunteer their time or talents to the fair should contact any fair director to learn how they can help.

Only those campers, tents or vehicles displaying stickers purchased at the fair office may be used for camping at the fair. The fee, which will be used to defray the cost of electric and water services, will be $20 for campers, and $10 for tents.

All persons camping on the grounds must obtain a weekly admission pass if they have not already been issued a livestock exhibitor's pass. The charge will be six dollars for adults, and three dollars for children. The weekly passes will be good Tuesday through Saturday, but may not be used for the Demolition Derby scheduled for Monday evening.

Passes may be purchased at the Garrett County Extension Office, or from any fair director.

The fair board appointed three weigh-masters, who will be in charge of weighing all machinery and livestock.

Gambill Amusements will provide carnival activities at the fair for the first time this year.

Zion School To Host Convention

Zion School of Christian Education will host the fourth Summer Convention at Zion Tabernacle, Grantsville, July 19 to 22. The Convention will be preceeded by a piano seminar from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 19. The Seminar will consist of lecture and demonstration of various methods of adding chords, runs and "fillers" with which to enhance church music. In addition to the lecture periods there will be three instructors available for individual assistance and instruction.

The first service of the Convention will be at 7:30 p.m., July 19, with 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services through the remainder of the week. This annual event draws ministers from a wide area and morning and evening speakers will be selected from among those in attendance.

The general public is welcome to attend all services, according to Rev. George McDowell, Jr., pastor.

Crellin Church To Show Teen Film

A movie for teenagers and their parents entitled "Eighteen" will be shown at the Crellin U.B. Church Thursday, July 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Teter Family First Choice For First Project By Habitat Group

by Mary I. Love

The Table Rock area of Backbone Mountain is one of the more scenic areas of Garrett County, and Mr. and Mrs. William Teter have lived on Table Rock Road for the past 16 years, in spite of decrepit housing.

Mrs. Teter was, in fact, born there (she was a Sisler), but after her marriage to Mr. Teter, a West Virginian, they lived in Cleveland for 12 years, where Mr. Teter worked for the Department of Sanitation as a truck driver. He had earlier spent three years in the infantry and the Combat Engineers of the U.S. Air Corps, with stateside placements.

For the Teters the pull of Garrett County was stronger than that of city life, so they came back to Table Rock from Cleveland. Mr. Teter worked ten years for the Turner-Douglas mines and Johnstown Coal and Coke Company, and then for the West Virginia State Roads Department. At one time he and his wife both worked at Sterling Processing in Oakland. He started work at age 15 and worked 44 years.

The Teters have four children: Mrs. Larry Thomas, who lives near them with her husband and children; William David, 19, who is in the National Guard and has a summer job with the State Roads Department; Brevon, who works part-time for the Garrett County Commission on Aging; and Donald Allen, who has just completed the 11th grade.

Two years ago the house the Teters were renting was sold. They learned of a house in the Bittinger area which they tore down, moved to Table Rock on a pickup truck and rebuilt. It rests on locust posts, which are shifting, has no plumbing, and is generally frail. Two days after they finished putting up the house, Mr. Teter had a heart attack and has since been unable to work.

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, Inc., a non-profit organization concerned about the inadequate, uncomfortable, and sometimes dangerous housing of nearly half of the 15% of Garrett County residents who live below the poverty level, has chosen the Teter house as the first to be replaced through its program. It was not an easy decision, when so much local housing is sub-standard, but Habitat hopes to start two more houses this summer.

Meanwhile, there was a groundbreaking recently for the Teters, and a house with a solid foundation, plumbing and the ability to provide more adequate shelter should be ready before winter. The work will be done by volunteers, including the Teter sons, under the supervision of Jake Powles.

This is not a gift to the Teters. It is a loan on which they will make monthly payments. The loan is interest-free, however, and is based on contributions made to Habitat of Garrett County.

Habitat members and volunteers do not work for money or gratitude. If they did, the Teters already have a list of people they would like to thank.

Legal Aid Bureau Announces July Outreach Schedule

Staff members of the Legal Aid Bureau, Inc., will be available to discuss legal problems with persons during July in Oakland on July 17 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m, at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College.

The Legal Aid Bureau, Inc. provides legal assistance in civil matters to eligible persons. Services are available at no cost to those whose income and property holdings are below certain federally-mandated levels.

The Western Maryland office of the Legal Aid Bureau, Inc. is located at 110 Greene St. in Cumberland. The office can be reached in Garrett County by calling 334-8832.

Whenever possible, persons needing assistance should call in advance to schedule an appointment for one of the outreach locations or for an appointment at the Cumberland office, according to Bureau officials.

Census Bureau Slates Survey

The U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct its regular survey on employment and unemployment in Garrett County during the week of July 16-21, according to James F. Holmes, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Philadelphia.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in May 1984 the survey indicated that of the 113.8 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 105.3 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate dropped to 7.5 percent.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals, according to Holmes.

CRIME SOLVERS

Call 334-3111

Reward $100-$1000

This week Crime Solvers and the Maryland State Police are seeking information concerning the illegal entry of three summer cottages located on White Oak Drive on Beckman's Peninsula at Deep Creek Lake.

According to Tfc. William W. Rice, unknown suspects entered the cottages, owned by Alfreda Hokaj, between the dates of March 1983, and May of this year.

The suspects reportedly established a temporary residence in one of the cottages before removing numerous articles from all three cabins. Those items taken included a deep freeze, a refrigerator, a washer, several television sets, and other household items. The culprits even removed kitchen cabinets from off the wall. Losses were estimated at approximately $2,000.

All leads in this case have been exhausted and Crime Solvers is seeking the help of the public. A reward of up to $1,000 in cash is being offered for informaiton leading to the arrest and indictment of the person or persons responsible. Callers to Crime Solvers Hotline, 334-3111, need not identify themselves and no court appearance us ever necessary. All information will remain confidential.

Crime Solvers also pays cash rewards for information leading to the capture of wanted persons in other unsolved homicides, rapes, burglaries and aggravated assaults.

Alcohol, Tobacco Revenue Stats For May Noted

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reports that distilled spirits and wine tax revenues were up during May, 1984, compared with May, 1983, while beer and cigarette tax revenues declined.

"Alcohol and tobacco tax revenues for the month of May, 1984 totaled $8,077,758, nearly 3% less than the $8,325,804 collected during the same month a year ago," Goldstein said.

For the first eleven months of Fiscal Year 1984, alcohol and tobacco tax revenues amounted $80,457,682, or 2.9% less than the $82,869,447 collected during the same period of the previous year.

"Over the 11 month period, beer tax revenues show an increase of 2.1%, while wine tax receipts are almost identical to this same time last year," Goldstein stated. "Revenues from distilled spirits are down 2.1% and cigarette tax collections are down 3.8% from last year's levels."

For the first eleven months of Fiscal Year 1984 distilled spirits tax receipts total $12,760,742, wine tax revenues $3,141,643, beer tax collections $8,099,178 and cigarette tax revenue $56,189,438.

GARRETT COUNTY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL Health Lines...

Editor's note: The following is the first in a series of informational articles prepared by Mikal Moomau, coordinator of public relations at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The articles are written by Mrs. Moomau and the department heads at the hospital as their area of expertise is featured. Eric Tribbey, director of the hospital's cardio-pulmonary department, assisted with the following article.

ARTIFICIAL PACEMAKERS

What are they, why are they used, how do they work?

The human heart has a unique electrical system: the sinus node, the artiventricular node and a network of nerve fibers relaying impulses to stimulate the heart to beat.. If this system breaks down its work can sometimes be taken over by an artificial pacemaker, a battery powered device that keeps the heart beating.

No bigger than a pocket watch, the pacemaker houses a timing device and responding elements. These units are designed to send a properly timed electrical charge to stimulate the heart's action of pumping blood throughout the body.

As technology has advanced, so have the design and function of the pacemakers. The most current models contain a sensing device. This device tells the pacemaker when the heart's own rate of beating is too slow allowing the pacemaker to begin its work in response to the heart's need instead of working continuously.

The procedure to install the pacemaker can be performed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Drs. Thomas Johnson, Robert Gorlaski, Joseph Alverez and C. William Fedde and usually takes about an hour. With the patient under local anesthesia, the physician inserts a thin wire through a vein and into the heart's upper chamber, right atrium, and lower chamber, right ventricle. Muscles forming the right ventricle walls are used to maintain a contact with the end of the wire. The wire is then attached to the pacemaker under the skin of the patient's chest. Electrical impulses released by the pacemaker batteries then stimulate the heart muscle to pump blood to the body.

After the pacemaker is implanted, if the patient's own heart rate goes below a preset minimum rate, a sensing device takes action in response and activates the heart to beat at the present rate. When the patient's own heart rate goes above the preset rate, the sensing device stops the output of the pacemaker.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital provides a Pacer Clinic for patients to have their pacemaker checked.

The batteries last up to 10 years. At the end of this time the pacemaker must be replaced; however, the pacemaker doesn't simply stop working all at once. Via the Pacer Clinic, subtle changes can be detected which clue the physician that the batteries are slowly wearing down.

During the Pacer Clinic the output of the unit, the programmed minimum rate and several other parameters are analyzed and changed if necessary. To change a patient's pacemaker parameters is a simple procedure. Electronic messages are sent to the pacer painlessly through the skin by a programming device in approximately two seconds. The patient does not need to be admitted to the hospital or have surgery to adjust the pacemaker's function.

This examination is done by the local physicians mentioned earlier, plus a Cardiac Pacemaker Technical Consultant from Cordis Corporation, Gary Henderson, who visits Garrett County Memorial for all pacer implants and clinics. The procedure and clinic are coordinated by the Cardiopulmonary Department of the hospital.

State, County Jobless Rates Fall In May

Maryland's estimated unemployment rate dropped to 4.9 percent in May, slipping below five percent for the first time since September 1978, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Employment and Training (DET).

Dropping by an estimated 1.9 percentage points from May 1983's unemployment rate of 6.8 percent after just one year of economic recovery, Maryland has returned to the low levels of unemployment recorded 10 years ago.

Garrett County's jobless rate also dropped significantly, down from 13.4 percent in April to 11.1 percent in May. The unemployment figure for the county in May of last year was 14.4 percent.

Out of a total Garrett County workforce of 11,969 persons in May, 10,646 were employed.

Statewide, during May 1984, employment reached a record breaking estimated 2,114,119 persons, an increase of 21,368 from April 1984 to 39,103 more than was estimated for May 1983. Unemployment, recorded at 108,838, dropped by 3,916 persons since April 1984 and has fallen by 43,391 since May 1983. The labor force increased by an estimated 17,452 persons from April to May 1984 for a total of 2,222,957 persons, lower than the labor force estimates for May 1983 by 4,288.

The increase in employment between April and May resulted from seasonal hiring in construction, eating and drinking places, real estate, hotels and lodging places, amusement and recreation services, membership oragnizations, agribusiness, public universities and colleges, and defense establishments. Some hiring was reported in trucking.

This May, layoffs were noted in ship and boat building and repair, personal services, community colleges and public elementary and secondary schools.

Claims for unemployment insurance benefits decreased particularly in construction, manufacturing, wholesale trade, eating and drinking places, hotels and lodging places and business services. The greatest number of claims were filed against special trade contracting, food processing and transportation equipment industries as well as eating and drinking places and business services.

Between April and May, the unemployment rates decreased in 19 out of 24 local jurisdictions.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the unemployment rate inched down from 5.9 percent in April to 5.8 percent in May. Employment increased by an estimated 9,495 persons with hiring noted in construction, trucking, eating and drinking places, amusement and recreation services and defense. Baltimore City's unemployment rate also edged down from 7.0 percent in April to 6.9 percent in May.

In the Maryland suburbs of the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, the unemployment rate decreased slightly from April's 3.0 percent to May's 2.9 percent with a slight increase from 2.4 to 2.5 percent in Montgomery County.

Western Maryland's rate dropped from 8.3 percent to 7.5 percent in May, but still registered the highest rate of any Maryland area. Allegany County's rate decreased from 10.1 to 8.9 percent.

Southern Maryland's unemployment rate continued its decline, dropping from 6.8 percent in April to 6.1 percent in May. The Eastern Shore's rate fell from 8.0 percent to 6.4 percent. On the Eastern Shore and in Southern Maryland, employment increased particularly in agribusiness, eating and drinking places, and hotels and lodging places.

Statewide, nine counties had rates lower than five percent while two had rates over 10 percent. The rates ranged from 2.5 percent in Montgomery County to 15.0 percent in Somerset County.

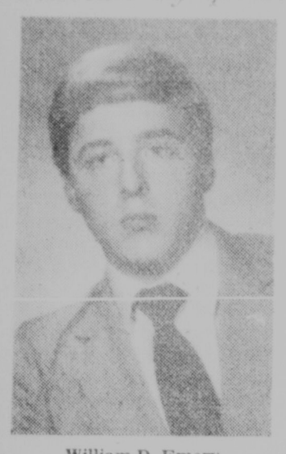
LET "SPACE" HELP YOU SELL

There is nothing that will turn off a prospective buyer faster than the look of a crammed house. Closets jammed with clothing, toys and boxes; messy garages or carports, over-furnished rooms; spilling-over bookcases, triple-stacked china cupboards; attics and basements with a flea-market look—all clutter turn buyers off.



Many buyers don't mention it, but Realtors can see the chill come over them. Some find it distasteful, others find it oppressive, as though they had to cope with all that. Whatever the reaction—it is always negative.

If you want to sell your home, make a good impression on buyers by having it look as spacious as possible. You do this by getting rid of everything extraneous, admitting as much daylight as possible and keeping the place shipshape. Now, not later, is the time to have your big sorting-out party. Inventory what you are going to sell, give away or throw away when you move. Then take action. Outer space is OK for astronauts. Inner space is good for homesellers.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

Local residents so honored include: William D. Emory, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Emory, Bittinger; Jeffrey S. Spiker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spiker, Route 2, Swanton, and Laurie Wildman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kennth R. Wildman, Route 1, Swanton.

Emory is planning to major in engineering at Frostburg State. The 1984 graduate of Northern High School was a National Social Studies Olympiad Qualifier, a member of Who's Who in American High School Students of Academic Achievement, and recipient of the Woodmen of the World Plaque of Recognition for Proficiency in American History.

Spiker, a 1984 graduate of Bruce High School, plans to major in electrical engineering. While at Bruce, he was selected for inclusion in Who's Who Among American High School Students, he was a member of the Speech and Drama Club, served as an audio-visual aide and school fire marshall and was selected to attend Boys' State in 1983.

Miss Wildman, also a 1984 graduate of Bruce, was a Maryland Distinguished Scholar Semi-Finalist. She was a member of the Honor Society, the yearbook staff and participated in volleyball, basketball, track and the ski club. (Photo of Miss Wildman not available.)

The President's Scholar Program at FSC is made possible through funds made available to the college by the Board of Trustees of the State Universities and Colleges. These scholarships represent a part of Frostburg State College's efforts to assist academically talented students, according to a FSC spokesman.

Toll-Free Cancer Inquiry Number Now Available

Senator John N. Bambacus has announced the availability of a toll-free telephone inquiry service that supplies information about cancer and cancer-related resources. The Cancer Information Service (CIS), a component of the Cancer Communications Network Office at the Johns Hopkins Oncology Center, serves cancer patients and their families, health professionals, and the general public.

The toll-free number is 1-800-4-CANCER. CIS is funded by the National Cancer Institute and is a part of a nationwide network of communications offices.

"Citizens of District I should be aware of this significant program," Bambacus stated. "So many of our families are touched by cancer. This service could be extremely helpful in understanding the disease and what it means."

CIS provides specific information on the causes of cancer, prevention, treatment, and current research. Along with verbal explanations, a broad range of free publications are also provided. In addition, there is an extensive, up-to-date statewide directory of resources and services which provide special assistance to cancer patients.

Youth Training Grant Received By DECD

The Department of Economic and Community Development received a $15,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities for planning a statewide Archeological Training Program for youth.

The grant will provide the first program offering opportunities for students to learn about prehistoric and historic archeology through classroom instruction, laboratory analysis, and fieldwork experience.

Archeologists from several institutions will assist in planning for the project. The cooperating institutions include the University of Maryland, Historic Annapolis, Inc., St. Mary's City Commission, the Baltimore City Urban Archeology Program, and the American University, as well as teachers and students from Calvert and Montgomery counties.

The grant will be administered by the Maryland Historical Trust, and coordinated by the staff of the Jefferson Patterson Park and Museum in Calvert County. Director Wayne E. Clark will administer the grant and Dr. Robert K. Evans, educational coordinator will coordinate the planning and curriculum development.

State Roadway Mishaps Kill 19

Preliminary reports from the investigating agencies attribute nine of the deaths to alcohol, 10 to speed and 15 to driver error.

Fatalities through July 8 total 293, compared to 287 for the same period last year.

Local Dancers Attend Convention

The 33rd annual Naitonal Square Dance Convention was held in Baltimore June 28-30. There were 26,000 square dancers from 14 different countries coming together to learn about every phase of this hobby.

Those attending from the local Mt. Top Promenaders were: Bill and Jo Ashby, Doyle and Louise Biser, Bob and Pauline Eaton, Dan and Sara Donley, Jesse and Helen Molle, Frank and Rita Mosher, Ray and Betty Mattingly Ray and Nellie Platter and Manning and Katie Smith.

Dancing included rounds, Contra clogging, and demonstrations by special groups from all over the United States. One group that attracted much attention was YES (Youth for Easter Seals), a group of handicapped young people whose hobby is wheelchair square dancing.

EASY DOES IT — A steeple rising 23 feet was recently delicately placed upon the roof of the Crellin Assembly of God Church. Rigidply Rafters, Inc., had the arduous task of hoisting the steeple 32 feet into the air before it could be set. The church is presently undergoing other major renovations in addition to the steeple, which, according to members of the congregation can be seen from quite a distance. Rev. Ray Beahm serves as pastor to the congregation.

Given in marriage by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fletcher, the bride's uncle and aunt, and escorted to the altar by her uncle, the bride was attired in a gown of ivory organza, the empire bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline accented with venise lace and pearls. Bishop sleeves with lace appliques, the A-line skirt enhanced with lace appliques swept to a semi-cathedral train beneath lace trim. She wore a derby hat of matching lace featuring face veil and bow pouf held a waltz length mantilla of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of ivory carnations and colored rosebuds to match the dress of the matron of honor and the bridesmaid.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Teresa Jones, who wore a light lavender dress. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Cindy Stonesifer, who wore a light blue dress. They carried bouquets of carnations to match their dress and ivory rosebuds.

The groom wore a navy blue suit, with a boutonniere of ivory carnation and light blue rosebud center. Serving as best man was Allen Fike and groomsman was Gary Fike, both nephews of the groom. They wore navy blue suits with rosebud boutonnieres to match the girls' dresses.

Seating ushers were James Fike, who wore a gray suit, and Robert Border, who wore a navy blue suit. Both had a boutonniere of light blue rosebuds. They are brothers-in-law of the groom.

The reception was held in the church basement. The cake was served by Mrs. Theresa Haenftling, aunt of the groom. The cake had three tiers with a bride and groom centered on the top. On the bottom tier was a lighted water fountain surrounded by ivory, lavender and light blue rosebuds.

Hazel Haenftling, sister of the groom, and Elva See, friend of the groom, served refreshments, with Linda Fike assisting.

Brenda and Lynda Border gave out announcements and Penny Border gave out the seed packets. All are nieces of the groom. Mrs. Helen Fike assisted with the gifts and Mrs. Freda Border registered the gifts. Both are sisters of the groom.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Edna Collins, taken into God's care, July 10, 1977.

You only have one mother, patient, kind and true. No other friend in all the world, will be as true to you. For all her loving kindness, she asks nothing in return. If all the world deserts you, to mother you can turn. All we can do, dear mother, is go and tend your grave, and leave behind a token of love, to the best mother God ever made. To all of you who still have a mother, cherish her with care. For you'll never know the heartaches, till you find she isn't there.

Sadly missed by her children,

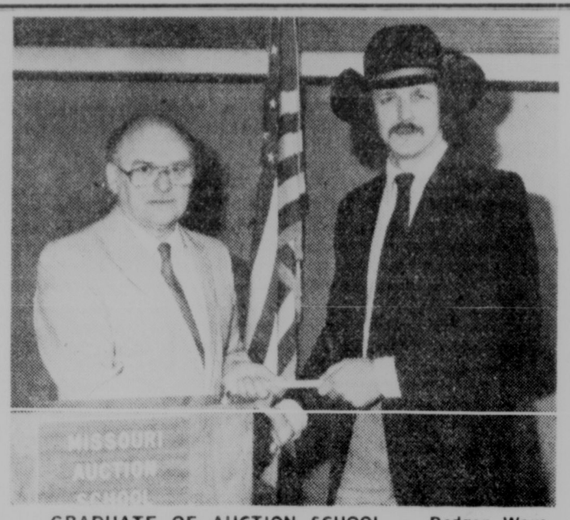
Morning Star Band To Perform At Summer Fest

The sponsors of the Fourth Annual Friendsville Summer Festival have invited Bev Renda Coldiron and the Morning Star Band, who entertained at last year's Summer Festival, to make a return appearance this year. This country western group from South Park, Pa., will perform on the outdoor stage of the Friendsville Elementary School on Saturday, August 4, between 8 and 10:30 p.m. Their performance will be followed by a fireworks display.

Preceding the Morning Star Band performance, a new group consisting of young people from Garrett County, known as the Renegades, whose specialty is the "Top Forty", will play easy rock and roll, beginning at 6:15 p.m. Roger Sines, Friendsville, is the lead singer; Melody King, keyboard; Ernie King, lead guitar; Rodney Uphold, bass guitar; and Gary King, drums.



The Festival theme is "Remembering Days Gone By." One of the highlights of this day-long event, which starts with a parade at 11 a.m., will be descendants of Native American Indians and other craft persons, demonstrating, explaining, and selling the old-time arts and crafts. Deadline to register for both craft and parade participation is July 20.

Sponsors of the Festival, the Town and Community Women of Friendsville, have invited descendants of the Native American Indians from a five-state area to participate in this historical Heritage Birthday Extravaganza.

This event is one of many being held in Garrett County during the week of July 29-August 5 in celebration of Maryland's 350th birthday.

This birthday special is being made possible in part through grants received from the Maryland Humanities Council, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, Garrett County Arts Council, and the Maryland Heritage Committee.

For additional information persons may contact Festival chairman, Lucile Sines, (301) 746-5798, or project coordinator, Maxine Combs, (301) 746-5306.

A Decidedly Better Way To Build Your Log Home

Now, with the unique "Weather-Lok" system, Mountaineer Log & Siding Company's log home packages could well be the best available—at any price.

Mountaineer Log's "Weather-Lok" solves traditional air infiltration problems and also creates a much stronger and more attractive home.

Our Logs are shaped differently. We now manufacture our logs with an important overlap at the bottom of each log—to cause water to drip off, not seep in between the courses. This drip-edge surface also creates a better surface for caulking.

An exclusive new base course. The base course is slotted and a special "weather ridge" is provided to assure a permanent metal barrier against water and air infiltration between floor and wall.

Solid, air-tight windows and door frames. This new vertical tongue-and-groove system stops air infiltration between logs and frames and it makes a stronger wall too.

Exclusive "Vert-a-Lok" Corner system. Some do not like traditional corners on their log homes. Elimination of these corners traditionally has created structural weakness and greater air infiltration. Mountaineer's exclusive new optional "Vert-a-Lok" corner features a solid vertical member with all logs tightly interlocked.

We're convinced these features make our log home packages unequalled in the industry. Yet your Mountaineer Log Home package is still among the most complete and most economical available anywhere. The Mountaineer Log package includes a complete exterior shell, interior partitioning, Thermo-Pane® windows and doors. Others often offer little more than a pile of logs.

Garrett Week Events Slated July 29-Aug. 4

A full list of events is scheduled to celebrate Maryland's 350th anniversary in Garrett County for Garrett County Week July 29-August 4.

Maryland Tolerance Day has been designated for Sunday, July 29. A program at 7 p.m. at Garrett Community College's gymnasium will commemorate Maryland's rich heritage as a haven of religious toleration. The program will feature an address on religious toleration in Maryland by Louis Goldstein, Comptroller of the State of Maryland, at no charge.

A slide presentation of the history of the once famous Deer Park Hotel and cottage highlights Monday, July 30. The Deer Park Hotel, once the playground of the rich and famous in the East, will be brought back to life at 7:30 p.m. in Ruth Enlow Library. Admission is free.

"John W. Garrett and his Railway to the West" will be the topic of an address by Dr. John F. Stover, Tuesday, July 31. The address, at 7:30 p.m. in Garrett Community College Auditorium, will focus on the founding of the B&O Railroad and its early history, with emphasis on the long and vital presidency of John W. Garrett. Dr. Stover is a professor emeritus of Purdue University and an award-winning author of the history of U.S. railroads. Admission is free.

Local historian Robert J. Ruckert walked Braddock's Road and read the journals of the men on General Braddock's

FASCINATION with the fluttering movement of the large moth safely outside the screen can keep cats watchful for hours, although human watchers usually tire more quickly. This moth, with its protective coloration to resemble the eyes of a large bird of prey, is a familiar sight on summer evenings as they are attracted to lights from indoors. As is plain to see, the coloration does not fool this cat, whose instinct urges it to capture the swooping insect. Also in the picture is Pam Hardesty, Bittinger, owner of the cat. Property Owners, Agencies Discuss Lake Area Issues

Members of the Deep Creek Property Owners Association heard presentations from representatives of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, the Planning Commission, the Department of Natural Resources, and the Lake Management Committee at the association's summer membership meeting July 14.

POA director Ed King opened the meeting with remarks about the value of the lake, and said that the hard work of the POA has paid off. He pointed to positive interaction with governmental bodies that has resulted in satisfactory resolution of a number of problems and said that in most cases the POA is working hand in hand with agencies to resolve problems.

The meeting, which was attended by about 175 persons, became heated only during the presentation of Wendell Beitzel, the sanitary district administrator, when several POA members had questions about the Deep Creek Lake sewer project. One member, Nathan Breed, suggested the possibility of a class action suit against the commisssion, because a "good faith effort has not been made by the commission" in settling damage disputes and other issues with landowners. He questioned the strength of the organization and protested the fact that the POA's law firm, as well as a number of other local law firms he contacted were unwilling to represent him in a property damage lawsuit

Commissioners Review Block Grant Proposals

Tim Dugan, coordinator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's Community Development Block Grant program applications for Garrett County, and Anna McNallie, county planner, met with the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss applications received for funding under the HUD block grant program.

The county can submit up to $500,000 in proposals under the program. Proposals received amounted to a little more than half of that amount.

Dugan reported that five proposals have been received, including three from the Garrett County Community Action Committee, one from the Appalachian Parent Association, and one from the Garrett County Firemen's Association.

CAC's first application is for $109,173, for the adaptation of the former Accident Elementary School into a community/senior citizen center, including about seven new apartment units for rental through the Section 8 Housing Program. Dugan told the commissioners that the funds would be used for local matching funds for the Section 8 monies.

The second CAC application is for $82,500 for a Repair Loan Program for Owner-Occupied Housing, a revolving loan program for lower income homeowners to finance health and safety or energy conservation work at variable interest rates correlated with the owners ability to pay.

On behalf of the Swanton Community Association, CAC submitted a proposal for the rehabiliation of the Swanton Community Center, including a new roof, energy conservation work, Section 504 accessibility compliance, ventilation and other repairs and modifications to the former school building. The amount of the proposal was $13,200.

Appalachian Parent Association has proposed a $34,588

College Faces Drop In Enrollment; Board Discusses Marketing Plan

A decline in registration at Garrett Community College of about one-third as compared to this time last year was the main topic of discussion at the monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the college Tuesday evening.

Other major items on the agenda included the renewal of the contract of College President Randall Harman for one year with a two and one-half percent salary increase. The board approved on the renewal following an executive session of about one-half hour.

Re-elected to the position of board chairman was William Goldsborough, with Pat Fischetti re-elected as vice chairman. The re-appointment of Richard Browning, Sr. was also announced at the meeting.

Leo Martin, dean of finance, presented an admissions report showing 50 students registered as of July 6, compared to 72 last year.

The report also showed a decline in new applicants, down eight students overall, with a decline of about 18% in applications from County residents. This year 53 Garrett County residents have applied, as compared to 64 last year.

Martin told the board that, while it is late to be putting together a marketing plan to attract students for this fall, he and Bill Ewing, director of admissions, have put together a plan for the rest of the summer which includes an advertising campaign and a series of news articles focusing on programs with high appeal, such as computer skills and business, and transfer programs.

Board members questioned Martin about the reasons for the decline in enrollment, and about efforts to determine why local students are going elsewhere.

Board Chairman Bill Goldsborough said that the college had been conceived to serve local people, and requested that Ewing gather information about why local students declined admission.

Randall Harman, college president, said that some local students choose Allegany Community College to pursue programs such as nursing that are not offered at GCC, or Frostburg State College, which has different atmosphere, as well as being a four year college.

Charles "Bus" Bender, board member, requested an update on the admissions study before the next board meeting, saying, "We don't want to wait til the last minute and not have adequate FTEs to fund the budget."

Funding from the state is based on the number of full-time equivalencies generated by the college. This year's budget is based on 524 FTEs.

Board members suggested another follow-up letter to graduates of the county high schools, emphasizing the computer program and utilizing a more eye-catching format than a standard letter.

President Harman told the board that he has placed the responsiblity for recruitment in the admissions area, centralizing that responsibility for the first time. More money was allocated in this year's budget for recruitment, and a planned approach through the admissions department " is a positive step", according to

Kitzmiller Man Dies In W. Va. One-Car Mishap

A Kitzmiller man was killed early Sunday morning in a one-vehicle accident that occurred on West Virginia Route 220, near Keyser.

According to a spokesman at the Keyser detachment of the W. Va. State Police, Bobby Lee Stewart, Jr., 24, was southbound on Rt. 220 at a high rate of speed. He passed a vehicle in front of him and came back into his lane before entering a right hand turn. His vehicle then failed to negotiate the curve, crossed the opposite lane and went over the road's edge, became airborne before crashing into some trees. The vehicle reportedly broke into three pieces, the victim being pinned under one.

He is the son of Bobby L. and Carol (Tanner) Stewart, Kitzmiller. He was employed by the Bausch and Lomb Optical Company in Oakland.

Surviving, besides his parents, are one sister, Wendy L. Stewart, Kitzmiller; two brothers, George Stewart and Gerald Stewart, both of Kitzmiller; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Gladys Stewart, also of Kitzmiller.

Friends were received at the David A. Burdock Funeral Home in Kitzmiller. A service was conducted at the funeral home on Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. Juris Reneslacis officiating. Interment followed in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery in Elk Garden, W. Va.

Officials Seek Black Kitten To Check For Rabies

A young Oakland girl may have to undergo post-exposure rabies treatment starting today unless a small black, long-haired kitten can be found.

The two-month-old kitten bit the girl on the finger approximately 10 days ago. When Deputy Richard Kutchman investigated, he advised the owner, Randy Lantz, to quarantine the animal.

That same day, Lantz gave the kitten to Mary and Jimmy Teets, also of Oakland. When the health department was informed of the bite on Wednesday, Teets told officials that the kitten had disappeared some time ago from their home.

The Teets family was involved in a head-on collision Monday night and family members were unavailable for comment until Wednesday.

Anyone finding the kitten is asked to call the Garrett County Health Department's environmental division or the Garrett County Sheriff's office immediately. The kitten was last seen in the area between Bradley Manor and Pennington Street.

Seven Injured Monday Night In Two-Vehicle Auto Mishap

A two-vehicle mishap which occurred Monday night resulted in serious injury to seven area residents and the death of an unborn child. The accident occurred at approximately 8:02 p.m., on Rt. 135, near Paughville, 50 feet west of the Oakland-Deer Park Road.

According to Maryland State Police, a 1975 Ford Pinto being driven by Mary Ruth Teets, 20, Oakland was westbound on Rt. 135 when she crossed the center line and struck, head-on, a 1982 Plymouth Reliant being driven by Harley M. Wildesen, 65, Swanton.

A small child in the Teets vehicle, Glenda Miller, two years of age, was thrown from the car. She is listed in "satisfactory" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. A state police spokesman said the child was not restrained in a safety seat.

Wildesen and a passenger in the Teets vehicle, Vona Miller, 45, Oakland were both transported by the state police Medevac helicopter unit to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. Miller is listed in "critical" condition while Wildesen is listed as "serious". According to one Southern Rescue Squad member, Mrs. Miller was trapped in the vehicle for approximately 45 minutes before rescue squad personnel could extricate her.

Mary Teets, who was reported to have been eight months pregnant, and her husband, Jimmy Teets, 23, Oakland, were both transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Teets is listed as "stable" while her husband is in "satisfactory" condition.

Two passengers in the Wildesen vehicle, Richard W. Wildesen, 25, and Richard W. Wildesen, Jr., 7, both of Swanton, were also taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital. The younger Wildesen has been released from the facility while his father remains there in "stable" condition.

The Southern and Northern Rescue Squads, the Elk District Ambulance Service, the Medevac helicopter, the Garrett County Sheriff's Deputies and the Deer Park Fire Department all responded to the scene. The Oakland Fire Department was instructed by Garrett Central Alarm to stand by and the Oakland Police Department provided a police escort for the emergency vehicles.

Tfc. L.R. Rosage investigated the mishap. Charges are pending.

A Deer Park man remains in "satisfactory" condition at Garrett Memorial Hospital after he was injured Monday evening in a one-vehicle accident on the Swanton Hill Road.

Reports indicate that Carmen P. DelSignore, 34, was the operator of a 1984 Ford Bronco that was traveling east on that road. As the driver approached a hillcrest at a point where the road narrows, he applied his brakes but lost control of the vehicle. He ran off the left side of the roadway, struck an embankment and his vehicle overturned.

DelSignore was transported to the medical facility by a private vehicle.

Investigating officer Tfc. Rosage made no charges.

Two young women were treated and released from Garrett Memorial Hospital after they were injured Saturday night in a two-car mishap along U.S. Rt. 219, 250 feet south of the Sand Flat Road.

According to police reports,

Board Of Education Cuts Budget; Most Areas Of Operation Affected

The Garrett County Board of Education met for more than eight hours yesterday on a varied agenda that included the task of eliminating $401,331 from their operating budget. That amount is the difference between the board's budget request to the Board of County Commissioners, and its allocation from that board.

According to Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of county schools, nearly everyone, from students to aides to administrators, will feel the budget cuts.

The board eliminated the fifth work day per week for Chapter I instructional aides, which was included in the budget request this year, after being cut from the federally funded program last year. At the urging of teachers, parents, administrators, and others, who said that the reduction in aide time would show up in lower student performance, the item was included in the budget, only to be eliminated last night.

Ryscavage said, "The board regretted greatly not granting the fifth day for aides."

Jean Eberly, president of the Garrett County Association of Educational Support Personnel, commented, "I was disap-

Bambacus Queries Procedures In Site Selection

State Senator John Bambacus forwarded a letter to the Department of Housing and Urban Development and Garrett Crossroads this week regarding the community opposition to the location of apartment units for the disabled in two Oakland neighborhoods. The letter said, "It appears at this stage that the site selection process has been handled poorly without the benefit of full public disclosure," and, requested a "full and current report on the status of this project and plans for addressing the valid concerns of the affected property owners."

It concluded with the statement that "It appears there has been a serious breach of procedure here, which has generated valid concerns."

Representatives of several Western Maryland agencies that provide housing for the disabled disputed that statement, indicating that Garrett-Frederick Residences, which is trying to establish the two apartment units in the Mitchell Manor and 11th Street areas, followed the same procedures that are utilized by their agencies in establishing residential units for less than four

For the first time ever, the regatta will take place over two successive weekends. The Flying Scot and Laser championship races will be held Saturday and Sunday, while Jets and Rebels will compete together next weekend, July 28 and 29.

There will be three races each weekend, two on Saturday and one on Sunday, according to regatta chairman Audrey MacMillan, who is also vice commodore of the Deep Creek Yacht Club at Turkey Neck.

Skippers scheduled to race include Gordon (Sandy) Douglass, Oakland, designer of the Flying Scot, Highlander and Thistle boats, who is affectionately known in racing circles as "The Fox on the Water;" Hal Walker, Davidson,

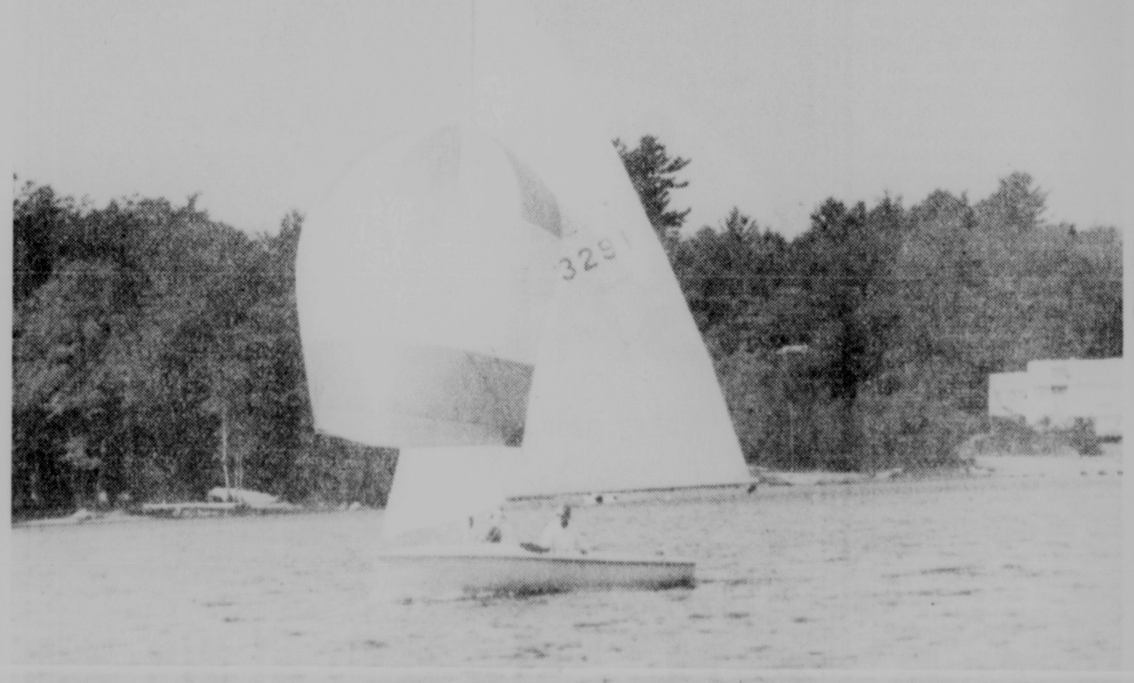
Oakland Man Incarcerated After Twelve-Hour Siege Saturday Night

An Oakland man continues to be held in the Garrett County jail after eight charges were filed against him in connection with a shooting and barricading incident that lasted nearly 12 hours Saturday night and into Sunday morning.

Russell Edward Tasker, 33, has been charged with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder; assault with intent to maim; carrying a deadly weapon; resisting arrest; two counts of assault; and one count of destruction of property.



The charges stem from a Saturday night incident in which Tasker entered J.R.'s Restaurant on the Swallow Falls Road, near Oakland, and threatened his wife, Sharon, with a shotgun. His wife, as well as others in the establishment, left the scene while Tasker remained behind.

Deputy David Crossland of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department arrived first and attempted to talk Tasker into surrendering, however Tasker did not comply and fired a shot through the door. A short time later, another shot was fired by Tasker through a window.

Members of the sheriff's department and Maryland State Police remained on the scene attempting to negotiate with Tasker. At approximately 6:15 a.m., Sunday morning the decision was made to use a chemical agent to draw Tasker out.

A few minutes after the agent was thrown inside the building, Tasker surrendered. He was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of a minor injury sustained during his all-night vigil. He was then incarcerated at the county jail facility.

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer set bail at $20,000 cash or property bond during a Monday court proceeding.

BRILLIANT COLORS will grace the surface of Deep Creek Lake for the next two weekends as area sailors unfurl their spinnakers and main sails to compete in the annual Maryland Regatta. The Flying Scot and Laser championship races will be held this weekend, while Jets and Rebels will compete together next weekend, July 28-29. Skippers scheduled to race include Oakland's own Gordon (Sandy) Douglass, the designer of the Scot, Highlander and Thistle boats and former North American sailing champion.

Garrett, Kitzmiller Among Few Not Violating Stormwater Regulations

Garrett County was one of only nine counties in Maryland to adopt a stormwater management ordinance by the July 1 deadline, according to a news release from the Water Resources Administration of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

Kitzmiller is the only municipality in this county which had adopted the ordinance and is not now in violation of state law. That action was taken at the town's June 25 meeting.

The WRA has issued notices of violations and orders to the 15 counties and 132 municipalities which failed to comply with the ordinance. Counties receiving notices are Harford, Cecil, Charles, Frederick, Caroline, Anne Arundel, Montgomery, Prince George's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot, Washington, Wicomico, Worcester and Baltimore.

Counties with approved ordinances in addition to Garrett and Allegany, Carroll, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne's, Howard, Calvert and Baltimore City.

John Nelson, county zoning administrator and member of the stormwater ordinance committee, met with the Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to inform them that all communities but Kitzmiller are in violation of the state law. The towns have received letters informing them they must adopt their own ordinances which are in compliance with state guidelines, or adopt the county's resolution.

The WRA prefers that joint resolutions between each of the towns and the commissioners be adopted, whereby the towns agree to adopt the county's ordinance and the commissioners agree to provide administrative services.

The county commissioners are presently seeking a stormwater ordinance supervisor. Deadline for applications is July 20.

Nelson cautioned that although Kitzmiller has signed an ordinance, the town may be asked to sign another resolution which spells out the county's obligation to provide administrative service.

The commissioners have asked county attorney W. Dwight Stover to prepare a draft resolution which will be distributed to the towns by Wendell Keaton, county municipal coordinator, after the commissioners approve the resolution.

Nelson was told by a spokesman for WRA Tuesday that some 84 municipalities have not yet adopted an ordinance for stormwater management.

The Stormwater Management Law was enacted in 1982 to reduce stream channel erosion, pollution, siltation and sedimentation, and local flooding that results from stormwater runoff. The recently completed Chesapeake Bay study identified urban runoff and runoff from developing areas as major sources of nutrients, toxics and sediments into the bay. The state program was initiated July 1, 1982 and resolutions were adopted in July 1983 after a public hearing process. Local jurisdictions are required to adopt ordinances in order to implement local stormwater management programs under the law.

The law also provides that grading or building permits for land development of all types may not be issued for a property unless a stormwater management plan has been approved that is consistent with state program requirements.

Counties and municipalities without state-approved ordinances are ineligible for grant-in-aid funds for implementation of the local stormwater programs.

The orders accompanying the notices of violations to the various counties requires that all information be submitted by July 31 and that an ordinance be adopted by August 31.

Municipalities will be required to submit all information for approval of ordinances or provide executed resolutions with the county's ordinance by July 31; or if a joint resolution is not pursued, to adopt a stormwater management ordinance and submit it for WRA approval by August 31.

Wayne Johnson Receives State Educator Award

Dennett Road Elementary School principal Wayne Johnson was one of five Maryland educators honored with certificates of recognition by the Maryland Association of Elementary School Administrators at the association's annual convention in May.

Johnson, who coordinated this year's award program, was unaware that he was in line for an award himself. A delegation of eight Garrett County administrators attended the convention to see Johnson honored. The county group was recoginized for having the largest percentage of members present at the convention.

A member of the executive board of MAESP since 1974, Johnson was cited for his outstanding years of service to the MAESP and his dedication to the children of Garrett County.

He began his teaching career in Garrett County in 1958, after graduating from Frostburg State College that year. He was president of the Garrett County Teachers Association in 1969-70. He received a Masters Degree in administration and supervision from West Virginia University in 1964.

He took a leave of absence from the Garrett County school system in 1971 to serve as personnel specialist for Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties.

He returned to Garrett County Schools in 1973, as principal at the Oak Street Kindergarten and the Center Street Elementary School. In 1976 he was appointed principal of the newly-constructed Broad Ford Elementary School, a position he has held since then.

He has been active on numerous county and state educational committees, including the Maryland State Advisory Committee on Assessment and Accountability and is a member of the county, state and national associations of elementary school administrators.

Johnson's peers from Garrett County and across the state cited his outstanding career of service to education, and his special relationship with students in recommending him for the award.

Buffalo Seeks Permit To Mine Allegany Coal

The Allegany County Board of Zoning Appeals has not yet announced a decision on a special exception permit to allow Buffalo Coal Company to extract coal from a 107-acre tract about 1.6 miles northeast of Lonaconing and the Allegany-Garrett County line in election district 18.

At a recent hearing, Jenkins Development Company construction services manager John Carey said his firm is representing Buffalo in its appeal for zoning permission. He said the site would be worked by two or three shifts of miners six days a week. About 300,000 to 500,000 tons of coal could be extracted.

Koontz Coal owns 80.4 acres at the site while Buffalo owns 26.6 acres.

Attorney William Walsh, who represented Buffalo Coal Company, said that no homes are located near the proposed surface mine site. He further said a planned coal haul road would not cross public roads on its way to the Buffalo tipple.

Mining would begin late this fall or winter after the company received permits from the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

No one spoke against the request. The three-member board is expected to announce a decision soon.

Bambacus Vocal In Support Of Maryland Coal

Sen. John Bambacus attended a joint committee meeting on the coal slurry pipeline issues July 10, voicing his concern about increasing the export market for western Maryland coal.

Sen. Bambacus said after the meeting that utilities have not been able to assure him they will increase the use of western Maryland coal if a pipeline is constructed. For this reason he has not committed himself, preferring to wait until he "can be assured that a pipeline will increase use of western Maryland coal."

"We do not want a big coal pipeline if it does not benefit the people I represent. These utility companies need to do their fair share," he concluded.

I A Construction Low Bidder For Truck Pull-Over

The State Highway Administration received several bids for a truck pull-over area along Route 38 above Kitzmiller but actual construction is not expected to begin for several weeks. Apparent low bidder was I A Construction of Cumberland with a bid of $43,818.

Award cannot be made until all contract documents have been signed, according to James Welsh, assistant district engineer for construction.

Award is expected in approximately one month, with construction to begin two to three weeks later.

MESHACK BROWNING'S Percussion Pennsylvania long rifle, now the property of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., will be among the displays at the Friendsville Summer Festival IV on August 4, an event which is being held in conjunction with Maryland's 350th birthday observance. Among those persons planning to attend the day-long celebration are native American Indians representing 12 tribes. Rene Cochise, executive director of the Maryland Commission on Indian Affairs, below right, will serve as mistress of ceremonies. Ms. Cochise is a member of the Mescalero Apache tribe and a great-great-great-granddaughter of the famous Apache leader, Chief Cochise. Below left, two members of the Piscataway-Conoy tribe proceed to bless the ground to begin the day's festivities. Cedar boughs and salt are scattered on the ground to bless the entire area where the traditional dances are to take place. Years ago, dogs would be turned loose into the crowd. It was believed that anyone with evil thoughts of disbeliefs would draw the dogs to their scent and would therefore be driven away by their fear of the dogs. Several tribal dances will be performed by the visitors at the Friendsville Festival.

Native American Indians To Visit, Perform During Friendsville Event

Men, women and children representing 12 tribes of Native American Indians have accepted the invitation of the Town and Community Women, Inc., sponsors of the Friendsville Summer Festival IV, to come to Friendsville August 4 to participate in the celebration of Maryland's 350th birthday.

Descendants of the Eastern and Western Cherokee Nation, Isleta Pueblo, Mohegan, Shawnee, Asage, Delaware, Nez Pierce, Mescalero Apache, White Mountain Apache and the Piscataway Conoy tribes, travelling from Ohio, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware are in the group scheduled to attend.

The theme for this day-long event is "Remembering Days Gone By" and the festival will start with a parade at 11 a.m. The parade will include old cars, buggies, covered wagon, trucks, fire engines, old farm machinery, the Native American Indians in tribal dress, to remind viewers of "Days Gone By."

Opening ceremonies are scheduled for 12:30 p.m. on the outdoor stage of the Friendsville Elementary school, followed by the Heritage Birthday Extravaganza at 1 p.m. Throughout the afternoon the descendants of the Native Americans will, by song, dance, skits and demonstrations, share some of the traditions and customs of their ancestors.

Rene Cochise, executive director of the Maryland Commission on Indian Affairs, is coordinating the tribal presentations and will be mistress of ceremonies for that event.

She is a member of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, a great-great-great granddaughter of the famous Apache leader, Chief Cochise. She has a master of science degree from the New Mexico State University, having majored in public administration.

Some of the tribal dances they will perform are the Welcome, Robin, Swann, Canoe, Snake, Rabbit and the Fancy Dance. In the native dances the American Indian recreates the mating dances of birds and animals, the stalking techniques of the hunters, the feeding rituals of each animal and bird in which they came in contact. Each of the dances and songs tell a story in movements and words.

There will be several Native American arts and crafts persons demonstrating and selling a variety of items, including jewelry, clothing, leather items and objects of art.

Several pioneer craft persons will be on hand to share their talent, such as quilling, spinning, weaving, cane and splint seat weaving, hand thrown pottery, rope making, mirror and glass etching and engraving, toy making, and others.

Byron L. Friend, president of the Friend Family Association, has been invited to participate in the celebration. The Association will be holding its first national meeting in Maryland, August 10-12, at the Holiday Inn in Grantsville.

The famous rifle and other artifacts belonging to the renowned Garrett County hunter, Meshack Browning, which is now the property of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., will be on display during the afternoon and early evening.

From 6:30-7:30 p.m. Renegade, a local easy rock and roll group, will entertain.

The Morning Star Band, a country western group who this month won the Pittsburgh Wrangler Country Show Down contest and the opportunity to compete for the state title on September 15, at York, Pa., will be making a return visit and entertain from 8-10:30 p.m.

The day's activities will end with fireworks at 10:30 p.m.

Friendsville was founded in 1765 by John Friend, Sr., who came to the area in 1764 and obtained some land on the Youghiogheny River from the Shawnee Indians for the price of a few iron pots.

Admission for this all day event is free, and it will be held rain or shine. Canopies will help protect the audience and participants from the sun. Sponsors suggest persons bring their own lawn or folding chairs.

This Heritage Birthday special is being made possible in part through grants received from the Maryland Heritage Committee, Maryland Humanities Council, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the Garrett County Arts Council.

Grantsville Man Injured In Road Repair Accident

A 48-year old Grantsville man employed by the Garrett County Roads Department is listed in "satisfactory" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland following a Friday morning accident at a construction site in the Bittinger area on the Frank Brenneman Road.

Robert O. Wilt was standing on a step on the back of a chip box used to spread chips during the chipping and tarring of road repair. As the truck hauling the chip box was backing up, the step gave way and Wilt fell under the box. Another man riding on the step, Richard Yommer, 50, Grantsville, was able to jump out of the way when the step collapsed.

Garrett Central Alarm was contacted at 10:53 a.m. to dispatch Northern Rescue Squad, State Police Medevac helicopter, and State Police to the scene. Wilt arrived at Sacred Heart Hospital at 12:25 p.m.

Parent Education Effort At GCMH Receives Grant

A mini-grant from the Maryland Department of Human Resources has been awarded to Garrett County Memorial Hospital to conduct a parent education program.

Eight to ten grants statewide were awarded on a competitive basis to organizations or agencies capable of developing community based helping networks.

The Positive Parenting Program will be conducted at Garrett Memorial by the present Community Relations Coordinator, Mikal Moomau, in cooperation with the Obstetric's Department. The program's location provides access to every new mother giving birth at the hospital.

According to Mrs. Moomau, approximately 400 mothers each year will be personally contacted with information to help explain what may be encountered, both physically and emotionally, in adjusting to the sudden responsibility of full-time child care and the consequent changes in her life. "By alerting parents to potential difficulties, they may be better able to cope with problems that may arise," she said, noting that the program will establish an open line of communication and support, distribute child care information and provide ongoing services to the parent at home. The grant will fund the program for one year.

The educational material has been designed to expand what is presently being presented by the obstetric nurses in helping parents gain insights into their own needs and those of their children, helping parents learn problem solving skills in order to deal more effectively with child rearing problems, helping parents improve their self-concept through positive acceptance, peer group interaction and support, successful skills practice in child rearing, helping parents gain knowledge of health and safety, nutrition, discipline, importance of playing, emotional needs and expressions of emotions, and kinds of community support available to families.

Some of the services of the program will include: a hospital postpartum visit to each mother to distribute a resource folder of information; creating a resource library for obstetric patients; showing films about nutrition, development, care of the newborn, etc.; establishing a phone line, the Parent Helpline, to offer support, answer questions and provide information for new parents; and mailing a monthly newsletter about child care to all obstetric patients.

Morale Problem . . .

It is our opinion that the most effective, and ultimately the most successful, way to operate an institution or a business is by bending over backward to make the employees proud and happy to be there. When the morale and pride of employees is high, they look forward to coming to work and doing the best job they can for the organization, even if they have to make some concessions. The end result is top quality production and satisfied customers.

We sense that this approach is not characteristic of the Garrett Community College board of trustees. There is obviously an array of serious difficulties at the college right now, the greatest of which is rock bottom morale of the faculty.

One of the reasons for this low morale is undoubtedly the salary scale at the college, which is some $10,000 below the median salary for faculties across the state of Maryland. The trustees have attempted to address this problem by granting raises for members of the faculty, and perhaps they have done all they can in this area. There is only so much money available, especially when enrollment is down, which is another big problem at GCC.

However, we believe that the major reason for low faculty morale does not stem from the salary situation. We believe that the apparent lack of responsiveness by the trustees to faculty complaints and the failure of the board to seek feedback and input from the faculty are the main causes for the discontent. Most instructors we have spoken with have the distinct impression that there is a total lack of communication between the board and faculty because the board ignores faculty input. We realize that the board cannot and should not operate totally on the advice of faculty members; however the persons who compose the faculty of a college are obviously intelligent, educated people who should be tapped for advice. The suggestions by faculty members do not have to be acted upon, however they should be graciously accepted and considered, and most importantly, the faculty members should know that they are being heard. "Only we know what's good for you" seems to be the board's attitude.

Until this feeling at the college changes, we guarantee nothing but a continual downslide of the institution, which is a tragedy for this county.

The chairman of the board stated Tuesday evening that two reasons for the college's decline in enrollment are that the faculty members are not getting on the telephone and recruiting students and that there has not been enough help from the media. On behalf of the faculty, it is not in their job description to recruit students. There are other persons, who are paid much more, who have been hired for that purpose.

On behalf of the local media, we wish to say in our behalf that we have run literally thousands of positive stories about the many courses and programs offered at Garrett Community College. None of the stories submitted to us for publication has ever been turned down. However, we also have a responsibility to report the problems at the college and how they are being handled. We hope that the chairman of the board, who was just re-elected for another term, understands this.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Last week's Republican contained a letter-to-the-Editor from a Mitchell Manor resident. Although almost all the points raised were not factual, I would like to clarify two areas.

The State of Maryland is purchasing the property on Weber Road. The Department of General Services Administration is solely responsible for the purchase of the property and development and construction of the residential home. Since I am not a state employee, I have never had the authority to purchase the property, only to sign an option on the land.

Never has Garrett Crossroads entertained the thought of providing residential homes for people who have drug abuse problems.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank several groups who have helped make our Senior Citizen Picnics successful.

On June 28, 1984, 86 seniors, including patients at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home and Dennett Road Manor, attended a picnic at Herrington Manor State Park. They would like to thank the Park Staff, who made us welcome and Mr. Profitt, Park Naturalist, who gave a very interesting talk on ginsenging. Our appreciation also to Marilu and Gordon Rowe, and Sonny Ashby for providing musical entertainment.

Our second picnic was scheduled for Tuesday, July 10, at New Germany State Park. On Tuesday morning, thunderstorms threatened to force cancellation of all our plans. The Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department in Finzel saved the day for us, in offering the use of their lovely Community Building for our picnic activities. Because of their generosity, 91 Senior Citizens were able to attend the picnic in warm, dry surroundings.

The Commission on Aging would like to thank the Eastern Garrett Fire Co., Park Superintendent Rogers for permitting the naturalist to come to the fire hall for her presentation; the park staff for their help in redirecting people to the fire hall; to Mrs. Liz Griffith, Park Naturalist for transporting her equipment and giving her presentation; Conrad James; Noah Schrock and the Broadwaters for music; and WMSG, WXIE, and WFRB for their help in notifying everyone of the change in location.

One of the "best kept secrets" in Garrett County is the people!

Thank you all!

To the Editor:

As a resident of Mitchell Manor, I would like to comment on the recent letters to the editor regarding the rights of the handicapped. According to these letters, handicapped individuals have a right to live where they choose.

But isn't it a fact that many of us cannot live where we choose? Because of hard work and economic sufficiency, we were lucky to be able to purchase a house in an area such as Mitchell Manor. However, I cannot walk into a neighborhood where the houses sell for $300,000 and say that I have a right to live there. I don't. Because I can't afford to live there. This is a reality that all of us live with and take for granted. The mentally handicapped do have right to adequate housing, and I don't believe this idea is being threatened by the people of Mitchell Manor.

I would also like to thank Senator John Bambacus for his July 13th letter to Mr. Hobbs of HUD. In it he states, "It appears at this stage that the site selection process has been handled poorly . . . I have always felt that open public discussion is an essential element in our system of representative democracy, regardless of whether required by law or not."

He continues "It is my view that there is a legitimate procedural complaint in this case. There seems to have been a serious breach of procedure here, and it has generated valid concerns."

Thank you

To the Editor:

Our county commissioners are advertising for two engineers: A storm water engineer and a safety training coordinator engineer. Both must be engineers with bachelor degrees.

Applicants must apply to Paul Shockey, county personnel director. When first taking office, Gregg and Groves created the job of assistant administrator for Shockey at $30,000. Apparently, they have made him personnel director. Now they want to create a couple more unneeded jobs, perhaps for their friends.

These commissioners have proved to be the biggest spenders we ever elected. Their spending has not been limited to their annual budgets. They have borrowed more money, created more debt, more bonds, than any other board of commissioners. In a couple of years they have increased the future burdens upon the people by perhaps more than one hundred million dollars, if we count the additional taxes our citizens will have to pay in taxes to pay back the borrowed money with interest added until the bonds are paid.

Unless it is stopped we, or our children, will be subjected to 30 years of involuntary servitude because of reckless and irresponsible spending by our elected officials. Drive down to the bridge that is being constructed over the little stream of Little Bear Creek (South Bear Creek). That bridge, that they tore up, could have been made to serve the traffic in the community for an outlay of a few thousand dollars. They say they are going to spend four hundred thousand dollars.

Last fall they purchased ten big trucks at $43,000 each. Now they are buying 12 more at $50,000 each and obligating the county for seven more. Anybody who ever drove or owned trucks would know that this many big trucks are not needed for county road purposes.

Clifford Friend,

Dear Sir:

As a property owner and former resident of Mitchell Manor, I was proud to be a part of this separate annex to Oakland, because we had all the advantages of living in the city, yet remaining outside the city limits.

I agreed to sell my property to Garrett Crossroads fully realizing that it would be occupied by the mentally and physically handicapped. I felt this would benefit the individuals involved and in no way be detrimental to Mitchell Manor. What I did not realize, though, was that I required approval of 59 other individuals before making this decision.

During my five years of residence, no other Mitchell Manor property owner requested my approval or opinion before selling their home. The petition delegation and Mrs. Martin voiced several concerns according to your news articles. I would like to express my opinion on each of these concerns.

I have seen no evidence that the Handicapped Residential Unit will be detrimental to property values. Vacant or unsold homes in a development can be.

Of course, I realize children live in the neighborhood, but I don't understand how a handicapped neighbor would be "dangerous" as implied by the delegation—possibly they are afraid of a "speeding wheelchair?"

There would be fewer individuals living in the residential unit than many Mitchell Manor residences. (We had seven in our family when we lived there). This could not be classified as a business since only "enrichment" will be given to the handicapped individuals, not profit dollars.

I want to ask Mrs. Martin why "Mitchell Manor is not an appropriate area for this type of project?" If one of my children were handicapped and I were still living there, would I be asked to move by an appointed delegation?

The handicapped need our understanding and assistance—not abuse.

Sincerely yours,
Beverly F. Bolyard
Arthurdale, W.Va.

To the Editor:

Today I finally received the minutes of the June Mental Health Advisory Board meeting. (I am supposed to receive them after every meeting and these are the first since their January meeting).

I have never before read such throughly confusing minutes and if it were not such a tragic situation, it could be comedic! What do we have going on in the Mental Health Department? Peyton Place perhaps? What is an Advisory Board supposed to do? If you don't know how a Department is working inside and out how do you advise?

One member said in last September's meeting he served on 28 Advisory Boards! Maybe it's time we took Advisory Board positions seriously? Is it a good idea to have most state agencies represented on other state agencies Board to perpetuate the state agencies ad-infinitum, when they aren't seemingly interested?

The suffering, the real services not being rendered, the inability to reach key people and or receive simple replies in weeks regardless of whom and or how you try is a travesty against all that is humane. If the County Commissioners can't get answers verbally or written, what do you think the troubled people are getting? Who cares?

Clarifying my Mentally Retarded Apt.-Group Home position, I am for them!!

I am against Taxpayers paying bills for anyone to live in the most affluent neighborhoods! If their parents want to maintain them there fine, but not at Taxpayers expense!

The main roadway is dangerous. I oppose entrepreneurs making huge profits on handicapped persons! HUD? Again? Shades of Sarubin's Bradley Manor? Land market value $7,290.00 for 9.22 acres; assessed valuation $3,170.00 for 9.22 acres. Two acres for Mentally Retarded Group Home $32.000.00! How come? Entrepreneurs? Profiteers? Think!

This is my opinion.

Cable Firm To Decide Additions By September 1

Cablentertainment, the local TV cable operator, has advised that after the Oakland town council declined to approve for a second time the $2 per month basic service increase, the company will make a decision on whether to provide two additional channels to the area by September 1.

At a public hearing July 16, some 18 persons turned out to hear information about the proposed rate hike and the addition of two channels to make the hike more palatable.

At the May meeting of the Oakland mayor and council, a motion was made to accept the $2 rate increase along with the change in channeling. The motion was defeated three to two, with one member abstaining.

At Monday night's meeting, councilman Terry Helbig made the motion to rescind the original vote but the motion died for lack of a second.

In a news release prepared by John Tosten, attorney for Cablentertainment, following Monday's meeting, William Randies, the senior vice president, said that while considerable cost would be involved in adding two channels, the company must proceed to get badly-needed rate increases. If Oakland should desire the new programming at a later date, the cost of implementing the exclusion system would have to be made part of the rate increase to be determined at that time.

The Oakland decision will make ESPN, a sports program, and USA, a general family entertainment and sports program, unavailable to Oakland, Crellin and the lake area while the towns of Loch Lynn, Mtn. Lake Park and Deer Park may receive the service, pending a decision by Cablentertainment.

Fiddlers Event To Feature 21 Area Musicians

The Friendsville Rotary Club reports that 21 entries have been received for the 20th Annual Fiddlers Contest, to be held at the Elementary School in Friendsville on July 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The youngest person to preregister is 11-year-old Sarah Hamrick of Buckhannon, W. Va.

Lester Hare, Belle Vernon, Pa., who will be competing in the senior division, was a contestant at the first contest 21 years ago and has participated in most since that date.

It appears that Lepty Shafer, Charleston, W. Va., will be traveling the farthest to compete.

There will be two divisions competing for cash prizes and trophies: the Junior Division, those 18 and under; and Senior Division, consisting of persons 19 and over.

The Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department will be serving barbecued chicken dinners, a variety of sandwiches, ice cream and soft drinks, starting at 4 p.m.

Sponsors want to remind the general public that this year the contest will not be broadcast live as in past years.

In the event of rain, the contest will be held the following Saturday, July 28. Admission for adults will be three dollars, for children, one dollar, and those under six years of age, free of charge. Spectators are urged to bring their own lawn or folding chairs.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Edgar Bartholomew, P.O. Box 74, Friendsville, MD, 21531; telephone 301-746-5232.

Commissioners Forward Letter To Dr. Brown

The Garrett County Commissioners followed up their July 10 conference call to Dr. Torrey Brown, Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, with a letter reiterating the county's desire to be included in evaluation of state-owned sites for a possible convention center.

In a letter mailed July 17, Commissioner Chairman John Braskey said "Garrett County unequivocably supports the preparation of a thorough, independent and objective analysis of enterprise development on state-owned land. It has been adopted county policy since 1974 that the Department of Natural Resources be encouraged to further develop tourism facilities on its land holdings, to be owned and operated by the private sector or, if essential, by the state itself."

"We welcome the state initiative to develop such enterprise facilities on its property, and stand ready to assist the department and the committee in their constructive efforts," the letter continued.

The next paragraph states, "However, we are troubled over the apparent quid pro quo the committee recommends you extract from us in order that Garrett County even be considered for a potential site. We believe it would be terribly unfair to ask us, in advance, to commit our support (as well as tax dollars) for the development of a conference center in a neighboring county, which could be directly competing in the same market with a privately-owned facility in our county. It is indeed difficult for us to write the department, the committee or anyone else a 'blank check' commitment, which may later pre-empt our ability to express legitimate concern on behalf of our citizens. We would not expect you to give unequivocal support to a study's results before the study even began, and we trust that you did not expect that from us."

The letter goes on to point out that this county is probably the only county in the state that has actually expended its own general revenue funds to conduct a market feasibility study for a conference facility to demonstrate its support of this concept. "However, Garrett County wants to see its private sector developers grow and prosper without the public sector unjustifiably interfering in the marketplace."

The market feasibility study referred to was done in 1975 by Marcou, O'Leary and recommended five sites in Garrett and possibly Green Ridge State Forest in Allegany county as potential sites for a 250-room complex adjacent to water for summer and "with construction of a first-class ski facility for winter to prevent lulls in business."

Private business developer Helmuth Heise recently announced plans to add to his 68-room motel and ski area, a plan which has the full support of the county officials. Another private developer has purchased land in the Paradise Point area to construct a large motel with appropriate recreational facilities, including a golf course.

House Of Hope Food Drive Set For Saturday

A food drive has been organized by radio station WXIE in Oakland, in conjunction with the House of Hope staff to restock the pantry shelves at the House of Hope. A pick up truck parked on Second Street in front of the Ben Franklin Store will be available to receive all donations on Saturday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. WXIE will also be broadcasting live from the food collection site.

According to Sister Joanna Sinko at the House of Hope, any kind of non-perishable food stuffs are needed. They particularly welcome boxed macaroni and cheese or spaghetti dinner.

Sister Joanna stated that during the winter months, many local organizations conduct drives to replenish the pantry shelves. However, during the summer months the clubs are tied up with other events. Summer is also the time when the demand for food is the heaviest. As children are home all day through summer vacation, they do not receive free lunch or breakfast as they ordinarily do in school. As a result, parents cannot meet their family's needs during the summer with just their regular amount of alloted food stamps.

A spokesman at WXIE said that cash donations would also be welcomed in addition to food stuffs.

Report Reveals GCC Has Lowest Average Salaries

Garrett and Allegany Community Colleges had the lowest average salaries among the state's public two-year colleges, according to figures from the new community college plan.

The State Board for Community Colleges, Annapolis, recently completed the 11th state plan which serves "as a source of current information and a guide to future activities for the community colleges."

The plan lists characteristics of full-time faculty members at the 17 community colleges as of September 30, 1983. Median salary for all faculty members statewide was $27,972. The top average salary was the $32,247 earned by the 238 full-time faculty people at Prince George's Community College. Montgomery County College was second as its 338 teachers averaged $31,497.

The 22 full-time professors at Garrett had the lowest salary average with $18,725, followed by Allegany with an average salary for 78 members of $20,160.

The average age at Garrett was 36, youngest in the state. Statewide median age is 43.

There is five percent minority faculty on campus, 32 percent of faculty members with tenure, and 82 percent have a master's degree or higher.

Statewide averages for all 17 community colleges show that 43 percent of faculty members are female and nine percent are minority members. Of all faculty members, 90 percent hold a master's degree or better. There are 68 percent with tenure.

Two colleges, Howard and Wor-Wic Tech, do not award tenure. Frederick had only eight percent of its faculty members with tenure, which means that a faculty member with tenure cannot be dismissed without cause.

At ACC, the average age of faculty members was 40, 51 percent are female, one percent are minority, 65 percent have tenure, and 78 percent have master's degrees or higher.

NOT JUST IN WORDS, but in action, is the type of faith that is taught by Christianity, and a display of faith in action was present near Bittinger this past week when eight teenaged youth and a staff of advisors volunteered their time and talents in a Garrett County Habitat for Humanity restoration project. The residence of Clara Fazenbaker, Dung Hill Road, was enlarged and improved by week's end with the addition of a bathroom and a bedroom, plus new paneling and ceiling tile. Devotions and recreation at New Germany State Park were also included in the daily schedule. The young people came from United Methodist churches in Damascus and Burtonsville.

Youth, Leaders Put Faith Into Action With Habitat Project

This past week a United Methodist minister, an early childhood teacher, a National Institute of Health researcher, a mechanic for the D.C. Metro system, a social worker, a secretary, a computer operator, and eight teenage students volunteered their time, talents, and energy to Garrett County Habitat for Humanity.

They traveled from the Damascus United Methodist Church in Damascus, and the Liberty Grove United Methodist Church in Burtonsville. They came with their hammers and saws, crowbars and shovels, measuring tapes and levels, but most of all they came with a desire to put their faith into action by serving those in need.

"I'm a different person today than I was a week ago," said David Poole as he summed up what the week meant for him. Stacey Allgood, who attends church with David in Damascus said, "One thing I learned this week was that helping others can be a lot of fun."

The volunteers spent no less than eight hours each day tearing down and building up, digging, hammering and nailing, tarring, plumbing, and paneling. At the end of the week they had accomplished the jacking up of the house and securing of the foundation, the replacement of a porch, and the building of a 6-by-8 bathroom addition (with plumbing to be added soon) at the home of Clara Fazenbaker on Dung Hill Road in Bittinger.

One-half of the group worked at the home of Dale and Patty Fazenbaker in Grantsville. They stayed until near midnight on Friday when the task was accomplished. By week's end they had moved the bathroom from one part of the house to another, created three bedrooms where there had been two, and installed paneling and ceiling tile in most of the house. "I can't believe it's the same house," said Patty.

The week did not consist of all work however. Each day began with morning prayer and ended with evening devotions. Swimming at New Germany State Park and evening programs added a bit of relaxation to a full day's work.

"I thought I'd lose weight this week, but I think I've gained," said Mike Berg from the Liberty Grove group. The volunteers were housed at Frostburg State College and had breakfast there. All other meals were co-ordinated by Esther Yoder of Grantsville. The Friendsville United Methodist Church, St. Paul's in Oakland, Jennings United Methodist, Cherry Glade Mennonite, Glade Mennonite, Oak Grove Mennonite, and Maple Glen Mennonite churches provided lunches and dinners.

Each participant paid his or her own room and board at Frostburg and each of the two groups brought two hundred dollars for materials and supplies.

The Habitat work camp was modeled on Camp Hope in Allegany County. Camp Hope was begun eight years ago by the Frostburg United Methodist Church and each summer hosts church groups from many parts of the country. They come prepared to spend the week in repairing homes.

In reflecting on what the week meant to her, Janice Jones, adult leader of the Damascus group said, "So much of what is beautiful is happening ecumenically."

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity is an affiliate of an international ecumenical housing ministry which is committed to eliminating substandard housing from the face of the earth. Habitat constructs new houses and then sells at no profit and no interest to low income families. Habitat depends heavily on volunteer help in the construction.

The Work Camp committee, chaired by Patricia Easterday, is a working committee of the Board of Directors of Habitat. Members of the committee are Pam Nelson, Henry Yoder, Mel Silber, Tony Magliano, Elmer Maust, Esther Yoder, and Sister Catherine Arata. A few months ago the Board decided to involve the work campers in repairs rather than new construction for this first-time event. The Garrett County Community Action Agency provided technical expertise and staff time in assisting Habitat. For more information on Habitat, contact P.O. Box 363, Oakland, Md. 21550.

Calderwoods At Rockville Civil War Pageant

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Calderwood, Deer Park, were among the invited guests July 14 and 15 at reenactments of Civil War events in the Rockville area. The pageantry was planned jointly by the Montgomery County Civil War Roundtable, the Montgomery County Historical Society and the Maryland 350th committee.

The invitation was issued by William Becker, co-chairman of the 350th committee, who plans to attend Garrett County's celebration later this month, along with his wife.

Two days of reenactments of camp life, complete with uniforms and horses, and skirmishes were interspersed with band concerts and other entertainment. It has been 100 years since the Civil War activity in the Rockville area.

Friend Family To Hold Seminar At Grantsville August 10-12

The 1984 Friend Family Association Seminar will be held August 10 through 12 at the Grantsville Holiday Inn. The family's seventh seminar will be held for the first time in the eastern United States.

The 1984 Seminar committee chairman is Mrs. Jessie G. McCullough, Friendsville. Members are Hugh Friend, Leo Friend, Mr. and Mrs. John Hinebaugh, Mrs. Ellen Humberson, Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Jenkins and Dr. Raymond McCullough.

The first day of the three-day event will be given over to historic/genealogical presentations in the main ballroom of the Grantsville Holiday Inn. Dr. Alvin Friend will present "The Lineage and Lands of the Swanton Friends" and Mrs. Eber Cockley will present "Friends of Somerset County, Pa."

The evening program will include the Officers' Reception and the Founders Recognition Dinner with Robert Ruckert as the principal speaker on "The Braddock Path—Pathway to History."

Saturday has been designated as "Founders Day" and will include an all-day guided bus tour including a lunch in Oakland. Beginning from the hotel in Grantsville, the tour will cover all Friend and Friend-related points of interest in Friendsville and the surrounding Garrett County area. Tour directors are John Hinebaugh, Hugh Friend and Dr. Bruce Jenkins.

Saturday evening will feature an especially-prepared program of "Music and Memories" dedicated to the north-flowing Youghiogheny River which figured prominently in early Friend history. Brother Andrew Friend settled downriver with father Nicholas in the Turkeyfoot area of Pennsylvania, while brothers Charles and Augustine Friend moved up river into the heartland of Garrett County. The unique audio-visual presentation has music by Roger Smith and visualization by Tim Dugan.

Sunday, August 12, starts with a buffet breakfast followed by community singing and a non-denominational worship service led by association Chaplain Rev. Benjamin Friend. The Sunday program also includes the Association's national business meeting and culminates at midday with a question and answer panel of local historical/genealogical experts qualified to answer any final questions participants might have.

The three-day program will end with the traditional closing of the "Ring of Friendship" and this year, in recognition of Maryland's 350th anniversary, a helium balloon launch. Each balloon carries the Friend family heraldic crest and inside, the name and address of the person launching it. It is hoped that anyone finding one of these balloons will contact the person whose name it carries.

A significant portion of the Association's national library—the Col. Lester D. Friend, Sr., Historical Library—will be available for individual research all three days. The FRIENDship Store, displaying a wide variety of Friend-crested and Friend-related artifacts, will also be open and available to the public.

All area Friends and members of their allied family lines are invited to participate in the seminar.

For additional program or registration information, contact Mrs. Jessie G. McCullough, P.O. Box 25, Friendsville, by August 1. Her telephone is (301) 746-5338.

The Friend Family Association of America is a unique nonprofit historical/genealogical group organized to provide a strong group of kindred folk through which the members and descendants of the various lines may establish and perpetuate the deeds of their ancestors, according to Mrs. McCullough.

The first national seminar was held in Glendale, Calif. in 1976. Subsequent seminars have been held in Lancaster, Ohio; Galesburg, Ill., Louisville, Ky., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Huntington Beach, Calif.

Yellowstone is the nation's oldest national park.

Talk Of The Towns

Grantsville Has Extensive Sewer Project Discussions

Grantsville's council met twice in July but took no major action, according to town clerk Gloria Martin's minutes from the meetings. Chief topic at both meetings has been progress of the sewer system rehabilitation underway by Trimble Construction, Latrobe, Pa.

Progress has apparently been hampered by rock formations which require blasting. One house sustained damage to its foundation after blasting in the vicinity; and the matter has been referred to the insurance companies for the owner, Chauncey Saunders, and the blasting firm of D.C. Guelich, Friedens, Pa.

The project is scheduled for completion in 400 working days, which would be up June 4, 1985.

Topics for discussion at the July 16 meeting included payment to the project engineer, Andrews Miller and Associates, and possible need for a larger crew from Trimble to accomplish work more quickly.

Only three councilmen were present Monday night, so several items on the agenda were deferred until a full council session can be held.

The next regular meeting will be August 6.

Hearings Attract Overflow Crowd In Friendsville

An overflow crowd jammed the Friendsville town hall to give and hear testimony in two applications for rezoning from residential to commercial. No recommendations on the changes were given as yet by the town's planning board.

A request by Rick Sturgill to purchase a former hotel on Riverside Drive, renovate the property and use it both as a hotel and as headquarters for Upper Whitewater Expeditions, drew opposition from 16 persons who gave testimony at the meeting.

One, Mary Friend, presented a petition she said contained the names of 21 people along that street, as well as 39 others around the town who are opposed to the Sturgill proposition.

Of the approximately 34 present, ten testified in favor of the zoning change.

Although the meeting was officially conducted by the planning board, these same men serve as the town's zoning commission. After the hearing the group met in private session as the planning board to discuss the proposal but no decision was made. The group has 30 days to announce a decision to the town council, which will then take action on the recommendation.

The second case involved Wayne Anderson, who is seeking a zoning change for his property at the intersection of Maple and Third Streets. Anderson's proposal drew no opposition. Speaking for the change was Floyd Baker, who addressed a letter to the town's zoning appeals board. Although Anderson is seeking the zoning change he has not announced any definite plans for use of his property.

Zoning and planning members are Guy Frazee, Burton Lytle, Dr. Donald Pepper, Wayne Tabor and Roger Sines.

Oakland Upsets Top-Ranked Everett In Opening Game Of Doubleheader

For the first time since 1978, Oakland defeated top-ranked Everett in the first game of a Pen-Mar League doubleheader on the Southern High School field, 7-6. The Pennsylvanians came back in the nightcap to stop Oakland, 8-5, and retain their first place standing in the nine-team league, while Oakland remained in sixth place with a 10-10 record.

Oakland came close to upsetting Everett in an earlier doubleheader this season, falling 7-6 and 4-0. Sunday's loss was only the fourth in 16 starts for Everett this year.

Oakland used four pitchers in the first game, who scattered 12 Everett hits. Everett drew first blood in the second inning on a Doak Hoenstine solo home run.

Oakland rebounded in the bottom of the third with three runs on five straight singles by Dean Marsico, Lawrence Nesselrodt, Phil Caruso, Tim Mouse and Francis Mouse.

Everett struck again for a single run in the top of the fourth on John Fabian's solo shot over the fence, but Oakland responded in its half of the fourth with three runs on four singles and a walk. The Oakland hits were by Ed Wildesen, Caruso and the Mouse brothers.

Everett's biggest inning was the fifth, when they tied the score at 6-6 on singles by Ray Gerard, Eugene Decker, Fabian and Rick Crawford, and a double by Mike Kline.

A solo homer by Dave Bender in the bottom of the fifth proved to be the winning run for Oakland.

Steve Mohr was credited with the win on the mound, while Gerald absorbed the loss.

Tim Mouse led Oakland with three hits.

In the second contest Everett used the long ball for most of their runs, as Rick Mallow, Kline, Fabian and Hoenstine all homered off one of four Oakland pitchers.

Mallow finished with three hits, including his homer and a double, and Kline also recorded a pair of hits, his home run and a double.

Oakland organized a dramatic rally in the fifth inning, scoring runs to knot the score at 5-5. Dave Bender led off with a single in that frame, followed by walks by Marsico and Wildesen. Randy Cirillo then singled to score Bender. Terry Helbig followed with a two-run single, plating Wildesen and Marsico, and as the ball got past the right fielder, Cirillo also raced to home plate. A double by Nesslerodt sent Helbig home to complete Oakland's scoring.

Everett avoided being upset twice on the afternoon when in the seventh frame, Mallow rapped a two-run homer and Kline doubled, stole third and came home on a wild pitch.

Pat Gerard was the winning pitcher over Steve Mohr.

Oakland will travel to Cumberland this Sunday to do battle with LaVale in a 2 p.m. doubleheader.

Nesselrodt To Coach Baseball For GCC Lakers

Lawrence Nesselrodt was recently named as the new head baseball coach at Garrett Community College. Nesselrodt was an assistant to Phil Caruso, who served five years as the Laker Head Coach before announcing his resignation last month.

Nesselrodt is a former player at Garrett during the 1979-81 years. The former shortstop was nominated for All-Region both years while achieving a career batting average of .332 at Garrett. He then continued his career at Davis & Elkins College, lettering in baseball both years there.

Nesselrodt led the D&E Senators to 45 wins and a WVIAC Championship in 1982 and compiled a .320 career batting average. He currently plays for the Oakland team in the Pen-Mar Baseball League where he was recently selected to the All-Star team for the third time. He also was the runner-up for the MVP during the 1983 season.

Nesselrodt is a 1978 graduate of Petersburg High School. He earned an A.A. degree from Garrett Community College in 1981. He earned a B.S. in marketing & management at Davis & Elkins College in 1983.

Nesselrodt inherits a team that won 13 games last season, including a 1-0 decision over national power Allegany of Cumberland and a 11-7 victory over a four-year school, Fairmont State.

"I hope to continue the tradition that Phil Caruso started at Garrett," Nesselrodt said. "He laid the foundation for a successful program and I'm hoping I can continue to improve the program."

The Lakers return five starters and the two top pitchers from last year's squad. "I'm currently looking for the best student athletes in the area," he stated. "We are close to signing three of the best area players to fill in our voids through graduation." The Lakers will be playing a 50+ game schedule that will include many of the top teams from Region XX.

Nesselrodt is the son of Alta Camp, Petersburg, and Robert Nesselrodt, Keyser.

Regional Bass Tourney Set At Deep Creek Lake

Plans are being finalized for the Bass Anglers Sportsmen Society (B.A.S.S.) Eastern Division Championship Tournament, to be held at Deep Creek Lake August 25-September 1, sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council. Winners of fishing tournaments in 13 states will compete for cash and prizes and a chance to fish in the National Bassmaster Classic to be held in Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

According to a report prepared by Maryland B.A.S.S. Federation, Inc., president Ed Lohr, the competition will bring at least 275 persons to the lake for the week, including 96 participants, their wives and families. The competitors have each been declared winners in their respective states' qualifying tournaments.

The participants will begin their days at 5:30 a.m. with a boat inspection on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the days of competitive fishing. The first wave of 15 boats will leave the docks at 6:30 a.m. and subsequent waves every 15 minutes.

Returning fishermen will bring the day's catch to Crystal Waters Marina in McHenry, where they will be weighed and returned to the lake. The first wave will weigh-in at 3 p.m. each day.

Preliminary announcements of the tournament's winners will be made Friday afternoon at weigh-in. Final awards will be presented that evening at an awards banquet.

For the spouses and families of the competitors, a full week of activities are planned; such as boat rides, luncheons, side tours and shopping trips.

For more information about the fishing on Deep Creek Lake or other Garrett County activities, persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council at (301) 334-3888.

The day is set up as Captain's Choice, with first, second and third place trophies. The player who gets closest to the pin will win a sailboat and any golfer with a hole in one will receive a 1984 car. The golfer with the longest drive will receive a golf bag.

Tournament fee will be $40 for country club members who need a rental cart and $30 for players who own their own carts.

Dependability to Eliminate the Hard Work From Yard Work

A DELICATE BALANCE must be maintained to successfully juggle anything, whether it be a career and marriage or juggling clubs. Greg Carrico, shown above, displays just such a balance at Tuesday's juggling workshop held at the Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library. The workshop was held in conjunction with the library's Summer Reading Club. The program features a special workshop, pertaining to the arts, every Tuesday afternoon through August 21. The workshop is open to all children ages six to 13, free of charge. Pre-school children can attend a story hour, which often includes a short film, every Thursday morning. Richard Mattingly, shown below with Carrico, was one of the approximately 40 children who attended the workshop.

BUSY BIBLE SCHOOL — St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland, has been packed with 150 students and approximately 30 staff members as another ecumenical Bible School has been held this week during the morning hours. The school is a joint effort between St. Paul's, St. Peter's Catholic, St. Matthew's Episcopal and St. Mark's Lutheran churches. Above, locally famous song leader Rev. Manning Smith, of St. Matthew's, leads the singing with help from the accompanist, Lynn Elmlinger. The school, which offers classes for all ages through high school, will wrap up its activities Friday. Coordinator of the effort this year was Pam Ashby, assisted by Patty Blythe.

Adorable Adoptables

YOU THINK YOU'VE GOT PROBLEMS? — How would you like to be a puppy without a home. This mixed male shepherd and female collie could really relate a sad story. However, the story's end is still unwritten and you can make it a happy one. Please call the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 334-3553 and adopt one of these little animals. Last week's puppies were adopted by James M. Gill, Denise Sanders, and Sadie Fike.

Board Approves License For Winds

The Garrett County Liquor Control Board voted unanimously Friday, July 13, to grant a class D license to The Winds Restaurant near McHenry.

Restaurant owners Herb and Barbara Jo McCrobie had requested the license in December but the matter was not decided due to complaints about sewerage problems.

After the health department had notified the liquor board recently that problems were cleared up, another hearing was scheduled and the license has been granted and picked up by the owners.

Bud's License Renewed

Approximately 18 persons attended a hearing June 29 after citizens in the Crellin vicinity opposed renewal of a license for Bud's Package Liquors in Crellin. Five spoke in opposition to license renewal and four spoke in favor.

Two board members voted in favor of granting a license renewal, and the third member abstained.

Transfer Approved

The board also recently approved transfer of a special class D license from Manson Durr to Ross Augustine for High Point Inn.

The next regular meeting of the board will be July 27, but no hearings are scheduled. On August 10 at 10:15 a.m. the board will consider an application to establish a beer carry-out (class A licence) at the property of JoAnn Sharpless, Peach Steet, Deer Park.

Liquor board members are Brenda Butscher, William Naylor and George Meese.

Commissioners Increase Hours Landfill Is Open

The Board of County Commissioners approved extended hours for the Round Glade Landfill on Oakland-Sang Run Road Tuesday. Commissioner Elwood Groves announced the extended hours at a press conference, saying that the change was the result of many requests from citizens to increase the availablity of the landfill.

The new hours, effective immediately, will be from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days a week, from April 1 through September 30. From October 1 through March 31, hours will be 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In other landfill action, the board approved the selection of Harris-Smariga and Associates, Hagerstown, to perform engineering and permit application work for the vertical expansion of the Round Glade landfill.

According to Bob Fousek, county clerk, Harris-Smariga submitted a proposal for the work for the ceiling amount of $36,018, which may be able to be reduced due to the fact that the proposal included the installation of four monitoring wells to check for water contamination. Fousek said that three wells were recently installed at the landfill, which may reduce the number needed for the expansion.

He said that the commissioners will meet with representatives of the firm Thursday to review the proposal and get the firm under contract so the work can begin as soon as possible.

Block Grant

project to design and implement a food-service training program for the Appalachian Center, as well as modifications to make the center fully accessable to the handicapped, and installation of several energy-conservation features.

Dugan told the commissioners that the $16,000 proposal by the Garrett County Firemen's Association to purchase a new air cascade vehicle for use by all county fire departments, was not fundable under the block grant program due to 1983 amendments to the block grant law which make it technically impossible for a county-wide project to meet the mandated 51% "benefit to low and moderate income persons."

The commissioners instructed Dugan to include the first four projects in the grant application, and said that they would have to consider federal revenue sharing monies for the purchase of the fire vehicle.

The grant application will be the subject of a public hearing on July 31.

Seven Injured

William Robert Paugh, 24, and Sharon Lipscomb, 18, both of Kitzmiller, were pulled over on the shoulder of Rt. 219 in a 1982 Dodge Power Ram.

As Paugh attempted to enter the flow of traffic, he pulled into the path of a 1977 Chevrolet Caprice being operated by Sandra E. Lipscomb, 16, Horse Shoe Run, W. Va. The Lipscomb vehicle was too close to stop and ran into the rear of the Paugh vehicle.

Sharon Lipscomb and Sandra Lipscomb were both transported to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. Paugh and a passenger in the Lipscomb vehicle, Tammy Fike, 16, Aurora, W. Va., were uninjured.

Paugh was charged in that mishap.

A one-vehicle accident occurred Friday evening on the Mayhew Inn Road, approximately a half mile west of the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

Vicki Lee McCrobie, 17, Friendsville, was operating a 1982 Mercury Grand Marquis and traveling east on that road. She was negotiating a sharp curve when she met a westbound vehicle in the center of the roadway. McCrobie swerved to the right to avoid a collision and ran off the side of the roadway and into a drainage ditch.

The Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported the driver to Garrett Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Tfc. L.N. Smith made no charges.

A two-vehicle accident occurred Tuesday morning in Mt. Lake Park.

According to reports, a 1983 Chevrolet Monte Carlo being operated by Sheila O'Neill, 36, Mtn. Lake Park, was traveling east on Rt. 135, just west of the intersection with Rt. 560, when an eastbound vehicle being driven by Mason Callis, 78, Mtn. Lake Park, attempted a left turn into a parking lot and into the path of the O'Neill vehicle.

Callis was charged with making an improper left turn. There were no injuries reported.

Bambacus' letter went on to say that "I have consistently and actively supported the needs of the developmentally disabled, in terms of legislation and community-based services.

"Yet the fact remains that proper procedures must be followed, and community acceptance is essential to the success of our programs."

Western Maryland Coalition for the Disabled Chairman Frank Smith, who is also executive director of Community Living, a residential program for the disabled in Frederick, said Tuesday that his agency has never held a public hearing prior to the opening of a residence such as the three-person apartment units in question in Garrett County. "We have opened seven apartment residences and have moved several more to new locations without holding a public hearing. In some localities we received a few calls or visits. When we explained what we were trying to accomplish, and explained who would be living here, that resolved the issue for most people."

Robert DeHaven, executive director of Washington County Association for Retarded Citizens which operates 15 residences for the disabled, said that his agency has not held a public hearing for any of the residences serving fewer than four persons. His agency, which provides housing for about 100 individuals, held public hearings on the establishment of the four group homes it operates, without encountering any opposition from the community.

DeHaven said, "If you construct a group home to serve four through eight residents, state law requires that a public hearing be held. We know of no law requiring public hearings for residences serving fewer than four individuals."

Garrett Crossroads has held public hearings prior to the establishment of its current group home on Broadford Road, and a proposed home in Grantsville that met with considerable local opposition resulting in the town council of Grantsville denying Crossroads a sewer hookup, which effectively blocked the location of a group home there. A public hearing was also held during the planning stages of a group home scheduled for construction by the state on Weber Road. That project met with no public opposition.

Dan Elmlinger, director of Garrett Crossroads, and board member of Garrett-Frederick Residences Inc., the grantee organization for the loan from HUD, said Wednesday that the board of directors for Garrett-Frederick met Tuesday evening to allow new board members a chance to get acquainted and sort out the facts around the apartment issue. He said that the board is examining a variety of options regarding the project, that no action was taken, and no decisions were made at the Tuesday meeting. He said that the board will meet again next week.

College

Harman.

Martin presented a cash flow report as of June 29, showing a balance of $43,469 in savings. According to Martin, that amount includes about $20,000 in designated funds such as grant monies for specific purposes, which cannot be used as operating funds. The college received an advance of about $47,000 from the county's FY 1985 allocation to the college during the month of June.

A budget comparison for June showed a surplus of $8,077 despite the fact the most areas of the budget had spent more money than allocated in the FY '84 budget. Martin pointed out that the FY '84 budget was based on 525 FTEs, rather than the 570 FTEs actually generated by the college last year. As a result of the increased state payments for the additional FTEs, the college was able to accomplish a surplus, according to Martin. He pointed out that the exact surplus figure is not final, pending final year-end adjustments.

The board passed a resolution authorizing the president of the college to borrow an amount not to exceed $100,000 for the purpose of correcting short-term cash flow problems. The resolution included provisions that the term of the loan shall not exceed 30 days, and that it will be secured by receivables from state and county governments, as well as students.

Diane Thayer, board member, said that the resolution was recommended by the college auditor, because the college would save money by borrowing a lump sum for a short period, rather than paying interest on past due accounts. Martin said that having cash on hand would also allow the college to take advantage of cash discounts from large supplies.

Board of Ed.

pointed in the fifth day for aides not being reinstated. This is not our loss, it's a loss to students." Her remarks were seconded by Betty White, president of the Garrett County Teachers' Association.

The board saved about $56,000 by cutting the aides' time.

Tom Shaffer, area representative for the Maryland Teachers' Association, said that he was "aghast at the commissioners' reduction of the allocation to the school board. How can a responsible elected official point with pride to a two-thirds reduction in the school board's funding request? They are being penny wise and pound foolish. The damage done to students working with inadequate textbooks and supplies cannot be repaired at some future date. I believe the majority of citizens want good schools, and that majority must convince the fiscal authorities that they want adequate funding for schools."

All employees except administrators were granted a six percent salary increase, with administrators to receive a five percent raise. The reduced increase to administrators, along with corresponding reductions in fixed charges, resulted in a savings of $11,000.

Other cuts in the administration area included $17,843 saved by delaying the hiring of a secretary for the assistant superintendent of schools for three months, and a secretary in the finance department for six months.

The board cut its allocation to the Regional Educational Services Administration by $7,000. According to Ryscavage, RESA is a regional administrative body that coordinates grant applications and other cooperative efforts of educational bodies in Western Maryland.

Over $108,000 will be saved due to the fact that a number of staff have retired or resigned since the budget was developed. Ryscavage said that since the retiring teachers were at higher salaries than their replacements will be, and the budget was set with the higher salaries included, a substantial savings resulted.

Instructional supplies and materials were cut $40,000, including reductions in allotments for industrial arts supplies, library and media services, math, music, physical education, science, drivers education, guidance, and elementary education supplies.

Reduced contracted services for equipment repairs for equipment such as audio-visual equipment contributed to $5,000 cut. Ryscavage said he hopes some of the repairs will be able to be made by school board personnel.

Another $5,000 was cut from the area of other charges, including travel and expenses of staff.

The area of instructional equipment was reduced by about $74,000, including equipment for industrial arts, math, phys. ed., social studies, and computers in the elementary school and administrative areas.

Ryscavage said he hopes the school board will still be able to purchase some of that equipment through a block grant from the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of the federal government.

The amount of $10,300, which was an allocation of two dollars per student that was to have been transferred to county schools to eliminate the need for fundraising activities such as candy sales, was eliminated.

The operations portion of the budget was cut $23,865. That figure includes the elimination of the proposed 1.3 custodians, and a $13,000 reduction in the fuel oil allocation. Ryscavage said they are hoping for a warm winter, and that fuel oil prices will not go over $1.05 per gallon.

From the maintenance area, $35,936 was cut, including the proposed addition of a maintenance man for the Southern High School athletic complex and other outdoor facilities in the county.

Also eliminated was $1,000 in contracted services in the maintenance area, and $8,000 in supplies and materials.

NHS Project

In other action, the board approved the schematics for the Northern High School construction project. The approved schematics include 10,000 square feet of new construction and 90,493 square feet of renovation work.

The project will include 2,073 more square feet than originally granted by the Inter-Agency Committee on Public School Construction, which approves funding for school construction in the state.

The school board appealed the decision of the committee to cut 3,973 square feet from the project. That appeal resulted in the restoration of a little more than half of the reduced square footage.

In reference to the appeal, Ed Green, principal at Northern, said, "I can't say we got everything we wanted. We did everything we could to get every square foot. The construction work will serve the students better, and we will have a school the students, faculty, and staff will be proud of."

As a result of the cuts in square footage, one area will be shared by the health occupations program and the drafting department.

A second area appealed by the school board to the IACPCS was the denial of funds for the hiring of a construction manager to oversee the project. Ryscavage said that the committee granted "grudging approval," if the school board can get a guarantee of a "not to exceed" limit on the cost of the manager, if the incentive clause is eliminated, and the scope of work of the manager is expanded.

Ryscavage said that he has received a verbal estimate that the services of a construction manager would run about 13% of the total cost of the project. He said that if $4 million is allocated for the project, about $500,000 would go to the construction manager.

Kent Gandee, architect for the project, recommended tabling a decision on the hiring of a construction manager for another month to determine if the 13% figure is a valid one.

Boundary Dispute

Discussion of a boundary dispute between Garrett and Allegany Counties resulted in Assistant Supervisor James Lupis requesting time to fully assess the situation.

The dispute arises from confusion about which of two possible boundary lines are the official divider between the two counties. Some persons living in the area between the two lines apparently pay taxes in one county and some in the other.

Similarly, students in that area attend school in one county or the other, but not necessarily in the county to which their parents pay taxes.

The two counties pay transfer fees to each other when students attend school in the other county, resulting in the question of whether each school system is being reimbursed at the proper level.

GCTA Contract

The board approved the 1984-85 amendments to the 1982-83 contract with the Garrett County Teachers' Association, including extra-duty compensation for some coaches and other staff, the addition of nursery charges to dependent coverage, increases in incrementals at the two highest teacher steps, and a 6% salary increase.

Lake Issues

against the sanitary commission "because of conflict of interest."

Leonard Eiswert, attorney for the POA, responded by saying that this was the first he has heard of the case, and that he represents the POA and its directors on issues that affect the lake in general. He stated that his law firm may have participated in real estate transfers involving Beitzel, but he personally has not.

POA Board Member Bob Blasingame told Breed that "it becomes obvious that there is no way that the POA can have a lawyer represent each individual, as an individual, in courts of law."

Members were urged by the board to avoid personal complaints when a number of members left the room during one member's remarks.

Other members questioned Beitzel about sewer usage fees, procedure for hook-up into the system, road repairs, inspection efforts and other matters.

In reply to questions about the sanitary commission's intent to return roads to their original condition prior to the sewer project, Beitzel said that when the sanitary commission is notified that a contractor has completed work, their area will be inspected and the contractor will have to correct any items that were not satisfactorily completed. He added that the sanitary commission has videotapes documenting road conditions prior to construction to aid in those determinations.

"We are attempting to restore road structure to pre-cut condition. Some roads are in terrible shape, and we are trying to find a solution," Beitzel said. "Some roads have been patched, and are as sound as they were, if they are not as smooth," he added.

Beitzel expressed appreciation for the cooperation of most members of the organization throughout the sewer consturction period. He reported that the basic system was nearing completion, with all pipeline installed except for a few short areas, with the sewage treatment plant ready for operation by October. He told the group that bids on the extended system will be awarded in the near future.

County Planner Anna McNallie updated the group on progress in the updating of the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Plan, stating that the base studies have been completed, and that the Planning Commission is ready to proceed with developing the revised plan.

She explained a change proposed by a group of residents of the Curt's corner area, which would allow them to place mobile homes on their property, if desired. The change, recommended by McNallie at last week's Planning Commission meeting, would create a new, "rural residential" zoning category for outlying areas of the watershed that are not in close proximity to the lake, that are primarily occupied by local residents, and that are largely rural in nature.

She emphasized that the change would not affect lot size or density requirements.

She told the meeting that the proposed development of a hotel-conference center by Penn Point Associates, which would require a change in zoning guidelines, has not yet been studied by the Planning Commission, and no recommendations have been made regarding it. She said that the issue will be considered at the Planning Commission's August 1 meeting.

McNallie urged the POA members to contact the planning office as soon as possible regarding any proposed changes or other input they wish to have in the planning process.

Sgt. Robert Buckley, who heads the lake enforcement efforts for DNR, said that the support of the association had helped the local department obtain the funding to increase patrols, obtain a new patrol boat, and make other badly needed improvements.

He answered a number of questions members had about specifics of boating regulations, including the criteria for arrest for operating a boat while intoxicated, which he said were the same as for automobiles.

Board member Ed Starr presented a status report from Mike Gregory, lake manager for DNR, who was unable to attend the meeting.

Gregory's report said that the Deep Creek Lake Advisory and Review Committee has submitted a draft of its proposed regulations to the DNR legal department for review. The proposed regulations will be published in their entirety in the "Maryland Register" in August, to be followed by a public hearing late in the month.

Gregory said Monday that if the regulations cannot be published in the "Maryland Register" during the month of August as planned, a public information meeting rather than an official public hearing will be held to allow lake residents a chance for input before the summer season ends. He explained that the proposed regulations must be published before the public hearing is held, and said that copies of the proposed regulations will be available in his office for examination prior to the hearing.

A fire and rescue vehicle has been obtained for the lake, according to the Gregory report, although there have been no calls for it since it arrived.

According to Gregory, Penelec, which owns the lake, has agreed to support shore stabilization efforts to reduce erosion along the lake. DNR is planning seminars for next year to provide lake residents with information on what can be done along the shore to prevent erosion.

ARC Approves State Plans For FY '85 Funding

The Appalachian Regional Commission, meeting Tuesday in conjunction with a conference of the Southern Governors Association in Williamsburg, Virginia, approved plans submitted by the 13 Appalachian states for their FY 1984 ARC programs.

Also approved were program allocations of FY1985 funds, based on the $151.3 million provided to ARC in the Energy and Water Development Appropriations bill recently passed by both houses of Congress. ARC Federal Co-Chairman Winifred A. Pizzano, States' Co-Chairman Harry Hughes, governor of Maryland, and eight other Appalachian governors participated in the meeting.

The Commission also approved recommendations for ARC actions that would implement the findings of the Commission-sponsored region-wide conference, "Appalachia Working: the Competitive Edge for Today and Tomorrow," which was held in Pennsylvania in April.

In addition, Commission members initiated plans to celebrate ARC's 20th anniversary during 1985.

The FY1984 program plans were accompanied by specific projects undertaken by the states to continue the orderly completion of the Commission's programs as mandated by Congress in 1982. During FY1984, the states will spend $109 million to close remaining critical gaps in Appalachian Development Highway System and $44 million to help create more jobs in the Region, to complete the regional health care network and to provide the Region's "distressed" counties with such basic facilities as clean drinking water.

Under the plans approved today, 13 additional counties are added to the list of distressed counties and six will be removed from the current list on October 1, 1984, for a total of 74 counties qualifying for the special funds in FY1985. In addition, the FY1984 investment program provides an estimated $2.2 million to complete 23 health care projects started last year and initiate 36 new projects for $3.3 million in ARC funds.

The FY1984 program identifies 19 additional counties as qualified to receive health care funds on the basis of high infant mortality rates and five additional counties qualifying for assistance in provision of primary health care. Twenty high infant mortality counties previously receiving special ARC health care funds will be removed from the list October 1, 1984, because of declines in their infant mortality rates.

For FY1985, Congress has provided $100 million for the highway program, including $88.5 million for Appalachian development highways and $6 million for access roads. Of the $49 million provided for non-highway programs, $28.2 million is allocated for the creation and retention of new jobs in the Region, $7.8 million will aid disttressed counties and $4.2 million will help extend health care and combat high infant mortality.

In response to findings from the Pennsylvania conference, the Commission unanimously passed a resolution strengthening ARC's ability to aid emerging and expanding enterprises, help promote the growth of jobs in the service sector of the economy and provide assistance to training programs that are keyed to new and emerging technologies.

The Pennsylvania conference provided an opportunity for 280 conferees from throughout the Region to share experiences from numerous efforts now under way to increase employment opportunities in Appalachia and to increase the employability of the residents of the Region in the rapidly changing job market.

Besides Governor Hughes, other Appalachian governors attending the Commission meeting were: Joe Frank Harris of Georgia, Martha Layne Collins of Kentucky, Bill Allain of Mississippi, Jim Hunt of North Carolina, Richard Riley of South Carolina, Lamar Alexander of Tennessee, Charles Robb of Virginia and Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia.

Stoltzfus Named To MHA Council On Quality Care

Dr. George B. Stoltzfus, Friendsville, a member of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital medical staff, was recently appointed to the Maryland Hospital Association Council for Quality Health Care, according to an article in Perspective, a publication of the MHA. The Council is comprised of distinguished Maryland physicians, hospital trustees, medical educators, hospital chief executive officers and others.

The Council will draw upon the expertise of nationally recognized consultants in quality assurance, medical care assessment and patient care evaluation systems. One of the first tasks to be considered by the Council will be the need for a valid set of assessment tools to measure levels of quality across hospitals. Through the use of "quality indicators" hospital trustees, management and medical staff members will be able to better assess their institution's performance, according to the article.

Dr. Stoltzfus, in his dual capacity as physician and medical staff representative to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors, will serve on the policy council and in turn keep the local Board members informed about the developing issues of quality assurance.

Stoltzfus, who specializes in family practice, has been an admitting physician with the hospital since 1977.

Upperman Named New Postmaster Of Bloomington

Katherine L. Upperman has been appointed postmaster of Bloomington, it was announced this week by William F. Bolger, Postmaster General of the United States Postal Service.

Upperman was one of eight postmasters appointed simultaneously in the states of Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

These appointments add to the increasing number of postmasters named by the United States Postal Service under the non-political merit system established by the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970.

Recommendations for appointments are made by Sectional Center/Managers to the Postmaster General through appropriate management channels.

As postmaster, Upperman will serve over 400 people.

Upperman began her postal career in 1966 as a relief clerk at the Bloomington facility. For the past 18 years, she has served in this capacity until earlier this year when she was appointed officer-in-charge.

The Bloomington native is associated with the Daughters of America and is a past member of the Fire Department Auxiliary.

Postmaster Upperman and her husband have five children, including a foster child, 12 grandchildren and three great-granddaughters.

BELLS

Have you ever thought about the importance of bells in your life? From kindergarten on, most of our movements are dictated by a series of bells—the chime of the clock, the peal of the school bell, the sharp ring of the telephone. We are conditioned to respond to these bells almost without thinking.

The most beautiful bells in our life are those that we hear on the Sabbath. We also hear them without thinking, but they are bringing the most important message of all—that God loves you. This week respond to them with your own love and join the other worshippers at your church or synagogue.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

FIGHTING BAAL TODAY

July 22, 1984

Background Scripture:
2 Kings 9 through 10; Hosea 1:4,5.

Devotional Reading:
Psalms 37:1-9.

In the eyes of just about everyone, King Jehu was a hero. Annointed of the Lord at the command of Elisha the prophet, he utterly wiped out the evil house of Ahab. He was also responsible for the murder of the hated Queen Jezebel. Furthermore, in one single stroke, he virtually annihilated all the worshippers and priests of Baal in the land of Israel and demolished the temple of Baal.

YOU HAVE DONE WELL

As far as the writer of 2 Kings is concerned, God approved the acts of Jehu as his own will: "Because you have done well in carrying out what is right in my eyes, and have done to the house of Ahab according to all that was in my heart, your sons of the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel. (This was promised even though the writer of 2 Kings had already observed: "But Jehu did not turn aside from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin..." (10:28-30).

Baal was a terrible threat to the spiritual welfare of Israel. Much more attractive with its ritual pleasures than the austere Hebrew religion, it was extremely popular in the land. The prophets Elijah and Elisha both had devoted themselves to rooting out its insidious influence. Surely the genocide Jehu inflicted upon the house of Ahab and the followers of Baal was justified by the need to stamp out this wretched religion!

We get a different view, however, fromthe Prophet Hosea. Upon the birth of his first son, Hosea is told by God: "Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little while, and I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel, and I will put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel" (Hosea 1:4).

CALL HIM "JEZREEL"

Thus, there are two contradictory Old Testament views of the way in which Jehu went about destroying the evil influence of Baal. The writer of 2 Kings believed that God approved of the genocide and even encouraged it. The Prophet Hosea, on the other hand, believed that God condemned it as a terrible sin.

If we find it difficult to choose between Hosea and the writer of 2 Kings as accurately representing the will of God, we need only view this controversy in the light of the New Testament. Jehu's bloody slaughter cannot stand the light that Christ sheds on the true nature of God. The bloodthirsty divinity found in the Old Testament can only be a reflection of the evil in human hearts. Hosea's view of God is much closer to that of Jesus.

There are contemporary Baals that must be recognized and confronted today, the most obvious of these being Communism. Let us make certain we do not try to fight these Baals in the same way that Jehu did. As Hosea reminds us, that is not God's way.

Library Corner

Music will be the subject of the fifth summer reading club workshop of the performing arts at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. The workshop, designed for children ages six to 13, will be held Tuesday, July 24, at 2 p.m.

David Zimmerman, a local music teacher, will bring his autoharp, dulcimer, and banjo to demonstrate, entertain, and to involve the children in the enjoyment and performance of music. Children are invited to bring their tambourines, kazoos, and homemade instruments to play along.

Zimmerman has been teaching music in the public schools for ten years. He has a varied musical background, including 20 years of experience on the trumpet. All interested children are invited to attend this free program.

The library has other summer activities for children in addition to weekly reading club programs and the Garfinkel Reading Club game.

A pre-school story hour is held each Thursday morning for children ages three to five, beginning at 10 a.m. Several stories are presented by Sheila Hughes, the children's librarian, and a short film or two is shown. Simple craft activities are sometimes included.

On Saturdays at the Oakland Library, free movies are shown in the film room at 1:30. This program features an hour of a variety of films, such as cartoons, comedies and nature programs.

The library staff also reminds children of its "Dial-a-Story" phone number, 334-3250, which they can call at any time, day or night, to hear a story read to them. A new story is featured each week.

Thayer Remands Man To Jail For Contempt

An Oakland man was remanded Monday to the Garrett County jail after being found guilty of contempt of court.

Frederick Tasker, Star Route 2, had been ordered by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Frederick A. Thayer on July 9 to refrain from "harassing, molesting, threatening and otherwise interfering" with his estranged wife, Bonnie, pending their divorce trial.

However, in a motion for contempt filed on Monday by Attorney Anne B. Wilson, Tasker is charged with continuing to repeatedly harass Mrs. Tasker.

Judge Thayer sentenced Tasker to six days in the county jail enabling him to be released this Sunday.

Board Reviews Local Sewer And Water Projects

A tentative agreement to purchase a site for the Bloomington sewer system, evaluation of engineering proposals for the Bausch and Lomb interceptor line and a request to aid extension of water lines from Shady Acres to the new industrial site along Route 135 were all part of the agenda July 10 at the Sanitary Commission meeting.

Bloomington

Tentative agreement has been reached with the owner of the property chosen for the site for the Bloomington sewer treatment plant, but the owner's name was not released for publication pending finalization of documents. Sanitary district administrator Wendell Beitzel was reluctant to divulge the name other than to commission members because of opposition by some residents to the project.

Upper Yough

The commission has received five engineering proposals to design an interceptor line from Bausch and Lomb to the Mt. Lake Park interceptor line and to provide aeration at the Trout Run treatment plant.

The board will evaluate the proposals and discuss the matter further at the July 24 meeting.

New Industrial Site

Tom Jones, chairman of the Garrett County Development Corporation, presented a letter from the county commissioners asking that the Sanitary Commission act on behalf of the commissioners to construct a water line from Shady Acres to the new industrial site south of Route 135.

The sanitary commission agreed to take the necessary action to affect the installation. Funds will be provided through a Housing and Urban Development block grant obtained to upgrade the site.

Once the line is constructed, it will be offered to Oakland to be incorporated into its system.

Bloomington Water

The Sanitary Commission, which had been asked by the Bloomington Improvement Association to assist in obtaining funds for completion of the town's water system, has received notification from the state health department that a $60,00 grant will be available.

A letter of commitment has been received by the commission from the state, subject to approval of the grant by the State Board of Public Works. The commission also plans to continue to pursue Farmers Home Administration assistance for the project costs.

Needed is an intake system from the Savage River. Currently the town obtains water from Westernport, at a cost of $1 per thousand gallons.

Mt. Lake Water

One Mt. Lake resident, Deepak Bhatnager, had asked the commission to review his request for a water rate adjustment. After review of the particular circumstances, the commission granted an adjustment.

BITTINGER-GLADES

Church News

Harry Fox led the worship services in all three churches of the Bittinger parish in the absence of Pastor David Rockwood who is on vacation. In a pastoral emergency, Pastor Richard Seaks, Cumberland, and Pastor William Carlson will be available.

The members of the Glade Mennonite Church will have a picnic supper this Sunday at the Pleasant Valley Picnic area at 6 p.m. and will hold a vesper service at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Revival services are being held this week at the Bethesda Church of the Brethren. They will continue through Sunday evening. Fenton Platter, retired minister from Finkcastle, Va., is the speaker for the week's services.

Emmanuel LCW Meets

The LCW of Emmanuel met at the church on Friday evening for their regular monthly meeting with 10 members present. Margie Brenneman had the opening devotions, reading the Gospel story of Mary and Martha.

Mrs. Beulah Moon had the topic "Displaced Homemakers." They are described as women who have been homemakers, and because of the death, divorce, desertion, or other reasons, find it necessary to have fulltime employment. Going back to the Old Testament, Martha Glotfelty related the story of Ruth, and how she became a gleaner in the fields of Boaz. She, too, was a displaced homemaker, due to the death of her husband. Mrs. Moon had a discussion on the problem of today's homemakers, and explained the help available in this county under the Homemaker Career Opportunities Program.

Margaret Hershberger read two thank-you letters, one from the Salem's Children's Home, and one from the Gettysburg Seminary Auxiliary. It was announced that Jennie Hady and Sue Rockwood had made a banner to take to the Unit Convention at Thiel College. Those planning to attend the Convention are Ferne Beachy, Margie Brenneman, Betty Buckel and Beulah Moon. The next meeting will be September 14, when the LCWs of St. John's and Zion are to be guests of Emmanuel's group.

Zion LCW Meets

The Lutheran Church Women of Zion held their monthly meeting in the church on July 10, with four members and two visitors, Mrs. William Bender and Mrs. Lee Broadwater, present. The meeting opened as the group stood in silent prayer, and each member presented a memorial offering as a tribute to Mrs. Audra Faidley, whose death occurred on July 1. Mrs. Faidley was a charter member and past president of Zion's Lutheran Church Women.

Leota Baker had the topic "Racism's Bitter Fruit in Namibia." The chief endeavors of the program were to understand the situation there and to explore what assistance the church inside and outside the territory is trying to provide. Through the use of various fruit shapes, the bitter fruits of racism and the cause of that bitterness was described. A "Discovery Center" illustrated ways that people can learn more about the country. The lesson concluded with Psalm 23 as paraphrased by Dr. Zephaniah Kameeta.

The business meeting was conducted by Nellie Yommer, president. Special offerings were received from Mrs. Alice Resh and family Mrs. Nora Stahl and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Resh in memory of Howard Resh and were forwarded to Lutheran Church Women for Specific Ministries. Memorial offerings from Mrs. Kermit Bittinger and Mrs. Alice Resh were also received as a tribute to the memory of Audra Faidley. These and the LCW gift were designated for missionary support through LCW.

The churches 75th anniversary to be held in the fall was discussed, and all subscriptions to the devotional guide "Light for Today" are due in August. The next meeting is scheduled for August 7, with Nellie Yommer leading the topic, "Women and Unemployment."

The meeting closed with the missionary benediction with Mrs. Bender and Mrs. Broadwater leading the group in singing "I Love to Tell the Story."

Bambacus To Aid Frostburg Hospital Fund Campaign

Senator John N. Bambacus has accepted an appointment to serve as general chairman of the Community Phase of the Frostburg Community Hospital Building Campaign, according to Dr. James V. Cotton, chairman of the Board for the hospital.

Senator Bambacus, elected to the Maryland General Assembly as a State Senator from District 1 in November, 1982, said, "The plans set forth by the Hospital Board of Directors will provide modern accommodations for medical and surgical patients. FCH has long had the reputation for a caring staff, but it has lacked the modern conveniences all of us take for granted today. These are not expansion plans. They are modernization plans, and FCH will remain a licensed 50-bed facility." Senator Bambacus has been a member of the Hospital Board of Directors since January, 1981.

Dr. Cotton pointed out, "Staff members and other citizens of the community are already providing generous and enthusiastic financial support for the project. To date, gifts and pledges totaling more than $140,000 have been recieved at the campaign office toward a goal of $250,000."

Maryland Office On Aging Plans Local Meeting

Senator Rosalie Abrams, director of Maryland's Office on Aging, announced Monday that her office will sponsor a public hearing to present Maryland's Fiscal year 1985 Plan for Aging Services. The hearing will be held in Oakland on August 8, from 10 a.m. to noon, at the Oakland Senior Center, 104 E. Center Street.

This is one of a series of hearings being held across the state to allow the public to review, comment and make recommendations regarding services to the elderly for the upcoming year. A proposal has also been made to designate the Garrett County Community Action Committee as the Area Agency on Aging, effective October 1, 1984.

"While the elderly population continues to increase, Federal funding for aging services has remained static,"said Senator Abrams. "The proposal to shift responsibility for aging services in Garrett County to the Community Action Committee is an attempt to keep administrative costs to a minimum, thus allowing the maximum use of funds for services which directly benefit seniors". Other topics to be discussed include: housing, health care, and nutrition services. The public is urged by Abrams to attend the hearing.

Doctors Who Accept Medicare Are Listed

The Maryland office on Aging announced Tuesday that an updated list of Maryland physicians who accept Medicare established fees (known as assignment rates) is now available to the public. This list of physicians who treat Medicare enrollees and who submitted 100 or more claims in 1983 is being made available to local social security offices and to Gateway Offices in Baltimore City and in each of the counties in Maryland. The listings, which show the rate by which each physician accepted assignment, are also available at the Consumer Protection Division Offices of the Attorney General.

Senator Rosalie Abrams, director of the Office on Aging, says that there are two methods by which Medicare helps pay doctor bills. If the physician is willing to accept the fee that Medicare decides is a "reasonable charge" Medicare pays 80% of the full fee. This is called assignment of Medicare benefits to the physician.

Should the physician not accept the Medicare fee (or assignment), Medicare will pay directly 80% of the reasonable charge and the enrollee has to pay the balance of the physician's total bill, whatever it may be. In terms of actual costs to the Medicare patient, it is generally less expensive to select a physician who accepts Medicare assignment.

Therefore, the assignment rate list can be particularly helpful to Medicare enrollees in selecting physicians who accept assignments under Medicare.

Senator Abrams suggests that anyone who wants to know whether or not their physician accepts Medicare assignment should contact their local Gateway Office, or the Consumer Protection Division Offices of the Attorney General. The Senator cautions, however, that Medicare assignment currently is handled on a case by case basis, and there is no guarantee that a physician will always accept the assignment.

While copies of the listings are not available to the general public, the lists can be inspected at local Gateway Offices and the Consumer Protection Division Offices in Baltimore, College Park, Hagerstown, and Salisbury.

Persons may contact the Garrett County Commission on Aging for more information.

New Teacher Education Grant Program Offered

A new teacher education grant program is now being offered by the Maryland State Scholarship Board to help alleviate the state's shortage of math and science high school teachers, according to a release from the Maryland State Scholarship Board.

Undergradute students in math or science (who have completed at least 60 hours), persons with B.S. degrees in these fields, and current teachers who wish to be certified in these areas are all encouraged to apply by the end of July. An application and transcript are required.

Awards can range as high as $4800, but can be used at Maryland colleges only. Financial need is not a requirement; a cumulative grade average of 3.0 must be maintained. Recipients must be Maryland residents and agree to teach in a Maryland public school 1½ years for each year of aid.

Undergraduates should get their applications from the financial aid office of their college, the Board stated. Current teachers may contact the office of their local school superintendent. Others may call the State Scholarship Board at (301) 659-6420.

Dailey Presents State Overview At Historical Dinner

An overview of Maryland history and comparison with national trends, highlighted by a slide program, were presented June 28 by Dr. George Dailey for the annual Historical Society dinner meeting at the Deer Park fire hall. About 100 were present.

Dr. Raymond O. McCullough, president, presided. Officers elected include Mrs. Dorothy Cathell, secretary-treasurer; Miss Edith Brock, assistant secretary; Mrs. Helen Friend, corresponding secretary, and Rev. John A. Grant, editor of "The Glades Star".

Managing editor of the publication is Commissioner Elwood L. Groves. Mrs. Ruth Calderwood is acting curator of the museum. Elected to the board of directors are Walter W. Price, Rev. Grant, Mrs. Jean Swauger, and Dr. Bruce Jenkins.

Dailey is a history professor with Garrett Community College. During his talk, he said that although a small state, Maryland is remarkably diverse in culture, climate and geography, and its history reflects the major trends in American development.

Pointing out that Maryland was the first colony to allow a liberal measure of religious toleration, Dailey said that its founding was not to provide a refuge from discrimination but, like the other colonies, as an economic venture. "Maryland's history is also a reflection of the westward expansion of America, as the National Road and C&O Canal allowed early 19th century settlers to penetrate the Ohio Valley."

He concluded by saying "Throughout the rest of the 19th and into the 20th century, Maryland's transformation mirrored the most salient features of Industrial America, and yet at the same time Maryland retained much of the rural flavor that marked its colonial roots as a fulcrum between North and South."

Visual images through the slide series included drawings of St. Mary's City, C&D and C&O Canals, the National Road, Fort McHenry and Francis Scott Key, various sites on the B&O, views of Garrett and Allegany counties in the 19th and 20th centuries, the Chesapeake Bay, concluding with a recent photograph of a sunset on Deep Creek Lake.

The Garrett Highlanders entertained.

Energy Tips

by Patricia Driscoll Easterday
Extension Agent for Community Resource Development for Allegany and Garrett Counties

HOME WEATHERIZATION

The warm weather we have been experiencing does not motivate very many people to think about winterizing their home against next year's fuel bills, but actually this is one of the best times to initiate some weatherization projects. Caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows and insulation installation are all a lot easier when you don't have to fight snow, ice and cold winds.

One program that helps homeowners figure out what their energy needs are is Allegany County Energy Council's Home Monitoring program. The Home Monitoring program is designed to help the homeowner save energy and money.

Home Monitoring program participants receive a free energy audit and water heater cover from Potomac Edison. The energy audit will show the resident where energy losses are occurring in the home and what they can do about the energy losses. If participants decide to do some weatherizing, local building supply stores will provide discounts on building materials that are suggested in the energy audit. Participants will also be able to obtain "do-it-yourself" information from the Cooperative Extension Service.

Building supply stores offering the discount for participants are: Buchanan's, Valley Lumber, Lowe's, Bond Home Center and Beachy Lumber at Oakland and Eastern Building Supply at Mt. Lake Park. In addition, Potomac Edison, Columbia Gas and the Cooperative Extension Service are working with the Energy Council to administer the program.

Last year's home monitoring program helped participants identify areas in their homes where energy was being lost. If they weatherized their homes according to the recommendations, they could lower their fuel bills substantially; and several participants did just that by installing storm windows, insulation, caulking and weatherstripping.

When a homeowner participates in the program, they agree to let the Energy Council record their energy consumption for two years. The information is used to show other homeowners how following recommendations from an energy audit can save them money on their fuel bills. All participants' names, addresses and phone numbers are kept confidential.

Both Allegany and Garrett County homeowners can take part in the Home Monitoring program. For more information, contact the Cooperative Extension Service, 11 Prospect Square, Cumberland, Md. 21502, telephone: 301-724-3320; or Cooperative Extension Service, 202 South Third Street, Oakland, Md. 21550, telephone: 301-334-2145; or in Grantsville on Mondays and Fridays at telephone: 301-895-3124.

Woman's Health

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE IN PREGNANCY

By Luella Klein, M.D.,
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

No one really knows why some women get high blood pressure in pregnancy and others do not. Most of the women who get it have never had high blood pressure (preeclampsia) before, and most will never have it again. But when it happens in pregnancy, it's a condition that has to be treated with care.

It affects 7 out of every 100 women who become pregnant and will affect most of these women during their first pregnancy. Women with the highest risk are those who have their first pregnancy after age 30 or as teenagers. Overweight and diabetic women, those with kidney disease, and daughters of women who had high blood pressure all have higher than normal risks.

If you have chronic high blood pressure before you become pregnant, make sure your doctor knows, because the condition can get worse during pregnancy. It's important for a woman to check with her doctor before she becomes pregnant or as early as possible in pregnancy to let the doctor get a reading against which to compare blood pressure during pregnancy.

With high blood pressure, less of the mother's blood flows to the placenta. This means that less food and oxygen reach the placenta, and the growth of the fetus slows down. If this happens, the fetus may be underweight and may have to be delivered prematurely.

If preeclampsia occurs late in pregnancy, and the baby is delivered near the 36th week, there will be fewer problems because by that time the baby is almost fully developed.

If preeclampsia is detected in mild stages and the mother's blood pressure is controlled by bed rest, the baby shouldn't be affected by the high blood pressure.

There are a few warning signs that can help alert you to problems. If you suddenly gain more than two pounds a week or if your face or fingers start swelling, make sure your doctor knows. And if you have headaches, blurred vision or other visual problems, or pains in the upper abdomen, check with your doctor quickly.

Bed rest is the standard treatment for small increases in blood pressure while the only treatment for severe preeclampsia is to deliver the fetus either through induction of labor or by cesarean section.

Once the baby is delivered, your blood pressure usually returns to normal. If you suffer from this condition during one pregnancy, it doesn't mean that it will happen again during later pregnancies.

If you are well nourished, follow your doctor's advice about bed rest, and your blood pressure doesn't go too high, preeclampsia should not cause problems for you or your baby.

Single, free copies of "High Blood Pressure During Pregnancy" (p-034) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20024.

Swim for Fitness and Fun

Plunge into cardiovascular and overall physical fitness through swimming, one of the most popular sports activities. If you swim at the proper intensity for at least 20 to 30 minutes three times a week, it will help your heart!

In addition to the cardiovascular benefits, swimming can:

- Help you control your weight.
- Increase your resistance to fatigue.
- Improve your self-image.
- Help you relax and sleep better.
- Tone your muscles.

You may need to see a doctor before you begin your swimming program if you are not accustomed to regular exercise and are a male over 45 years old or a female over 50. When you start swimming, remember not to strain yourself or you may be tempted to quit. Listen to your body. If it takes longer than 10 to 15 minutes for your pulse to slow down after swimming, or if you have difficulty breathing, feel faint or have prolonged weakness, reduce your pace or stop.

Each swimming session should begin with a five to 10 minute warm up and end with a five to 10 minute cool down. Begin your warm up by reaching for the ceiling with both hands and then alternating hands. Do head circles and waist twists. Swim two laps slowly to gradually increase your circulation and body temperature. During your cool down at the end of your session, swim at least a couple laps slowly to reduce your heart rate and to prevent soreness and cramps.

The longest part of your swim should be at least 20 to 30 minutes of exercising at a level called the target heart rate zone. Your target zone depends on your age and your maximum heart rate. Usually you can determine your maximum heart rate by subtracting your age from 220. Your target zone is 60 to 75 percent of your maximum heart rate, depending on how far you have advanced in your exercise program. Immediately after you stop swimming, take your pulse at your neck (see illustration) for 10 seconds and multiply by six to get the number of beats per minute. A 35-year-old, for example, would probably have a maximum heart rate of 185 beats per minute and a target zone of 111 to 138.

Start your swimming program today. You will discover that swimming is a pleasurable way to maintain lifelong fitness.

INTERIM FINANCING

One bugaboo in real estate transactions can easily crop up when there is more than one sale involved and the sale of the first property will be needed to provide the proceeds for the purchase of the second property.

For example, say you have signed an agreement for the sale of your present home. The closing date is set for three months from now. You want to buy another house, but the owner wants to close in just one month from now because he is moving out of state. You will need the money from the sale of your old house to finalize the purchase of your new one - BUT - there will be a two month gap before you get the cash you will need. Is there any way out of this dilema?

There is. An experienced Realtor can often help you arrange interim financing, known as a bridge loan, to get the funds for the purchase. The money is advanced by the lending instituion on a short term basis. Your present home equity would be used as security for the loan.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices.

FmHA Housing Funds Released Under New Law

A bill signed by President Reagan July 2 enhances the use of funds for the single-family housing program operated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration, G. Wallace Caulk, FmHA state director, said this week. No additional funds are involved.

The new law clears up the division of loan funds that must be allotted to "very" low-income applicants and to those in the next higher bracket, low-income, Caulk stated.

"The earlier congressional requirement that FmHA housing loans must be made so that 40 percent were constantly going to very-low income people has been replaced so that now up to 40 percent of the funds available will be used for very-low-income families," Caulk said. "This means that loan applications from both low and very-low income rural applicants can be processed at the same time without regard to some arbitrary relationship between the two groups."

The new law divides available loan funds into two amounts, up to 40 percent for the very-low income and the remainder for low-income borrowers.

"That will revive our program substantially," Caulk said. "We will now be able to process applications for both very-low and low-income people."

Very low-income is defined as not more than 50 percent of an area's median income. The low-income ceiling is 80 percent of the same income base.

ENERGY TIP: Cold air should circulate evenly in the refrigerator and its compartments, so don't overload shelves and bins. Leave breathing space around foods.

FOOD PRESERVATION TIDBITS

Food preservation is an art which has been around for many years. But, many changes have been made over the years to make the foods that we preserve safer to consume. Home canners should remember that the method that Grandma used in canning is not necessarily the safest way today.

In the next four weeks I will share some of the most recent food preservation findings with you. The findings are based on research done by USDA and the University of Maryland. I hope you will find the information helpful.

*Both the old-fashioned zinc lids and wire-type canning jars require a rubber ring as part of their closure. Ball Corporation is no longer producing zinc caps. The two piece lid is recommended for sealing home canning jars and gives more reliable results. However, Ball is aware that zinc lids are still being used, so the rubber rings are still being sold. Since all stores will not be selling them they can be ordered from: Ball Corporation, Direct Marketing Products, 1509 South Macedonia, Muncie, Ind. 47302.

Send a check or money order for the rings. (Regular Jar Rubbers - 70¢/Dozen; Wide Mouth Jar Rubber $1.00/Dozen)

*To prevent mold growth, all jellied products must be processed for 5 minutes in a boiling water bath. Parrafin should not be used. Since jellied products are processed for under 15 minutes, the jars need to be sterilized for 15 minutes and then kept hot until being filled. Work quickly, pouring hot jelly into the hot jars. If a jellied product recipe gives a processing time of longer than 5 minutes, it is adding extra insurance of a good seal, but is not necessary for safety.

*It is best to check jars of food within 24 hours of canning. If any jars did not seal, treat the food as fresh. It can be eaten immediately, refrigerated, frozen or recanned. If you recan the food, the whole process, including preparation techniques, must be repeated.

To obtain up-to-date food preservation bulletins, contact the Extension Office at 334-2145 or 895-3124 (Mondays and Fridays), or stop by the Extension Office in the Courthouse in Oakland, or in the Health Center in Grantsville. All bulletins and materials are free of charge.

Stolen Vehicles Head Reports At Sheriff's Office

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department investigated two reports of stolen vehicles this week.

A report was made Sunday night when an Oakland woman reported that her grandson had taken her car without her permission.

Iva N. Miller, Smouse Road, reported to authorities that Arnold W. Miller, Jr., had broken into her home and then taken her car.

Miller was apprehended later in Mtn. Lake Park, on 135, by Deputy Charles Nolan. He was charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and driving without a license.

He was incarcerated in the county jail and was released Tuesday on 10% of $1,000 bond.

Another report of a stolen vehicle was made Friday by a Mtn. Lake Park woman.

Patricia Clegg reported that someone has taken her 1976 Dodge while it was parked at the Fitzwater Trailer Court in Mtn. Lake Park.

The car reportedly has a white top and brown bottom and is displaying Florida tags.

Deputy Don Tucker is continuing the investigation.

A report of property destruction was made by a Kitzmiller woman concerning damages done to her car.

Ramona K. Schmidt, Homestead Street, reported that during the night of July 7, someone broke out a window of her vehicle as it was parked along the street.

Approximately $1,500 in damages was noted. Deputy Charles Nolan is handling the investigation.

Sheriff Finch Releases July Activity Report

Garrett County Sheriff Frank Finch recently released the activity report for the month of July, 1984.

Records indicated that 311 complaints were answered throughout the county by department personnel relating to thefts, breaking and enterings, destruction of properties, assaults and miscellaneous matters.

Papers served relating to civil, criminal, law, equity, juvenile and other matters were totaled at 263.

Deputies made 11 arrests on various charges including assault, assault with a deadly weapon, breaking and entering, destruction of property, driving while intoxicated, etc.

The jail inmate population was 28 at the beginning of the month, 42 were added and 40 were released leaving the inmate population at 30 at the end of July.

Monthly activity added over 20,000 miles to departmental vehicles while answering complaints, serving papers, transporting prisoners, making routine patrol checks, etc.

Under the Traffic Safety Program now in effect, 82 traffic citations were issued by officers of the department. All hours worked under this program are extra-duty hours and are paid for by a Federal Grant received by the sheriff's department for traffic safety.

Oakland Police Report Damages To Parked Auto

The Oakland Police Department is investigating a destruction of property that occurred on Sunday and involved a motor vehicle parked along an Oakland street.

According to police reports, a 1979 Plymouth belonging to Harold Harman was parked along Pennington Street when someone threw a beer bottle through the rear window. Approximately $100 in damages resulted.

Chief of Police John Sines is investigating the incident.

Oakland Police were responsible for the apprehension of a West Virginia man wanted for a bench warrant issued for his arrest 12 years ago.

The warrant was issued in 1972 for Lloyd Burgess, 54, Aurora, for non-payment of a fine that resulted from a traffic violation.

On Monday, Burgess stopped at the Garrett County District Court office and announced that he was there to pay his fine. At that time he was told that a warrant had been issued for his arrest and he fled the scene.

The Garrett County Sheriff's office and city police were notified that Burgess was in the area. Burgess was later picked up by Chief Sines near the old Sterling Processing plant.

Suspended Jail Sentences Given To McHenry Men

Two McHenry men were given one-year suspended sentences after pleading guilty to a charge of destruction of property while three other charges lodged against them were declared nolle prosequi, indicating that the state's attorney's office will proceed no further.

Ronald Irving Gatton, Jr., 20, and Robert Eugene Johnson, 19, appeared before Judge Fred A. Thayer during last Thursday's Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings.

They had each been charged with daytime housebreaking, felony theft, misdemeanor theft and destruction of property. The charges stemmed from the February 22 breaking and entering of the residence of Virginia Delores Thomas, located on the Sang Run Road. They were accused of removing a .38 calibre Smith & Wesson revolver and two class rings from the scene.

Both men were fined $200, plus court costs.

Gatton is to observe one year of supervised probation unless he is serving in the U.S. Army and Johnson is to observe supervised probation conditions for the same length of time and to attend alcoholic counseling.

The report will also include a slide/tape presentation entitled "Southern States: Teaming Tradition and Technology."

Local operations and services rendered to agriculture in the community will be discussed by Wayne Fratz, of W.H. Fratz, Inc.

There will be special recognition of local Advisory Board and Farm Home Advisory Committee members who retire this year.

FFA Alumni Hold Annual Picnic July 8

The annual Southern High School F.F.A. Alumni picnic was held at Deep Creek Lake State Park on Sunday, July 8, with approximately 85 persons in attendance.

The Alumni is sponsoring a field trip to Penn State's Ag Progress Days on Wednesday, Aug. 22, near State College, Pa. Persons who want reservations or have any questions regarding this trip may call Pat Bowser at 334-4722 or Don Wilt at 334-4667.

Small Grain Statistics Noted

Small grain production in Maryland will be up from 1983's level for winter wheat, oats, and barley, but down for rye. Potato production will be lower than 1983 due to a lower yield and 200 less acres.

The increase in expected production of winter wheat, oats and barley is attributed to increases in both acreage and yield. But rye production is expected to decline from 1983 due to a decline in acreage and yield.

If expectations are realized, farmers will harvest a 5,670,000 bushel wheat crop, up six percent from 1983. At 135,000 acres for harvest, acreage increased 4,000 acres. The wheat yield is expected to be 42 bushels per acre, one bushel above last year.

Barley production for Maryland farmers is expected to total 5,510,000 bushels, 11 percent above the 1983 production of 4,950,000 bushels.

Oat production is expected to total 855,000 bushels, nine percent above the 1983 production.

Rye production for Maryland is expected to total 203,000 bushels, a decline of 15 percent. Rye harvested at 7,000 acres is 1,000 acres smaller than last year and is expected to yield one bushel per acre less than the 1983 crop.

Matthews Speaks At Annual Farm Bureau Picnic

Approximately 80 Farm Bureau members and their families attended the annual Farm Bureau Picnic held Sunday at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

Jack Matthews, information director for the Maryland Farm Bureau, was guest speaker, and was accompanied to Western Maryland by his wife, Patsy. He expressed his appreciation for "the beauty of the mountains and surrounding area," wondering "if those who live here really take time to look and enjoy, like visitors do!" He urged Farm Bureau members to keep aware of what is going on in Annapolis and Washington, saying "what happens there directly affects the pocketbook of every farmer." He discussed pending legislation, and reminded members to mobilize for the 1985 Farm Bill.

Matthews also encouraged members to visit and support the area's newest Safemark Dealers, the Brenneman Brothers, of Bittinger.

Ted Sprangle extended greetings from the County's Extension Office. Donna Glotfelty, Women's Committee Chairman, announced that Farm Bureau now has T-shirts available at a cost of $5.00 each, and are available in blue only, in all sizes from children's through adult. She also encouraged Farm Bureau members to continue to support the local bloodmobile, saying that "many accidents happen on the farm, and we need to be sure that blood is available for us and our neighbors when we need it." She then introduced Karen Hamilton, 1983 Garrett County Farm Queen, who spoke briefly.

Doris Wildesen, ACWW chairman, displayed labels for "Clean Water Coins" and asked members to participate in a campaign to assure clean, fresh, running water for all the underprivileged throughout the world, by placing a labeled jar near the faucet in their own homes, and dropping a coin into the jar each time the water is turned on, for a period of one week. She will then collect these coins and forward all donations to the National Organization.

Due to the recent resignation by County Farm Bureau president, Nevin Umbel, Clark Kolb will move up from vice president to take charge of the organization until the annual election in October. Dates for the kick-off membership dinner in August, and the September combined Garrett & Allegany County Policy Development meeting, will be announced soon. Annual State membership dues have been increased by $3.00, making it necessary for members to pay an additional $1.00 for each ticket to the annual fall dinner.

FARM BUREAU PICNIC — Approximately 80 Garrett County Farm Bureau members and their families were present for the Bureau's annual picnic, held Sunday at the county fairgrounds in McHenry. The guest speaker for the event was Jack Matthews, pictured left, information director for the Maryland Farm Bureau. Also in attendance were Karen Hamilton, 1983 Garrett County Farm Queen, who made a few remarks, and Donna Glotfelty, Women's Committee chairman. See story.

Do You Have Hay & Silage For Sale?

The Maryland Department of Agriculture and ASCS are in the process of locating hay and silage for sale. If you have either that you might be interested in selling, call my office with the following information: kind of crop and the approximate amount (334-2145).

Crop Watch

In general, the crops look very good this year. I am seeing some yellowing of the lower leaves in corn. This is probably due to the excess moisture we have had. There is a good possibility that most of the nitrogen has been lost through runoff and dilution. If you suspect this has happened, it would be wise to apply nitrogen.

Corn

The corn crop looks good. Weed control in general has been good. Some reports of Dual injury, but keep in mind the following: 1) More Dual being used, 2) Cool, wet weather may cause injury problems, 3) Some hybrids more suspectible (Pioneer 33535 is an example), 4) High rates (2 pints or more per acre) on light, sandy soils may cause injury.

Perennials are still a problem. 2, 4-D at planting time (not Banvel), followed by Banvel and/or2, 4-D postemergence, still the best program. Fall applications of Banvel and/or Roundup after harvest can help. Occasional tillage and rotation will also help. Buctril or Brominal postemergence are not active on perennials.

At this stage of the game, post-directing in corn is best bet for annual escapes. Over the past couple years the University has initiated some post-directing work in corn, on a mixed stand of giant foxtail and common lambsquarters. Weeds averaged 8 to 12 inches in height. Evik (2 to 2½ lbs. product per acre plus surfactant) was excellent in controlling both species. Lorox (1½ pt/A plus surfactant) was good on the lambsquarters plus poor in controlling foxtail. Paraquat (1 pt/A plus surfactant) controlled the grass but left the lambsquarters. When we tank mixed Lorox plus Paraquat plus surfactant, control was as good as what we obtained with Evik alone.

Acreage Planted Up From 1983

The acreage of most crops planted in Maryland for harvest in 1984 increased from last year's planted acreage, which was reduced by the PIK program.

Corn acreage planted, at 685,000 acres, is up five percent from the 1983 acreage. Corn intended for harvest as grain, at 590,000 acres, is up eight percent.

The State's farmers planted a record 435,000 acres of soybeans in 1984, up 16 percent from last year and four percent above the previous record set in 1982.

Winter wheat seeded last fall totaled 147,000 acres, up one percent from 1983. The amount to be harvested for grain is up three percent from last year to 135,000 acres.

Barley planted last fall and this spring totaled 108,000 acres, up eight percent from 1983.

All types of hay intended for harvest at 230,000 acres is up two percent from last year.

Avian Influenza Detection System Is Developed

Scientists with the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station (UMAES) have developed a rapid detection system for a strain of avian influenza, a virus responsible for the destruction of more than 14 million chickens and turkeys in the mid-Atlantic region in the last 12 months.

According to the scientists, having the system two years ago could have saved poultry farmers and allied industries in Pennsylvania—the hardest hit state—some of the estimated $150 million lost through the quarantine and destruction of flocks.

"The detection system is called ELISA. Actually, it is an assay that has been used for other types of poultry viruses and adapted to detect avian influenza," said Dr. David B. Snyder, principal investigator in the project and a UMAES researcher assigned to the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine at the university.

Snyder and team colleague Dr. Warren W. Marquardt said laboratory and field tests of the ELISA system showed it is more sensitive, diagnoses avian influenza faster and sooner than other conventional forms of disease detection.

"This means that ELISA can detect avian influenza even when concentrations of antibody to the disease in a flock are low," Snyder said.

"It also means that ELISA takes less time to analyze flock blood samples. Hundreds of samples can be analyzed in a few hours, where other methods take anywhere from 12 to 48 hours for the same number of samples.

"Finally, it appears ELISA can detect antibodies against avian influenza earlier in the disease's life cycle in a bird than the conventional detection methods," Snyder added.

Laboratory and field tests showed that ELISA could detect antibodies against avian influenza as few as eight days after a bird became infected. One conventional method did not detect avian influenza until 21 days after inoculation with the disease. Another failed to detect infection for 35 days.

Most animal disease experts agree that failure to detect avian influenza early enough played a significant role in the destruction of more than 14 million birds in the mid-Atlantic region.

Says Snyder: "The most often-used method of detection is so insensitive to the disease that it may have lulled the poultry industry into a false sense of security."

By the time anyone knew what was infecting flocks, it was too late. The disease was too widely spread, according to Snyder.

Although USDA officials report that outbreaks of avian influenza are on the decline, the fear of new outbreaks and spread of the disease into influenza-free Maryland persists.

UMAES officials two weeks ago cancelled three agricultural research field days on Maryland's Eastern Shore—the heart of the state's poultry industry—fearing what they called "the remote possibility" of introducting the disease to that region.

Those field days are open to the public and function as research farm "open houses" to transfer newly-developed technology to commercial farmers and industry.

"If we would have had this system two years ago, it may have told us early enough that the virus activity was heating up," Snyder said.

For more information contact: Dr. David B. Snyder, Dr. Warren W. Marquardt, Va.-Md. Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, U. of Md., (301) 454-3636 or Skip Myers, Assoc. Ed., UMAES, (301) 454-3622.

NUMBER 21

JUST PASSING BY, but dropping in for some rest and relaxation last week in a swampy area near Weber Road, was a small flock of great egrets, formerly known as the common or American egret. According to Fran Pope, local birder, this migratory fowl is fairly common to this and most areas of the nation, however she said it is a little unusual to see so many together. This photo was shot by The Republican staff photographer, Craig Phillips.

Bayard Resident Charged Friday With Robbery

A Bayard, W.Va. man has been charged with the June 1 armed robbery of the Tri-Towns Branch of the First United National Bank and Trust in Westernport.

Stewart Layman, Jr., 36, was arrested Friday by West Virginia State Police and taken before a District Court commissioner in Allegany County. Judge Miller Bowen set bond at $10,000 on Monday.

Layman is accused of entering the bank, brandishing a weapon and demanding money. He escaped with an undisclosed amount of cash.

He continues to be held this morning in the Allegany County jail.

Proposed New Lake Zoning District Discussed By Planning Commission

The establishment of a new "Rural Residential" zoning district in the Deep Creek Watershed was the topic of discussion at a special meeting of the Garrett County Planning Commission Wednesday. The new district would allow the placement of mobile homes on permanent foundations in certain fringe areas currently zoned "Lake Residential," which permits mobile homes only as a special exception.

Anna McNallie, acting county planning director, presented a memorandum outlining the key planning issues involved in evaluating the proposal.

According to McNallie's memo, the county planning staff considered the need to protect the relatively high property values in the immediate lake area, along with the needs of permanent county residents in the fringe areas of the watershed, in developing the new "Rural Residential" zoning district.

According to the planning office memo, several factors were taken into consideration in selecting areas for inclusion in the proposed district.

The first area of consideration was whether the area is primarily characterized by year-round residences of permanent county residents, or primarily by none-resident property owners.

Secondly, whether a given area is within sight of the lake, or in a fringe area of the Watershed was considered.

The character of an area, as established by primarily residential usage, or by the presence of a number of farms and forested properties, was another consideration used by the planning office in selecting areas for Rural Residential designation.

The density of development was also taken into consideration, with areas characterized by uses that require large land areas, rather than densely developed areas, considered suitable for Rural Residential zoning.

The planning staff memo identified five areas in the Watershed as meeting all criteria for Rural Residential zoning. They include Foster Road, Bray School Road, and the part of Oakland-Sang Run Road within the Watershed; Sandflat Road and Pysell Cross Cut Road to just west of Chadderton School Road; all areas of the Board Discusses Roads Program, Landfill Plans

The Board of County Commissioners met with county roads supervisors Ken Metheny and Earl Foster Tuesday to discuss road repairs and the expansion plans for the Round Glade Landfill.

Metheny and Foster told the commissioners that the roads program is progressing well, although some changes in the order of roads to receive work have been made due to economic and priority reasons.

Over 25,000 gallons of tar were applied to roads in the Oakland area early this week as part of the road repair program. "County residents should be seeing their tax dollars at work," Foster said.

Asphalt work on several roads in the Oakland area, including Old Crellin Road and

Miller Released With Probation After Re-Trial

After being tried and re-tried, John Murrlen Miller, 46, has been sentenced by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer to eight years for second degree rape, five years for a second degree sex offense and one year for a fourth degree sex offense. Judge Thayer suspended the sentence, though, in lieu of the four years Miller has already served at the Maryland Department of Corrections in Hagerstown. Miller has been released and is on supervised probation for the remainder of his sentence which runs to September, 1987.

Miller, Mt. Lake Park, was convicted by a Garrett County Circuit Court jury on January 11, 1980, for raping a 16-year old girl. He had been represented by David N. Shaffer. Prosecuting attorney at that time was Daun Weiers.

Miller was committed to the custody of the Maryland Department of Corrections on February 13, 1980, to serve a total of 20 years for his rape charge and second and fourth sex offenses.

After a hearing in April of this year, Circuit Court Judge Frederick Sharer found that there had been incompetency of counsel on behalf of Miller and under the Maryland Post Conviction Procedure Act, ordered that Miller be given a new trial in Garrett County.

Prosecutor for this case was James Sherbin, State's Attorney. Counsel for the defense was Bryan Hall.

Pennsylvania Man Injured Friday In Boating Mishap

A Pennsylvania man was seriously injured Friday night in a boating accident which occurred in the Green Glade Cove area of Deep Creek Lake.

According to a spokesman for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Police, Craig Ronald Prudian, 28, Aston, was the operator and lone occupant of a 15-foot, custom hydroplane that went out of control and crashed into a dock and two boats that were docked there.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter responded to the scene. Prudian was transported by the Medevac unit to Cumberland Memorial Hospital where he was initially listed in "serious" condition. He has since been transferred to the Hershey, Pa., Medical Center for further treatment.

The dock, owned by James Brantner, Pittsburgh, Pa., sustained major damage while a boat owned by Brantner was completely destroyed. The second boat, which was owned by Prudian's father-in-law, Lee Way, suffered major damages. The Prudian boat was considered a total loss.

DNR Police Officers Lay and Sizemore investigated the accident. The Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department responded to the scene for the Medevac landing.

Salt Contamination Crops Up In Water Supplies Near Finzel

Salt contamination continues to spread across northeastern Garrett County, according to the latest reports from the county health department and other sources.

Salt contamination was first reported in the county in the fall of 1983 at Keyser Ridge. More recent reports this spring involve an area east of Grantsville and another at Finzel.

The most recent cases involve homes along Beall School Road along Route 48's Exit 29, opposite a salt storage shed. Of the four wells tested there, one showed a concentration of 670 parts chlorides per million, and another had 243 parts per million (ppm).

The Environmental Protection Agency suggests that drinking water not exceed 250 ppm. For several of the wells tested in the past year, the concentration of salt is about five times the recommended levels for drinking and is about half the concentration of ocean water.

In a letter sent to the State Highway Administration June 25, the Finzel area residents urged that the salt shed be removed from its present location and controlled amounts of salt and abrasives be applied to the highways in the future. Presently salt is stored uncovered at the Exit 29 site.

The letter revealed that any salt spilled during the loading process at the stockpile is pushed over an embankment into their backyards and "each time it rains it is carried into the water supplies."

The letter was signed by Merle Keefer, Donald, Jerry and Melvin Garlitz, who pointed out that at the end of June, the sides of the road were still white with accumulated salt.

Donald Garlitz said in a telephone conversation with a reporter from The Republican July 10 that water supplies started tasting salty several months ago, and the health department took samples in April. Melvin Garlitz's water supply showed 670 ppm of sodium and Keefer's 243. None of the residents there are using water any more than absolutely necessary because of the salty taste, Garlitz said.

Of the 28 water supplies originally sampled east of Grantsville, ten were above the recommended level, and six were above 600 ppm or more. Edgar Harman, environmental director for the health department, said he understands that the State Highway Administration is hauling water to residents whose water contains more than 250 ppm. Core drilling sample results have not yet been released by SHA. Recently several more residents have requested that their water be tested.

At present there are no EPA or state guidelines published on sodium limits in drinking water. The National Research Council recommends less than 270 ppm for diets moderately restricting sodium and 20 ppm or less for restricted diets.

The National Research Council also reminds residents that water softening units which utilize salt increase the sodium level in the water.

THE ORANGE BLOSSOM SPECIAL is a favorite of all those who love fiddle music, and Phil and Michelle Birkby, Greensburg, Pa., used that number to entertain the folks who attended the annual Fiddlers' Contest in Friendsville last weekend. Miss Birkby was named the winner of the senior division, while her brother won first place in the junior division. The event is sponsored annually by the Friendsville Rotary Club. Over 20 fiddlers participated.

Dr. Pope Informs Commissioners Of Audit Results

Dr. William Pope, Garrett County health officer, informed the county commissioners Tuesday that an audit of the health department for the past five years found that the department owed the state $90,000 but that figure was reduced to $4,000 after considerable discussion between health officials and the auditor.

The $4,000 is money the state wants to claim from interest-bearing accounts from funds for the home health program. That program receives 60 percent of its funding from state sources and 40 percent from the county. Over the past few years, several counties including Garrett had not sent in a share of the interest to the state.

The funds have already been paid, according to Dr. Pope, who went on to note that his department was gratified that over five years the amount owed was so small. He had earlier pointed out that it was unusual for an agency to be audited so infrequently.

The auditor, who was on his first health department job, also included a list of recommendations for the local health agency and these suggestions have been taken into consideration. Dr. Pope did not elaborate on whether his staff has implemented any of the recommendations.

Sign Revised Contract

Dr. Pope asked the commissioners to sign a revised contract for the fiscal year which ended June 30. The revised contract, after judicious juggling of county funds, matching and non-matching grants and other sources of income, did not

Traffic Halted, Residents Vacate Due To Mishap

Maryland State Police investigated a tanker truck mishap Friday morning that resulted in the evacuation of approximately 100 Friendsville residents and delayed traffic on U.S. Rt. 48 for approximately 12 hours.

Reports indicate that Salvatore J. Avantagiato, 27, Union, N.J., was the driver of a White freight liner pulling a Polar American tank containing 7,000 gallons of petroleum naptha. The petroleum product is used as a cleaning substance and is poisonous if absorbed through the skin or inhaled.

As the vehicle was proceeding on Rt. 48, 150 feet west of the bridge over Bear Creek, he lost his brakes due to the driver's failure to gear down on a steep grade. After coming to a safe stop on the right lane shoulder, the operator was unable to hold the vehicle without brakes and the tanker began drifting backwards. The trailer ran upon an embankment and overturned. Approximately 700 gallons of the chemical substance spilled

Investigation Into Shooting Deaths Of West Virginia Couple Continues

The circumstances surrounding the deaths of a former Oakland man and his ex-wife have still not been determined by authorities.

West Virginia State Police are treating the deaths of Howard R. "Butch" Fulk, III, and Stacy Irene (Kennell) Fulk as homicides until an autopsy report indicates otherwise. However, according to another source, the cause of death is listed as "suicide" on Fulk's death certificate.

The bodies of the couple were discovered early Monday morning at a cabin in Lanesville, W.Va., just outside Canaan Valley. According to police reports, Mrs. Fulk's nude body was spotted in the yard outside the cabin at approximately 6:30 a.m. by a passerby who immediately notified police. Fulk was found inside the cabin lying face down on the floor. Both died from gunshot wounds. Police found a high-powered rifle at the scene. Tests are being conducted to determine whether or not it is the weapon used in the shootings.

Police refused to relate any further details until the coroner's report had been completed. Trooper S.W. Cogar of the Parsons Detachment is to meet later today with Medical Examiner J.L. Frost at the West Virginia University Medical Center in Morgantown.

Although the couple was divorced, they reportedly had been living together for the past several months. They had been seen at approximately 10 p.m. Sunday night when a witness recounted everything as normal.

Mrs. Fulk's two-year old son was not living with the couple at the time but was staying with grandparents in the Cumberland area.

H.R. (Butch) Fulk, III, 40, was born February 2, 1944, in Philadelphia, Pa. He is the son of H. Rell Fulk, II, and V. Eileen (Mullennex) Fulk, Bayard, W.Va.

He was employed as a senior staff engineer at Vepco in Mt. Storm, W.Va.

Formerly of Bayard, he was a graduate of Bayard High School and attended Potomac State College. He was a member of the Bayard United Methodist Church, Oakland Lodge BPO Elks, and was a former member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one daughter, D. Michelle Fulk, Bayard; two sons, Howard R. Fulk, IV, and Michael A. Fulk, both of Bayard; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen L. Fulk, also Bayard.

Friends will be received at the Stewart Funeral Home in Oakland from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow. A service will be conducted at the funeral home Saturday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. William Anderson officiating. Interment will follow in the Bayard Cemetery.

Area Woman Dies As Result Of Auto Mishap

A Mt. Lake Park woman died Tuesday afternoon from injuries she suffered ten days ago in a two-vehicle accident which occurred on Rt. 135, near Paughville.

Vona Miller, 45, died in the intensive care unit of Cumberland Memorial Hospital after being admitted there July 16. She was one of seven persons injured when a car being driven by her daughter, Mary Teets, 20, crossed the center line and crashed head-on into a vehicle being driven by Harley Wildesen, 65, Swanton. Wildesen remains a patient in the intensive care unit of Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Teets, who was eight months pregnant, lost her unborn child as a result of injuries she sustained. She and her husband, Jimmy, 23, and daughter, Glenda, 2, have since been released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital where they were taken by area ambulance services.

Passengers in the Wildesen vehicle, Richard W. Wildesen, 27, and his son, Richard, Jr., 7, both of Swanton, have also been released from the medical facility.

Mrs. Vona E. Miller was born March 13, 1939, in Hawkins County, Tenn. She was a daughter of Verna E. (Maulk) Greer, Kingsport, Tenn., and the late Charles F. Greer.

Miller Sentenced By Thayer To Life In Prison

Joseph Phillip Miller, Jr., 47, Friendsville, convicted of murdering his 23-year-old wife on November 8, 1983, was sentenced on July 19 to The Maryland Department of Corrections for the remainder of his natural life by Garrett County Circuit Judge Fred A. Thayer. An additional sentence of 10 years on the charge of use of a handgun in a crime of violence to run consecutively with the first sentence was also handed down by Judge Thayer.

On May 25 the jury in this case found Miller to be sane and found him guilty of first degree murder of his wife, Kathy Jean Miller. Miller displayed no emotion as the jury forelady Beverly Beard announced the decision of the four-woman, eight-man panel. The jury deliberated approximately one hour before returning their decision.

During the trial there was much conflicting testimony regarding Miller's mental state at the time of the murder. Dr. William Fitzpatrick staff psychiatrist at Perkins Hospital in Jessup, who testified for the prosecution, said repeatedly that in his professional opinion, Miller was sane and responsible for his actions. Dr. Phillip Levine, on staff at the Thomas B. Finan Center in Cumberland, was called by the defense to

A MILESTONE that few couples are able to achieve was reached yesterday by a Bittinger couple. Archie and Araminta Bittinger, who are parents to two daughters and five sons, grandparents to 15, great-grandparents to 35, and great-great-grandparents to 15, celebrated their 77th wedding anniversary yesterday, July 25. The couple was married on that day in 1907. Although visited daily by family members and friends, the Bittingers still reside alone in their own home along New Germany Road. Both Mr. Bittinger, who is 96, and Mrs. Bittinger, who is 95, suffered strokes this past year; however, they have both made remarkable recoveries. According to one family member, Mrs. Bittinger was told that she would never walk again, yet with the assistance of a walker, she does indeed walk about the house, inside and out, with relative ease.

Kitzmiller To Seek $500,000 In HUD Loans

Town officials of Kitzmiller held a public hearing Monday night on the town's Housing and Urban Development Community block grant application, and despite the lack of input from citizens, agreed to resubmit a $500,000 request.

No citizens turned out for the hearing. The town had submitted a request last year, and was 13th on the state's fundable list. However, the state funded only the top 12 projects. The HUD block grants are a combination of loans and grants, based upon income, which can help property owners with expensive rehabilitation or, in the case of Kitzmiller, with hookups for the new water system.

In other action Monday during the regular town council session, officials agreed to participate in the Circuit Rider program, and paid the $715 required as its share. The Circuit Rider program ensures that Wendell Keaton will continue to act as municipal coordinator.

William Whitacre was permanently hired as a street department employee.

A major part of the meeting was given over to discussion of taxes owed the town since 1981 by two property owners. A certified letter urging immediate payment will be sent to both before the town institutes legal proceedings.

After the council session, Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator, gave an update on the town's water system construction project. (See separate story.)

Grantsville Men Given Sentences

Two Grantsville men, David Allen Wiley, 23, and John Wayne Wiley, 23, have been sentenced by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer on charges of breaking and entering, felony theft and destruction of property.

The Wileys pleaded guilty to the charges of breaking and entering and felony theft of cash and liquor totalling over $600 at the White Oak Inn in Grantsville on January 11. They were each sentenced to five years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. They will both receive credit for time already served. The charge of destruction of property was declared nolle prosequi.

Also sentenced in this case was Raymond C. Uphold, 20, Grantsville. Due to the fact that this was Uphold's first offense, Judge Thayer sentenced him to three years, with two years suspended, at the Maryland Department of Corrections in Hagerstown. The two years suspended sentence will be served under supervised probation.

Uphold also pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and felony theft. The charge of destruction of property was declared nolle prosequi.

The three men are currently lodged in the Garrett County Jail awaiting placement at the Maryland Department of Corrections.

County Receives Two More Revenue Sharing Requests

Two additional proposals for revenue sharing funds were submitted to the Board of County Commissioners last week, bringing the total of requests to $1,025,450, about $285,000 more than the county's revenue sharing total of $739,844.

The Board of Directors of the Garrett County Agricultural Fair submitted a request for $32,400 to be used for one year's mortgage payment on the fairgrounds. The fair board purchased the fairgrounds last year, and has been conducting a fundraising drive to generate income to meet payments.

The fair board's request stated that, "Inasmuch as the Fair is held for the benefit and enjoyment of all the citizens of Garrett County, we urge your strong consideration of our request for funds so that this very important county activity can be continued for many years to come."

Gary Mullich, director of general services for the county requested $47,000 for emergency management, including the replacement of a ten channel recorder with a 20 channel recorder and portable tape deck, and the replacement of the county dispatch console.

In his request, Mullich explained that the current ten channel recorder is inadequate to record all radio transmissions of law enforcement, emergency, and other county agencies that utilize radio transmissions. The portable tape deck is used to scan the tapes.

Mullich also submitted a request for $5,000 to carpet offices on the third floor of the courthouse, and $40,000 to clean and repaint exterior brick.

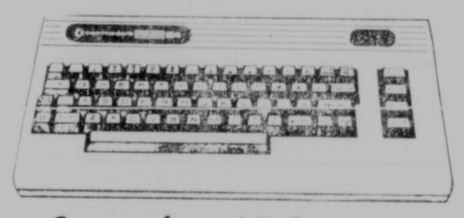
He said that the third floor of the old courthouse is the last area of that building to be carpeted, which saves on custodial costs in the long run, and that the brick cleaning is a continuation of the rehabilitation of the old courthouse.

Other requests for revenue sharing funds, which are distributed to counties based on county wealth by the Federal Bureau of Revenue Sharing, included: Garrett County Fireman's Association, $16,000; the Sheriff's Department, $91,000; the Board of Education, $268,550; the County Roads Department, $460,000; and the Election Board, $65,000.

Rabid Raccoon Killed Monday

A positive confirmation of rabies in a raccoon was received by the health department Wednesday, but no human contact was involved in this incident on the Wes White Road off Route 219 south of Oakland.

According to a spokesman for the health department, a dog owned by the Henry Petersheim family got into a fight with a raccoon about 9 a.m. Monday under the porch of the Petersheim home. Petersheim shot the raccoon and called health officials.



The family is checking to determine when the dog was vaccinated so officials will know whether revaccination is necessary. The dog must also be confined for 90 days as a further precaution.

The case brings the total of confirmed rabid animals in the county so far this year to 15.

Twenty-six persons are attending the school this week and 28 are expected next week. Instructors are Sandy Jones, Columbia, S.C., a former pipe major of the U.S. Air Force Pipe Band, and Hamilton Workman, of Massachusetts, a former Highland Light Infanry pipe major in Scotland. A free concert by the school participants will be given for the general public next Wednesday, August 1, at 7:30 p.m., at Camp Hickory. HOLD FLAG DAY PROGRAM — Members of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary Unit 29 of Oakland held Flag Day ceremonies at the Cuppett and Weeks and Dennett Road Manor Nursing Homes June 14. The program was planned and presented by chairman Wilda Sanders. Veterans were welcomed by Hazel Meyers, commander, and Sandra Corbin led the pledge of allegiance. Margaret Williams, chaplain, led the Lord's Prayer. Vida McCrobie read "I Am Your Flag" and Marilu and Gordon Rowe played the accordion and sang "Keep Both Flags A'Flying". At the conclusion of the patriotic program each veteran was presented with a small American flag and stand. Pictured above are Hazel Meyers, Sheila Hauser, director of activities at the Cuppett and Weeks facility, and Wilda Sanders.

Contamination

Data from the state health department's Office of Environmental Programs toxic substance control program showed that Crellin normally has 1 ppm; Friendsville 9; Grantsville 10; Oakland-Broadford 3.2; Oak Park 8; Shallmar 2; and Bloomington 3.2 ppm of chlorides.

Dr. William Pope, county health officer, has agreed to provide cooperation with the SHA in "mutual determination" of appropriate action to be taken in the matter. This would have particular regard for people on sodium restricted diets and others with special problems.

The above information was included in Dr. Pope's recent letter to T. Wallace Beaulieu, district six engineer for SHA.

SHA Response to Finzel

In response to the letter from the Garlitz families and Keefer, the SHA has begun hauling water to the Merle Garlitz family. A letter dated July 5 from Beaulieu verified that water was scheduled to be delivered.

That letter also promises to remove the stockpile of abrasives from the compound and to contact county roads department administrator Ken Metheny for permission to clean up the shoulders, roadways and drainage area in the Beall School Road vicinity.

Metheny indicated Tuesday morning that his department has not yet been contacted by SHA but that cooperation would definitely be forthcoming once the county determined what action the SHA has in mind.

In the residents' letter to SHA, concern was also voiced over a recent paint spill in a ditch near their homes. In his response, Beaulieu said that when road painting crews clean their lines, the paint is blown into five gallon buckets and later poured in drums. At Finzel, someone upset the paint from the drums into a ditch and stole the drums. "We recognize our obligation about indiscriminately placing paint along the highway," Beaulieu said, and concluded by saying that his investigation showed the paint crew "has been very careful and has not violated our policy."

On June 11, Sen. John Bambacus wrote a letter to the state secretary of the Department of Transportation bringing to his attention the fact that groundwater supplies in the county have been contaminated with salt. "At this time, concentrations of salt are increasing due to runoff from State Highway Administration stockpiles as well as salt treatment of state roads during the winter months," he said.

Sen. Bambacus requested information on the SHA plans to purchase properties adjacent to its right of way, and on administration plans to mitigate the salt problem. "It is imperative that this matter be resolved before the next winter season descends upon us," Bambacus urged, and later promised verbally to "pursue this to the hilt."

A response from William K. Hellman, new secretary of the DOT, was mailed to the Senator July 3. Hellman said the situation is of utmost concern to the DOT, and that the SHA is reviewing and studying its entire operation to determine what can be done to eliminate or at least minimize the effect of salt usage on snow and ice removal operations.

This will include studying other states' approaches to the problem; minimizing the use of salt where possible; better housekeeping at storage sites; and continued training for personnel applying material during winter operations.

Over the past two years, SHA has switched to a combination of 50 percent salt, 50 percent sand to treat the roads although the concentrations vary depending on individual storms.

As Hellman answered in his response to Bambacus' letter, "Some tradeoffs are required in order to maximize the safety and mobility aspects for the traveling public while minimizing the environmental impact associated with the use of this pollutant material."

Hellman also stated that "One property has been purchased at Keyser Ridge (the property of the late Stella Reichenbecher) and the SHA is negotiating for the purchase of two others."

Joe Dorsey, assistant district engineer, said last week that purchase of one property is almost complete and another purchase is under discussion. However, Hellman maintained that "We do not plan on acquiring any property unless it is felt there is an extreme hardship on the individual. Our plan is to provide remedies to eliminate the infiltration of salt into the groundwater. If this is not possible, individual remedies will be pursued."

In his verbal responses last week, Dorsey also said that work in progress this summer has maintenance crews sealing existing pads and salt domes, and then crews will repave over the sealant to help prevent further contamination. "We're also concentrating on our open stockpiles and abrasives, moving a lot of them from outlying areas," Dorsey remarked.

Dorsey reiterated that the state is doing all in its power to correct the problem. "Immediately as contamination crops up, we sample wells, getting an analysis from the lab people and if we feel conditions are critical we immediately begin furnishing water for human consumption."

Sen. Bambacus, who said last week he has talked with William Goldsborough, resident engineer for SHA, as well as Beaulieu, numerous truck drivers, and property owners, said he is getting the feeling everyone feels "It's someone else's problem." He pointed out that in the "northeastern states and elsewhere, road crews do not use nearly the salt we do and I feel we can strike some reasonable balance." He is concerned that productive farmland is being lost to contamination and ruined for generations, and has asked Hellman to pay a personal visit to the county. "The state obviously cannot go on buying all the property they contaminate," Bambacus concluded.

Still No Water

For Carrie Miller, water problems began five years ago or more and she says she still does not know what the state plans to do about it. Although both her sons live near her property on Keyser Ridge, their water supplies have been unaffected and for more than four years, they have hauled her water for her. Recently the state offered to haul her water for drinking and cooking. When she adds Clorox to her laundry water, however, it still turns brown.

Beaulieu has been to talk with her several times but she says she does not yet know what the long-range plans may be.

At Keyser Ridge salt has been found as much as ten feet below the surface, according to Harman at the health department.

Grantsville Problems

One man east of Grantsville recently drilled a new, deeper well with his own drilling equipment and his water was much improved. Martin Tressler's first well showed 965 parts of chloride per million.

Both Beaulieu and Hal Kassoff, newly appointed SHA administrator, have said that "When it is clearly our responsibility we will consider paying to replace contaminated wells." The SHA had drilled a new well for the late Mrs. Reichenbecher but the water showed no improvement. Kassoff has made it clear that "Cases will continue to be considered on an individual basis."

PLAYERS PRACTICE — Currently at the Garrett County Playhouse is the fourth production of the season, "Two and Two Make Sex," a decidedly eccentric comedy by Richard Harris and Leslie Darbon. The production, directed by Milburn Mehlhop, features Joan Statkus, Chris von Eckartsberg and Michelle Saucedo. Pictured in the foreground are RoseAnn Armijo and von Eckartsberg, and in the background, David Boles and Ms. Saucedo. "Two and Two Make Sex" deals winningly with the sillier side of love. The authors have peppered it generously with mistaken identities, psychological misconception and double-entendre. Beginning Wednesday, August 1, the Playhouse will offer "Middle Age Spread," directed by Gene Yell. All productions play Wednesday through Saturday evenings, with curtain time at 8:30. For information and reservations, persons may contact Englander's, Gregg's or Proudfoot's pharmacies in Oakland.

Outrage Must Be Expressed . . .

While we essentially agree with the basic concept that a strong military defense system is crucial to the protection of our nation, and understand that such a system is extremely expensive, we also believe that something must be done about the outrageous waste, and indeed, what could be criminal activity, that is characteristic of the Defense Department.

We have been hearing quite a bit lately in the media about tools and spare parts being purchased by the Defense Department for ludicrous sums of money, such as $269 for a socket wrench, $128 for a one-inch nut and bolt and $780 for a screwdriver. The wining and dining of defense military personnel has also been billed to the Pentagon by certain manufacturers of defense equipment, such as Pratt and Whitney, which charged $10,000 to the government (us taxpayers) for parties in Palm Beach and overseas trips. This same company billed the U.S. Air Force, and was paid, $1.4 million for spare parts that really cost $531,000.

The above information is enough to make one's blood boil; however the frightening part is that the government is not only continuing to pay these prices, but it has come down hard on its own auditors who have discovered and exposed this atrocity to the media. George Spanton, the outstanding Defense Department auditor who uncovered the Pratt and Whitney deals, was threatened with the loss of his job and was suddenly the subject of a criminal investigation. Only media exposure and public pressure prevented the threats from being carried out and the harassment of Spanton to be halted.

Military officials, all the way up to President Reagan, have either ignored or side-stepped this issue and we believe that the only way to have this disgraceful injustice to the taxpayers stopped is for the media and citizens to express their outrage as loudly, and via as many avenues, as possible.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Your "Morale Problem" at GCC certainly hit the mark!! Thank you for having the intestinal fortitude to print the facts. With all that has emanated from the College recently it is inevitable and may reach an avalanche if some people don't wake up!

A course in basic psychology for many involved would help!

Insensitivity breeds disintegration. An inspired, dedicated faculty can make a college, but if you are not allowed that "road," it's devastating!!

All the significant faculty and key personnel departures in recent times is not happenstance.

Perhaps the Chairman of the Board could think his services could be dispensed with. Perhaps rather than volunteer for too many Board positions he could rethink his status. Perhaps he is unable to decline so much involvement.

One thing I'd like him to do professionally (and I understand it is his responsibility) is to have the high weeds cut along state highways, at least at crucial intersections, to assist in prohibiting accidents, such as the one we had in our area this week.

The president has a renewed contract and a raise after this past year at GCC? A $100,000 loan to bail out GCC and we reward all this proficiency? It is interesting to note that GCC had a $90,000 surplus at the end of Dr. Ruhl's last fiscal year, compared to a $100,000 deficit at the end of this past year under the new president.

When we were sold this "College Bill of Goods" years ago, we were told it would not cost taxpayers a cent? It was to pay its own way by tuition, etc. Help! Who's listening? Who'll do anything about it here or at the state level? You need a ground swell to act? You may get a bigger one than you want, if these messes are allowed to continue unabated and unacted upon, ad-infinitum!

Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

I feel compelled to express my sentiments concerning the recent publicity regarding the Mitchell Manor Residents and Crossroads, Inc.

Working with a state program that assists the handicapped, I can appreciate the wonderful work that is being done to assist these individuals in becoming productive members of society. Attention should be drawn to the attempts of the varied county non-profit programs in placing handicapped individuals in competitive employment, to increase their independence in activities of daily living and in providing opportunities to participate in social activities.

Perhaps if more citizens would volunteer their time in the many programs serving the handicapped throughout the county, one would gain a better understanding of the plight encountered by these individuals in coping with society. Just to see the enthusiasm shared by both participants and volunteers in these programs can give each involved an indescribable feeling of joy.

Garrett Organization for the Handicapped, sponsors of Special Olympics, Hike and Bike, and GOH games, FREE (Riding for the Handicapped), the Appalachian Center, and possibly many other programs are desperately in need of volunteers to assist their leaders.

Maybe we should take time to reflect, within ourselves and along with our ministers, on the many parables taught by Christ in his teaching of brotherhood among all mankind, be they "handicapped" or "normal." Christ spent most of his life among the lame, afflicted, and those most in need.

I hope, with God's help, that every United States citizen is able to exercise the freedom of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Ruth DiPaolo

To the Editor:

I wish to thank publicly Senator Jerry Ash for his support and understanding toward our sexual abuse legislation in West Virginia. Senator Ash had the courage to become involved in a sensitive area that most people choose only to ignore. He was able to understand and present our needs to the state legislature in Charleston. Hopefully, the result will be more effective laws toward sexual abuse. Sometimes we all experience the feeling that the "system" is too large to meet our needs. This is certainly an example that our legislature does work.

Sincerely yours,
Gary L. Kelly,
M.S., Chairperson

request any additional funds from the county.

Dr. Pope said that as the department went through the year, unanticipated increases in expenditures were seen, particularly in operation of the facility in its new location. For a time, it appeared that his department would have to seek additional funds from the county.

A request to the state for more matching funds in the amount of $31,000 was promised, and the department was able to obtain the $22,000 in local monies through management of grants and income and reductions in other use case formula funds from the county.

By making these adjustments, Dr. Pope said he expects his department to finish the year in a break-even situation. The fiscal year officially ended last month.

At the conclusion of Dr. Pope's presentation, the three commissioners signed the revised contract without question or comment.

Dr. Pope said that the six years of construction and renovation have left the health department with a $70,000 loan at the First United National Bank and Trust in Oakland. The debt is expected to be met within the next few months through anticipated state and federal funds.

Goldsborough Responds To "Morale" Editorial

Last week's editorial in The Republican concerning reports of employee morale problems at Garrett Community College brought a response from Board of Trustees Chairman William Goldsborough.

The editorial mentioned a remark by Goldsborough at last week's board meeting that suggested that the college has not received enough help from the local media in attracting students to the college.

Goldsborough told The Republican, "I did not mean to attack the media in my remarks at the board's meeting last week. I meant that the staff at the college should better utilize the media to attract students to enroll at GCC."

Vice Chairman Pat Fischetti concurred, saying the the local media has "been very cooperative" in its work with the college.

State Economic Reps Address Area Business Persons

Secretary Frank DeFrancis of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development told a group of about 80 local business persons and government representatives that the wide variety of innovative financial packages available to aid businesses in Maryland is "second to no state in the union."

DeFrancis said that his department will be establishing a toll-free number that businesses can call to get immediate answers regarding programs offered by the state to aid businesses. "The persons answering the phones will be most knowledgeable, and will be able to answer your questions," he said.

He told the group in attendance at the luncheon meeting at Frostburg State College that his department had been taken to task by the General Assembly's Joint Oversight Committee for failing to focus on businesses already in the state. "Our first focus will be to re-focus our priority on in-state business," DeFrancis commented.

George Ambruster, financial aid officer for the DECD, Stanley Tucker, executive director of the Maryland Small Business Financing Authority, and Benjamin Hacker, of the Maryland Industrial Financing Authority, explained the specifics of some of the programs offered by the DECD, including direct loan programs, loan guarantee programs, and special financing opportunities for minority-owned businesses, including those owned by women.

Tucker said that his agency is not trying to compete with traditional financial institutions, but to "help businesses develop a relationship with a traditional financial institution"

The informational session was coordinated by State Senator John Bambacus. It was attended by Delegate Timothy Finan, Delegate Cass Taylor, and included a surprise visit and short address by Senator Charles Mathias, who said he would lend any support he can to economic development efforts in Western Maryland.

Senator Mathias said that in the past Western Maryland has been a victim of the "roller coaster effect", with the region being hit extra hard by variations in the national economy.

Tom Jones, county development director, who also attended the session Thursday, said that businesses can contact his office at 334-4200 to obtain information on any business assistance program available through the state.

School Board Hears Computer Education Report

Al Ringer, Assistant Superintendent for Instruction, told the Garrett County Board of Education that he was "overwhelmed at the results" of a report on how many students in county schools received at least some computer instruction during the last school year. A total of 3,118 students received some computer instruction, more than half of the 5,150 students enrolled in county schools.

Ringer presented the report at last week's Board of Education meeting, breaking down the level of instruction into three categories.

Receiving nine or more hours of hands-on training were 1,326 students, with another 1,167 receiving three through eight hours. About 625 students got one or two hours of computer instruction.

Ringer told the board that the county has done "more in one year than many counties have done in four or five years," to make computer education available to students. He added that the next step is to develop a computer curriculum, beginning with the elementary schools and working up.

The board unanimously approved the Vocational Education Curriculum guide for the Foods Production Program, which was put together by Mary Ann Shipes in close accordance with the state curriculum guide.

The board also unanimously approved changes in surrogate parent appointment guidelines to bring them into compliance with state guidelines.

A discussion of policies and procedure for released time for students who have jobs or who are taking courses at the college centered around student accountability for released time. Some board members were concerned that students were not attending class or going to work while released from school. No changes were made in the policies or procedures. Clarence Stem, board president, said that the board "does not want to usurp the parents' responsibility" in this matter.

Ringer outlined a schedule for presenting a sampling of "Programs of Significance" to the school board. Among the programs singled out to be presented were the gifted and talented class at Kitzmiller's presentation on the history of Kitzmiller, the planetarium, the emotionally disturbed educational program at Northern Middle School, and the Route 40 School's computer education program.

The board approved the low bidder, Bowman's Construction, to remove a block structure on the Southern High School Athletic Field for the amount of $50.50. The removal of the structure is necessary to proceed with the Project Open Space work in progress at Southern.

The low bidder for the construction of tennis and multi-purpose courts at Southern, also part of the Open Space project, was Arnold Brothers Construction, who bid $62,662.54 , or about $17,000 over the budgeted amount. Assistant Superintendent James Lupis told the board that it may be possible to obtain additional funding from the State Board of Public Works and some federal revenue sharing funds to cover the cost overruns. The board approved the bid award.

The board approved the awarding of the vehicle insurance contract to Erie Insurance Company, represented by the Yoder-Hershberger Agency, whose bid amount was $14,808, or about $28,000 less than the only other bid received.

Michael Sines, director of transportation, presented a proposal to establish some form of communications network for the transportation department. He told the board that a communications system would enable bus drivers to summon help when they run into difficulty in isolated areas, and would enable the office to contact him when he is out in the field, should he be needed. After some discussion of various alternatives, the board authorized Sines to continue investigation of alternatives.

Revisions to school bus specifications policy were approved to come into compliance with state policy

The board voted to approve the Garrett County Federation of Teachers as the designated bargaining representative for supervisory non-certificated employees.

In a related matter, the board voted to uphold the decision of Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent of Schools, in denying leave to GCFT president James Lipscomb to attend a school board meeting on election procedure prior to the non-certificated elections in June. The board found the issue to be moot, as the elections have already been held, and found no evidence that Lipscomb's presence would have had an effect on the outcome of the elections, as the GCFT was represented in the pre-election conferences.

watershed east of Route 495; the area along North Glade Road approximately one half mile west of its intersection with Route 495; and Rock Lodge Road northeast from Deep Creek Lake State Park.

The memo reviewed the history of the mobile home issue in the lake area, stating that the first draft of the zoning ordinance in 1974 permitted mobile homes in all areas of the watershed where other types of single-family dwellings were permitted. That provision was met with strong opposition, resulting in the compromise of allowing mobile homes in the Lake Residential district as a special exception use.

In response to a request from the Deep Creek Lake Appeals Board for appropriate standards for judging mobile home applications, the Planning Commission drafted a set of criteria to assist the board in deciding which neighborhoods and sites were appropriate. The memo stated that unhappiness about the Board's decisions continues along with dislike of having to seek permission from any board.

The memo went on to point out that appeals of zoning board decisions are expensive and are unrealistic for most permanent county residents who live on the fringes of the Watershed.

Another planning concern mentioned in the memo was the shortage of decent, affordable housing in Garrett County, which has resulted in many young Garrett Countians opting to purchase a mobile home to live in until they are in a financial position to replace it with a conventional dwelling.

The memo said that mobile homes have become a housing market reality, comprising 29% of the single family housing units in the United States, in 1980.

A number of residents of the North Glade area spoke in favor of the change, including Bruce Sweitzer, Jr., who had requested the change in March of last year. At the request of the Planning Commission, Sweitzer waited until the updating of the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Area Plan this summer to pursue his request.

Sweitzer told the commission that the concept of mobile homes as "pieces of junk is outdated, unjust, and unfair," and said that requests for exceptions are "cut down one by one by an Appeals Board dominated by lake property owners."

Robert Blasingame requested that buffer zones be included between the two zoning districts, and requested that they be made appropriately wide.

County resident Cindy Stacey spoke in favor of protecting forests and farmland from break-up, and said, "With only about one-tenth of the county included in the watershed, why look at this area for affordable housing? With so little zoning in the county, why relax what we have?"

Planning Commission Chairman Charles "Bus" Bender directed the county planning staff to develop a definition of the term "mobile home," and "permanent foundation"and to prepare individual maps of the Watershed outlining the potential district boundaries for members of the commission to study.

After approval by the Planning Commission, the updated Deep Creek Lake Watershed Area Plan will be submitted to the Board of County Commissioners for a 60 day review period, followed by a public hearing. If adopted by the County Commissioners, the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning ordinance will be revised to reflect any changes in the plan.

The next Planning Commission meeting will be August 8. Included on the agenda will be requests from Penn Point Associates and Patrick McCann, Marsh Hill Road, for zoning changes. A third development project will be presented to the Planning Commission for the first time at the meeting.

onto the roadway. Emergency personnel used absorbents and sand to contain the leak; however, some 100 residents were asked by state police to leave their homes until the situation was secure.

Garrett Central Alarm dispatched the Northern Rescue Squad, the Friendsville, Deep Creek, Grantsville and Accident volunteer fire departments, as well as the air cascade unit from Deer Park. The Bittinger fire department was placed on stand-by at their station while the Salisbury, Pa., fire company stood by at the Grantsville station. Other personnel at the scene included those from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, the Maryland State Police, Department of Natural Resources and civil defense.

The driver was charged with failing to maintain his brakes in working order and failing to comply with regulations pertaining to the transporting of hazardous materials.

Council Submits Bid For World Whitewater Event

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council has submitted a proposal to the American Canoe Association to host the Whitewater World Championships on the Savage River in Garrett County in 1989.

In its 35-year history these races have never been held in the United States. The race sites have consistently been in Europe with the exception of 1979 when they were in Canada.

The Whitewater World Championships attract nearly 650 competitors from 20 countries. The races would last for a two to three-week period in June of 1989 and would attract thousands of spectators from around the world, according to Cindy Kutchman, executive director of the Promotion Council.

The American Canoe Association will select a United States site in August and will then recommend that site to the International Canoe Federation which will make the final decision in October.

The proposal was a combined effort of the Promotion Council, the Garrett County Development Corporation, Demaree Inflatable Boats and Savage River State Forest.

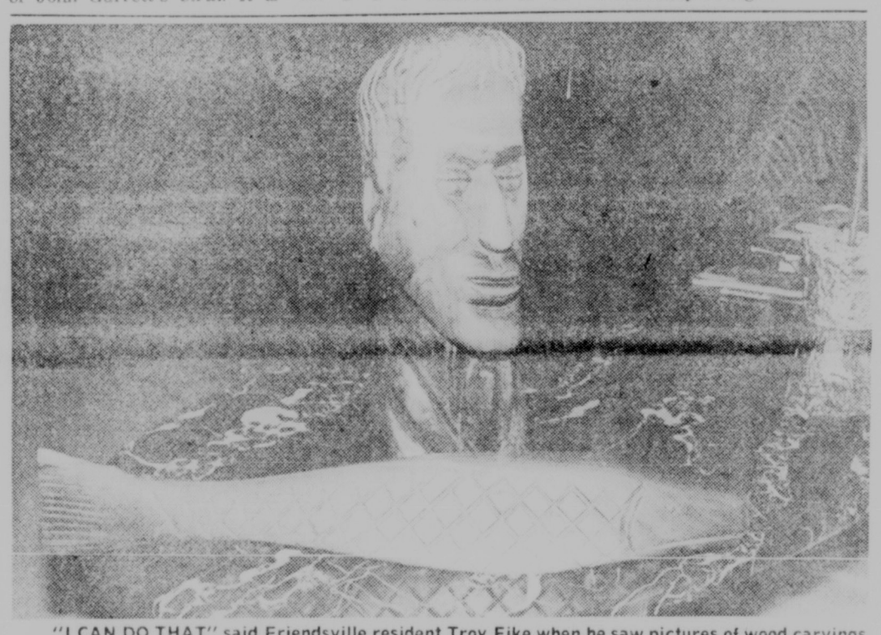
Noted Historian To Give Program On Garrett, B&O

Throughout Maryland this year, communities are sponsoring festivities and scholarly events to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the first Maryland colonists. One of these events will be a talk by Dr. John F. Stover on "John W. Garrett and his Railroad to the West."

The presentation by Dr. Stover will be in the auditorium of Garrett Community College, McHenry, beginning at 7:30 p.m., on Tuesday, July 31, which is the 164th anniversary of John Garrett's birth. It is open to the public at no charge.



Stover's lecture will describe the significance of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, with major emphasis on the long and vital presidency of John Garrett, the man for whom Maryland's westernmost county was named in 1872. Garrett was an important railroad leader in his era, and more than tripled the size of his railroad during the 26 years of his presidency (1858-1884).

Dr. Stover is a Professor Emeritus of History at Purdue University. Besides being the author of eight books and numerous articles on railroads and transportation history, he recently completed a comprehensive, 92,000-word history of the B & O Railroad to be published next year by the University of North Carolina Press.

For more information persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake - Garrett County Promotion Council (301) 334-3888.

Bambacus Slates Meeting Between Farmers, DNR

Sen. John Bambacus announced this week he has arranged a meeting between concerned farmers and Department of Natural Resource personnel to discuss the severe damage caused to crops by deer. The meeting will be next Wednesday, August 1, at 7 p.m. in the auditorium at Garrett Community College.

"I CAN DO THAT" said Friendsville resident Troy Fike when he saw pictures of wood carvings in art books, and so he has. The creative 64 year old began about three years ago to "whittle" at blocks of wood and the results are presently on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. Fike says he got the idea for the man's head from a television program on the Irish famine and the fish was a trial to test his carving of scales. Using blocks of walnut obtained from area sawmills, from friends, or from trees in the vicinity, Fike whittles away at a workbench in his basement, chiefly during the winter whenever he goes to check on the fire, he says. The artist is a county native and served in the Pacific theatre during World War II. He says of the county that "I like it here as well as any place I've been." He and his wife, the former Mary Jane Tallentire, of Glade Farms, W. Va., built or "carved" a home at the corner of Third and Chestnut Streets in Friendsville about four years ago and when not tending their bit of garden, like to drive and visit places, and attend church. It was through a former pastor, Rev. Lee, that Mr. Fike became interested in carving. Mr. Fike is now semi-retired, after having worked for many years in the carpentry business. Most recently he was supervisor of buildings and grounds at Garrett Community College, a position he had held for five years. He modestly says of his whittling that he would "like to do a really nice piece sometime."

Planners To Meet August 8, Discuss Zoning Changes

A third development project will be presented to the Planning Commission for the first time at the meeting.

North Branch Miners Continue Wildcat Strike

Approximately 300 miners at the North Branch division of Island Creek Coal Company pulled a wildcat strike on second shift Monday, and only a small percentage of miners have returned to work despite a temporary restraining order issued in Elkins Tuesday.

According to Cliff Neal, personnel department official from the Craigsville, W. Va. office, miners at the Bayard site refused to go in to work Monday at 4 p.m. in a dispute over job postings by the company.

Island Creek officials sought and obtained an injunction from Judge Robert Maxwell in Elkins ordering the miners to return to work through August 31. Some miners on the 8 a.m. shift Wednesday went to work but Neal confirmed this morning that the return was limited.

Union officials of Local 2478, North Branch, have scheduled a meeting this afternoon at 2 p.m. to further discuss the problems. Miners at Dobbin Mine, near Bayard, have not yet joined the strikers in a work stoppage.

Jennings U.M. Church To Hold Special Homecoming

The Jennings United Methodist Church near Grantsville, will hold its annual Homecoming this Sunday, July 29, an event which will be somewhat special this year since the congregation will be celebrating the church's 75th anniversary.

Sunday School will begin at 9 a.m., followed by worship at 10:15. Former ministers of the parish will be the guest speakers.

A covered dish meal will be served at 12:30 p.m., followed by an afternoon of gospel music beginning at 2 p.m., featuring the Ullery Family of Cumberland. Rev. Powell Hall, pastor, invites the public to attend all of these events.

The first meeting of the building committee of the Jennings Methodist Church met March 16, 1909, at Jennings Brothers' Store to discuss plans to build a church, as provided in the Charter of 1907, recorded in Oakland. Rev. D.A. Friend was the first pastor of the congregation and the first trustees were H.A. Groves, R.H. Butler, John Blocher, George Wiley, John Huff and James J. Wiley.

A lot was purchased from Lewis A. Yommer for the sum of $100. It adjoined the Jennings School property on the Hare Hollow Road.

The contract for construction of the church was awarded to A.L. Plummer of Frostburg on June 29, 1909, for the sum of $1,350, plus $40 for a steeple. The cornerstone was donated by J.C. Uiams Co., Frostburg. The building was completed in the summer of 1910.

During the pastorate of Rev. H.E. Suite, an addition consisting of a Sunday School room, kitchen and furnace room was added.

A vestibule was added and the building was stone veneered in 1968. Window panes were also replaced with stained glass that same year.

Two years later a new furnace was installed and, after paying off all indebtedness in 1973, final plans were made for the renovation of the sanctuary.

In the past ten years, the building has had a new roof, two restrooms, storage space and a new classroom added. Last year the Sunday School room was remodeled with paneling, carpeting and a lowered ceiling.

State Police Investigate Area Auto Accidents

Maryland State Police investigated several auto accidents in the area this week, none of which resulted in serious injury.

A two-vehicle mishap occurred Sunday evening at approximately 5:25 p.m. on Rt. 135 at the intersection of the Deer Park Hotel Road.

According to police reports, Laura Ann Liller, 19, Murrysville, Pa., was the operator of a 1979 Toyota Corolla that had stopped at the intersection on the Deer Park Hotel Road. She reportedly failed to yield the right-of-way to a vehicle that was proceeding eastbound on Rt. 135 and pulled out in front of a 1982 Cadillac being driven by Gerald Raymond Iman, 67, Kitzmiller.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad reported to the scene and transported Liller, and her passenger, Tracy Butterworth, 18, also of Murrysville, to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where they were both treated and released.

Tfc. R.C. Resh charged Liller with failing to yield right-of-way.

A parked vehicle was struck in a mishap which occurred in Mt. Lake Park, at approximately 2 a.m. on Sunday morning.

Reports indicate that a 1974 Chevrolet Chevelle being driven by Thomas Charles Carr, 25, Oakland, was westbound on Spruce Street, when he ran off the left side of the roadway and struck a vehicle owned by Willard L. Donham, Mt. Lake Park, and then struck a utility pole.

Tfc. R.J. Resh charged Carr with negligent driving and driving while intoxicated. There were no injuries reported.

A two-vehicle mishap was reported on Tuesday evening at approximately 6:40 p.m. on Oak Street in Oakland.

According to police reports, a 1980 Chevrolet Chevette being driven by Wanda Sue Liller, 26, Mt. Lake Park, was southbound on Oak Street. Liller stopped abruptly to allow another vehicle to pull onto the roadway when a vehicle behind her being driven by Michael Edward Madigan, 23, Deer Park, failed to reduce speed and struck the Liller vehicle in the rear.

Liller, nor her passengers, Ashley Liller, 1, and Justin Liller, 2, were uninjured, as was Madigan and his passenger, Mark Madigan, 19, also of Deer Park.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman charged Madigan with exceeding the posted speed limit.

A two-vehicle accident occurred Thursday night at approximately 9:45 p.m. along Rt. 135, just west of the Swanton Hill Road.

According to reports, a 1976 Plymouth being operated by Christina Elaine Poland, 37, Oakland, along with her passengers, Becky Poland, 16, and Wendy Poland, 13, was westbound on Rt. 135 when a deer ran out in front of her vehicle. Poland applied her brakes causing the car to skid out of control and cross the center line. The Poland vehicle than struck a 1983 Toyota longbed being driven by Kathryn Evelyn Barnard, 58, Swanton.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney investigated the mishap. There were no injuries or charges.

A vehicle fire was reported on July 18, at approximately 1 p.m., on Rt. 42, just south of the Buffalo Run Road, near Friendsville.

According to reports, Cheryl Ann Stein, 19, Grantsville, was driving her 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo enroute to her home when she observed smoke coming from behind the front seat. Thinking she could make it ¼ mile to her residence, she continued until flames started behind the seat. She stopped in order to get her passengers, Brandon Stein, 2, and Duane Stein, 5, out of the vehicle.

Police reports indicate that the floor pan was rusted out over the exhaust system and that apparently caused the floor mats to burn.

Tfc. R.C. George investigated. There were no injuries or charges.

Seven Computer Courses Offered By Garrett CC

Garrett Community College will be expanding the computer courses for the fall semester, according to a news release from William P. Ewing, director of admissions. Seven courses will be offered in the fall term, which begins on September 10.

Two of the courses will be offered through the Business Division.

Keyboarding will meet on Mondays from 1-2:30 p.m. This course will familiarize students with a computer keyboard. Word Processing Applications will meet on Mondays from 2:30-3:30 p.m. This course will aid students' skill development through the use of electronic typewriters, text editing equipment, and machine transcribers.

The Math and Science Division will be offering the other five courses.

The Introduction to Computer Science course will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3-4:30 p.m., or Monday nights from 6:30-9:30. This course is designed to help students understand how computers operate and how they are used.

The Introduction to Computer Programming class will meet on Tuesday nights from 6:30-9:30. This class provides students with a problem-oriented approach to computer programming in the BASIC Language.

The newest computer offering this fall is the Introduction to COBOL. Two sections of this course will be offered; one section will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3-4:30 and the other on Tuesday nights from 6:30-9:30. This course is an introduction to the most widely used business programming language in the world. Students will receive hands-on experience through terminals connected to the college's IBM System 36 Mainframe Computer.

The seven courses represent the largest number of computer courses the college has ever offered, Ewing said. Space is limited due to lab time required in most of the courses. All of the above computer courses for the fall semester are college-credit courses and are located on the McHenry campus.

BPW Planning State Meeting, Fair Food Booth

Plans are underway for the fall board meeting of the Maryland Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs slated November 9 and 10 at the Village Inn at McHenry and for the Garrett Club's food booth at the county fair August 13 through 18.

These and numerous other topics were discussed at the July 12 board meeting of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club at GCC.

President Phyllis Buckel is working out details with the Village Inn on rooms needed and workshops to be held. The local club is to sponsor a workshop November 9 and will be approaching staff at GCC and Frostburg State to serve as speakers.

Bea Crosco will be in charge of a craft table the club will offer at the fall board meeting. The group decided to sponsor a craft table at the fall state meeting rather than have a craft auction at the Christmas meeting.

Several members have donated their time and skills to paint the club's fair booth and plumbing work has been completed by Gene Flinn. Ruth DiPaolo of the Grantsville club donated a grill for the booth which will be open from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. or later. Pat White is chairman of the work schedule committee and Pat Bobo is foods chairman

Club To March

Club members are being asked to march in the Maryland 350th parade in Friendsville August 4. Children are encouraged to attend this free program which will show them how to use their imaginations to entertain others, and teach them that acting is fun.

The library workshops in the performing arts will culminate on August 21 with a talent show at the Oakland library starring Reading Club children. The talent show will emphasize participation and fun rather than expertise, and all children are encouraged to perform. The librarians at Oakland will be glad to talk with children about ideas for entering the show, and a special workshop on August 14 will help with advice on costume and makeup for talent show participants.

Corn Rootworm Beetles

The emergence of this beetle will soon be underway. Although you cannot do anything for control this year, you should be aware of their presence so control measures can be taken next spring. There are two common species in our area—the Northern and Southern Corn Rootworm. We may find a new species moving in—the Western Corn Rootworm. The Northern and Western Rootworms can cause economic damage while the Southern species does not. The three species are similar in size but differ in coloration. The Northern Corn Rootworm Beetle is solid green or tan, while the Western species are yellow with black stripes. The Southern species are yellow with black spots, also called the spotted cucumber beetle. All corn fields where rootworms can be a problem should be sampled now at weekly intervals through Mid-August. Late-planted or late maturing fields attract more beetles so be sure to scout these fields. Scout five different locations per 40 acres and count the number of beetles on 10 plants at each site. Avoid scouting too close to the field edges which tends to contain unusually large numbers of beetles. Approach each plant cautiously to avoid disturbing the beetles. Examine the plant from top to bottom checking leaves, stalk, tassel and the ear, particularly the silks. Do not count the Southern Rootworm Beetle. Determine the average number of beetles per plant. If you find an average of two or more rootworm beetles per plant, a rootworm control measure will be warranted next spring. If corn is to be planted in the same field, a rootworm soil insecticide will be necessary next spring.

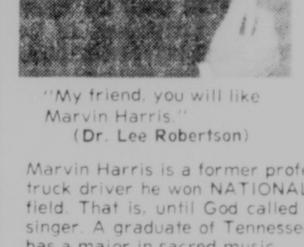
Sooty Molds On Small Grains

As I travel around the county I have noticed some sooty molds on grain heads. The visual symptoms are very blackened heads and sometimes even blackened leaves and stems. Sooty mold is sometimes mistaken for the serious disease called glume blotch. Sooty molds can be distinguished from glume blotch by rubbing the blackened heads with your fingers. Sooty mold will rub off on your fingers and glume blotch will not rub off. Yield losses have not been attributed to sooty mold. Why so much sooty mold this year? The molds are more likely to occur during wet years such as this year.

1985 Feed Grain Program Planned, Comments Invited

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service State Committee chairman, Olin S. Davis, Jr., invited Maryland residents to help develop the 1985 feed grain program by submitting ideas and recommendations to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Before announcing the program, USDA will study public comments received by August 6, along with current data on domestic and world feed grain crop conditions.



Program decisions to be made include whether next year's program should contain a voluntary reduction percentage, acreage reduction, set-aside or land diversion program provisions. Davis said comments should include a recommended level for these requirements. Davis also said that current law stipulates that if USDA estimates the quantity of corn on hand in the United States on September 30, 1985, will exceed

Youth Conservation Corps Contributes To Conservation Of State Lands, Bay

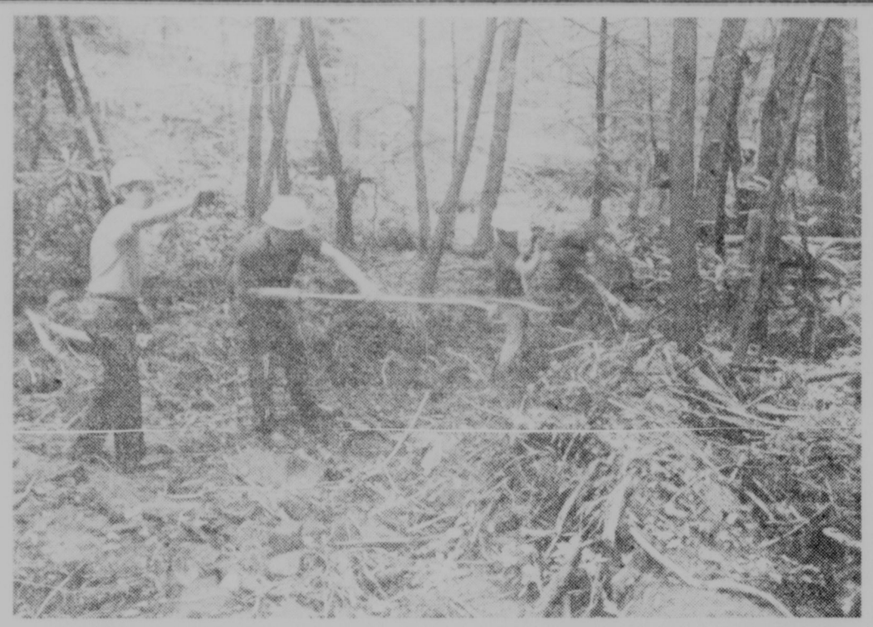
Sixteen Garrett County youth are obtaining valuable work adjustment skills while having a positive impact on the environment of the county's State Parks, and eventually on the health of the threatened Chesapeake Bay, according to supervisors of the Western Maryland Consortium Office's Maryland Youth Conservation Corps program.

The youth, who were selected and hired by the consortium office, have been working on state-owned lands in the New Germany area since late in June. They have already cleared a number of areas of clogged stream beds, which will help prevent flash flooding that can wash out roads and cause new pollution and drainage problems.

Other projects of the conservation crews have been the clean-up of a major trash dump in the Blue Lick area, and construction of a road along Blue Lick Stream, which will allow better access to state land by lumber contractors for necessary forest thinning work, as well as by members of the public who want to utilize the area for fishing.

Lisa Baker, one of two crew supervisors and a conservation and wildlife graduate of the University of Maryland, said, "I hope the crew members are getting an appreciation of the importance of taking care of the environment. We would like to take all the participants on a trip to see the Chesapeake Bay, so they can see what all this is about."

She explained that erosion control and conservation efforts in Garrett County do have an effect on the bay, since runoff (of soil, fertilizer, pesticides, etc.) in these headwater regions eventually reaches the Bay. "Every little bit helps (or hurts)," she commented.



The crew will be constructing a fishing access trail, working on stream-bank stabilization, and other conservation projects in the remaining month of the program.

During the bad weather, the crews perform maintenance tasks on equipment such as chain saws, brush hooks, axes, and shovels, under the direction of Russell Alexander, Jr., crew supervisor.

They will participate in a soil conservation orientation program conducted by the Department of Natural Resources sometime in August.

DNR hired the supervisors for the project, as well as supplying health insurance, hard hats, and some work clothing for the participants. They provided and operated the heavy equipment on the road-building project.

Coordinator of the program at the local consortium office is Linda Weeks, who visits the crews on a regular basis to follow the progress of the project.

CLEARING A STREAM BED in the Blue Lick area, above, are three members of the Maryland Youth Conservation Corps. The Corps, a cooperative effort of the Western Maryland Consortium Office and the Department of Natural Resources, is doing conservation work this summer on state-owned land in the New Germany area to reduce erosion and pollution to streams which eventually drain into the threatened Chesapeake Bay. Pictured below left to right, are crew members Donald J. Kisner, Cindy Mulliken, Timothy Kisner, Doug Broadwater, Dale Severe, Clarence Stemple, Tim Dumire, crew supervisors Lisa Baker and Russell Alexander, Jr., DNR conservation aide Hubert Broadwater, Jobs Training Partnership Act Supervisor Sue Shockey, and local MYCC coordinator Linda Weeks.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz reports that more and more Maryland woodland owners are taking advantage of the Forest Conservation and Management program and as a result are realizing tax savings on their woodland property.

The forest conservation and management program is administered by the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Department of Natural Resources, as an incentive to woodland owners to keep or develop their lands for productive woodland purposes. The program provides for the freezing of the tax assessment of the woodland property at the time an agreement is signed with the Department. Woodland owners need only five or more acres to qualify for the program, but must abide by a forest resource management plan approved by the Director of the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service. The forest resource management plan provides for a healthy forest that provides timber, reduces soil erosion, improves wildlife habitat and provides open space for recreation.

A landowner, to receive a frozen tax assessment, must follow a written schedule of forest management practices for a minimum of fifteen years. Prior to July 1, 1984, the minimum length of the contract was ten years. If the agreement is terminated before 15 years, the property will be reassessed. The property must be inspected every five years to assure compliance with the management plan schedule. Failure to meet the practice schedule may result in termination of the contract. The contract can be renewed indefinitely if forest management practices are approved and continued.

A Forest Conservation Management Agreement (FCMA) is a long-term commitment to forest management that has a side benefit of tax savings. If FCMA holders fail to follow the mandatory schedule, it could turn out to be an expensive proposition when the property is reassessed and back taxes required, Metz said. There is a charge made by the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service to enter the program and for re-inspections. There now is a penalty for the termination of an agreement as a result of noncompliance. These charges cover administrative costs and enable the Department to continue offering the program as an incentive for woodland management.

To find out more about the Forest Conservation and Management Program, persons may contact Metz at (301) 334-3296.

Maryland Recycling Directory Updated

A new Maryland Recycling Directory has been released by the Maryland Environmental Service. This updated version replaces a similar directory issued in 1982.

The new directory will aid individuals and organizations in Maryland seeking to raise funds while cleaning up the environment. It includes a listing of purchasers of recyclable materials such as aluminum, glass, high grade paper and newsprint. In addition the directory contains tips about purchaser's requirements, such as cleaning, sorting, separating and quantities of materials.

The directory format has also been changed to make it easier for users to locate purchasers by county and materials. It also includes the hours of operation and telephone numbers for each company. Organizations which accept materials as donations are also included in the directory.

The 1984 recycling directory will be automatically mailed to individuals and organizations currently on the MES mailing list. Others may obtain a copy by writing to Ms. Hilary Tatem, Recycling Coordinator, Maryland Environmental Service, 60 West Street, Annapolis, MD 21401. Ms. Tatem suggests that persons wishing to receive a copy of the directory now use the telephone, but instead make requests in writing. It is also suggested that they wait a week or two before writing to be certain they will not receive a copy of the directory as a result of already being on the MES mailing list.

Funding for the 1984 Recycling Directory was provided by the U.S. Department of Energy under a contract with the Maryland Energy Office.

Board Approves Resolution For Kitzmiller Water

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution Tuesday to agree to set up sale of bonds which will be used to guarantee the local share for the Kitzmiller water project. The local share is $180,000 and will be obtained from loans through the Farmers Home Administration.

The Kitzmiller sanitary district will repay the loan over the next 40 years through an ad valorem tax. Interest on the loan is five percent, according to Wendell Beitzel, sanitary district administrator.

The county commissioners' signing of the resolution is a formality to satisfy FHA funding requirements.

Roads Program

Oakland-Sang Run Road is expected to begin in the near future, according to Metheny and Foster.

Foster said that work on roads in the Accident area began last week, with work slated to begin in the Grantsville area soon.

Round Glade Landfill

Metheny said that he met with John Smariga, engineer from Harris-Smariga and Associates, the firm contracted to perform engineering and permit work for the vertical expansion of the Round Glade Landfill. He said that Smariga is going ahead with the first phase of the permit application phase of the process, which Metheny said is necessary to expedite due to the fact that the trench currently in use at the landfill is rapidly filling up, and another trench will be needed before inclement weather sets in.

Smariga is also working on specifications for proposals to develop an additional landfill site in the northern end of the county.

Limestone Bridge

Metheny reported that work on the Limestone Bridge in the Friendsville area is progressing, with the second abutments being poured this week, to be followed immediately by the deck work.

Other Roads Matters

Work on the Blaine Frantz Road has been put on hold while the roads department conducts a traffic count to determine the level of usage on the road. Further work on the road would require the moving of 14 telephone poles, at an estimated cost of $13,820, and a 90 day waiting period while the poles are moved. The 90 day waiting period would not allow much time for road construction during the remainder of this construction season, according to Metheny.

Park Adopts Tillie Frank, Floodplain Ordinances

After swearing in ceremonies for reelected councilmen Margo Vandiver, Welton Lane, and Tommy Ritchey Tuesday night, the Mt. Lake Park mayor and council adopted the Tillie Frank ordinance which exempts the town from all but five of the county ordinances.

These five concern sludge control, dog control, junkyards, erosion and sediment control, and stormwater management. These are the five the town wishes the county to enforce.

The town fathers also took action to adopt the state's floodplain ordinance, requiring that anyone wishing to build a home or development in a floodplain must obtain state approval. This will give citizens in floodplain areas the chance to obtain flood insurance.

There was some discussion of the failing septic system grants for Broadford Road and completion of the Little Youghiogheny Plaza sewer system. The grants are awaiting approval by the state Board of Public Works, and Mayor Russell Alexander was hopeful approval would be granted this week.

Ray and Cecil Kight appeared before the council to discuss proposed acquisition by the town of property owned by the brothers.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Woodell presented the town with a birds-eye view of the community in 1906. Dr. Woodell had obtained a reproduction of the picture which presently hangs in the Library of Congress and had it enlarged. The framed result will hang in the town hall.

The town's next regular meeting will be August 9.

Illegal Entries, Thefts Reported To Local Sheriff

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department investigated reports of several thefts and breaking and enterings this week. There were also three reports of destruction of property.

Sometime between April and July 14, damage occurred to a summer residence on Rt. 495 owned by William Mantler, Baltimore, when unknown subjects shattered a bedroom window to gain entrance to the home. The subjects removed eight sets of curtains, a medicine cabinet, and a toilet tank lid. Another bedroom window was damaged, a storm door was ripped from the hinges and removed, and an obscene statement was etched into the wood siding of the cottage. Deputy Richard Kutchman is investigating.

N. Criss Browning reported that sometime between July 9 and July 22 unknown persons entered a concrete building on his property on the Sang Run Road and removed an antique copper Westinghouse washing machine and approximately 80 to 100 glass building blocks. The loss is estimated to be $500 to $1,000. Deputy Larry Gnegy is handling the investigation.

During the week of July 8, Valley View Rentals, Mosser Road, reported that unknown renters removed a G.E. black and white television set valued at $90. Deputy Kutchman investigated.

William Ray Kisner, Rt. 5, Oakland, reported that someone stole $54 worth of food stamps from his mailbox on the Oakland-Sang Run Road on July 12. Deputy D. W. Tucker is investigating.

In the early morning hours of July 19 and 20 three separate destructions of property took place on the Oakland-Deer Park Road, King's Run Road, and Rt. 495. Three vehicles had windows shattered by gun fire on July 19. Then on July 20 the culprits returned to the scene on Rt. 495 and broke the front windshield of the same vehicle. Total loss is undetermined. Deputy P. K. Buckel is investigating.

Hildy Pollard, Hagerstown, reported damage to her summer home, Allegheny Cottage, Mt. Lake Park, took place sometime between July 8 and July 12. Unknown persons smashed two bedroom windows and one hallway window with small rocks found inside the cottage. A screen door had been damaged by some sparklers left burning there. This is the third incident of vandalism at the cottage since November. Anyone with information concerning this case should contact the Sheriff's Department. Deputy Larry Gnegy is continuing his investigation.

Mary E. Beckman, an employee of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, reported that someone cracked her windshield while her car was parked in the lot of that facility. Loss is estimated at $200. Deputy Kutchman investigated.

Rawlings Man Is Charged After Police Chase

A Rawlings man continues to be held in the Garrett County jail this morning on $1,000 bond after he was apprehended last night following a police chase.

Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Nolan attempted to pull Dailey Franklin Lewis, Jr., 33, over for speeding as he was traveling on Rt. 39, west of Oakland.

Lewis refused to stop and Deputy Nolan pursued Lewis through Rosedale until he finally pulled over near the old Sterling Processing plant. Nolan ordered Lewis to remain in his vehicle, however Lewis disregarded Nolan's orders and fled through the trees on foot. Garrett County Deputies Larry Gnegy and Philip Buckle arrived on the scene to assist in the search for Lewis. The officers apprehended the suspect at apartment 210 in the Bradley Manor housing complex.

Lewis was taken to the county jail facility where he was charged with driving while intoxicated, fleeing or eluding a police officer, speeding, driving on a suspended or revoked license, failing to have proper registration in his possession and displaying improper tags.

Oakland police officer Cpl. Ron Beeghly assisted county deputies in the apprehension of the man.

COUNTY AMBULANCE SERVICES EARN AWARD — Southern and Northern Garrett County Rescue Squads recently achieved Certificates of Excellence through the Maryland Voluntary Ambulance Inspection Program. Sponsored by the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services and the State Firemen's Association, the inspection program calls for ambulance services to meet strict staffing and equipment standards. Under the leadership of Terry Spears, president, and Wes Bender, captain, the Northern Squad had both ambulance 921 and 926 meet the standards. Rayma Weeks, president, and William Frankhouser, captain, coordinated Southern's efforts for ambulance 930 and 932 to meet the criteria. The inspection of the ambulances was conducted over the past several months by David Ramsey, regional EMS administrator. In addition to reviewing ambulance inventories and staffing patterns, Ramsey evaluated oxygen and suction equipment for performance accuracy. William Turnbull, Region I EMS Council President, stated, "The residents of Garrett County are fortunate to have such fine ambulance services and dedicated individuals who strive to provide the best in emergency medical services." In the photo, left to right, are Phil Rook, vice president of Southern Rescue; Wes Bender; David Ramsey; Brian Lenhart and Loretta Rush, both members of Northern Rescue.
